Show Experience Grants Hitz Beef Championship

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Show judge Gail Long called some of them "cantankerous" steers, but champion Leigh Hitz knows better.

Leigh's supremely bred, shown, and well-behaved 1,230-pound Chianina/Angus April 14 calf, bred in the county, won champion overall market honors Wednesday at the Lebanon Fair Beef Show.

And experience in several beef exhibitions, including recent shows in Louisville, Ky. and other locations, helped Leigh win several other honors at the Lebanon show, including champion blocking, medium weight, and 4-H fair market classes.

Leigh, 16, Annville, a senior at Annville-Cleona High School, has been exhibiting in shows since she was 9 years old. Formerly the national Chianina Queen, Leigh obtained the steer from a commercial herd.

The market championship came from the medium weight division, because, according to Long, speaking about the heavyweights, packers "are not looking for animals over 1,300 pounds anymore," and the champion steer looked "real straight," he said. "It is lined nice and well balanced."

Princess Begins Reign

EVA MARTIN
Maryland Correspondent

FREDERICK, MD. — Jenell Rinehart of Taneytown, Md., was crowned the 1991 Maryland Dairy Princess at the 13th coronation held in the Grand Ballroom of the Holiday Inn. She is the 18-year-old daughter of John and Sharon Rinehart.

Five other contestants, who were winners of their area contests, competed for the state crown: Tonya Broadwater, Alleghany-Garrett; Dawn Downey, Washington County; Donna Johnson, South Central; Gretchen Klein, Baltimore-Harford; and Crystal Smith, Frederick.

The program began with a beautiful slide presentation by Becky Long, Associate Farm Editor for Frederick Post. The rural Maryland scenes with dairy promotion activities were set to patriotic music.

The contestants and audience were welcomed by Steve Wilson, a dairy farmer from Baltimore County who served as master of ceremonies. The judges for the contest were Mrs. Betty Jane Hunt, Lambertville, New Jersey, a dairy princess coordinator; Mr. Donald Tindall, Richmond, Virginia, editor of Cooperative Farm Magazine by Southern States; and

Dairy Of Distinction Supplement

Editor's notes: The Umble brothers, Scott, 3; Jordan, 7, and Brandon, 10, live on a typical Dairy of Distinction farm in Chester County. The boys, sons of Ken and Marylin Umble, help us congratulate the winners in a special supplement with this issue.

Ag Progress Issue

Next week's issue will feature full Ag Progress Days preparation coverage. You'll find maps, lists of exhibitors, and program guides to help you find your way at Penn State's research farm at Rockspring. In addition, we'll have numerous articles that give background on the many subjects covered at this machinery demonstration and educational attraction.

Ag Showcase Grows Again In Cecil County

FAIR HILL, Md. —Because of the rain, questions remained Monday evening if the Ag Showcase at the Cecil County Fair would be held as scheduled. But dawn Tuesday morning broke clear and beautiful, to start what was called the most successful of the 10-year annual program of field equipment demonstrations held at Fair Hill Farms near the site of the Fair.

"The committee met Monday evening," Ted Hass, Cecil County agent said. "And we decided to make the call early the next morning. The day turned out beautiful and 300 farmers, many from Pennsylvania, came to the demonstrations."

Over 40 pieces of field equipment were displayed in active field demonstrations. In may demonstrations, farmers were able to "jump on" and operate the equipment. While the rain made the hay too wet to bail in most cases, the large round bailers did get in a little work by afternoon.

Other equimpent on display included: corn planters, choppers, combines, no-till drills, manure spreaders, loaders, rakes, mower

N.E. Chicken Parts

August 1, 1991

Trucklot buying interest remained mixed but was improving overall, inquiry was most active for short supplies of bone-in-breasts. Boneless skinless breasts were barely adequate to short for immediate shipment with spot offerings noted available for delivery next week. Leg items were in tighter supply, particularly legs and leg quarters. Wings were in excess and slow to clear.

New York And Philadelphia Frozen Eggs

Edison, N.J.
Tuesday, July 30, 1991

Prices were generally unchanged. Trading activity was light with most breakers holding product with confidence. Raw materials were usually readily available, but most further processors were content to limit receipts to regular commitments. Floor stocks were fully adequate.

National Egg Market

July 31, 1991

Prices were generally lower on mediums in the Northeast and Midwest, balance unchanged. Trade sentiment was steady to weak, mostly about steady on large, and barely steady to weak for mediums. Demand was mixed, and mostly moderate. Supplies of the large sizes were generally adequate, and mediums were adequate to ample. Breakers provided a light demand for the adequate supplies of heavy nest run, and the increased offerings of lighter weights. Live hen markets were steady in the Midwest, and fully steady to firm in the East and South Central areas where offerings were short of the good demand.

Eastern PA & NJ Poultry

July 31, 1991

Prices trending higher on light type fowl and too few sales to report on heavy hens. Offerings have slowed and are about adequate on lights but short of needs on heavy hens. Demand good. Undertone fully steady to firm.

Delmarva Broiler Fryer

August 1, 1991

FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook broiler fryers was fair to fairly good. Supplies were adequate for immediate needs. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged to lower at 47 - 56 cents. Live supplies were adequate, with average live weights in a full range. Processing schedules were heavy. Trade sentiment was generally steady. In the parts complex, breast items were in good balance to short, leg items were adequate, wings were adequate to ample and generally slow to clear.

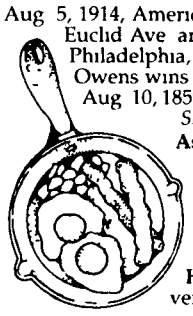
THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

AUG. 5-11, 1991

Dog days end, Aug. 11.

Aug 5, 1914, America's first traffic light is installed in Cleveland at the corner of Euclid Ave and East 105th St Aug 7, 1888, Theophilus Van Kannel of Philadelphia, patents the revolving door Aug 9, 1936, American Jesse Owens wins four gold medals in track at the Olympic Games in Berlin Aug 10, 1859, Massachusett's first Inspector of Milk is appointed in Boston



Step after step the ladder is ascended

Ask the Old Farmer: Aren't a spider and a skillet both frying pans? I say yes, my friend, no Who's right? D A , Ill

You are Both are frying pans, the spider being larger than the skillet Originally, frying pans were designed for use in a fireplace and had long legs, like a spider Skillet, we think, is a distortion of 'skellat,' which was a sort of hand bell or rattle

Home Hints: A piece of charcoal in your toolbox will help prevent tools from becoming rusty

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: A few showers persist until midweek, but cloudy skies and cooler temperatures claim the week's second half Rain returns on the weekend

Greater New York-New Jersey: The week begins with rain, heavy south, and cooler weather Midweek brings thundershowers and cool temperatures, then seasonable

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Most of the week is rainy with cooler than normal temperatures Expect sunshine with some interspersed showers on the weekend

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Thundershowers boom through most of the week, and temperatures are mild Then clearing and sunny, but temperatures remain cool

You'll Get Higher Test Weights With Hoffman 89 Wheat

And we've got university trials to prove it

It's a fact. In 1989 and 1990 trials conducted by the Pennsylvania State University, Hoffman 89 wheat topped the field everytime.

In Centre County, its two-year average test weight of 58.4 lb/bu beat the average by 3.5 lb/bu. And in Lancaster County, Hoffman 89 posted an average 54.8 lb/bu test weight compared to a field average of 51.0.

With test weights like these, you'll get full price for every bushel of wheat you produce. And that's money in the bank. Talk to your Hoffman sales representative today, or call Hoffman Seeds toll free: 800-776-7929.

OPINION

Dairy Of Distinction: A Viable Program

Additions were added to the list of recognized Dairy of Distinction farms again this year. Sixty-seven farms were named in Pennsylvania's 10 districts in 1991 to bring the total over the last five years to 420.

Each year local volunteer committees undertake the ambitious task to select the most attractive dairy farms. Teams of judges survey the farms that have applied for the designation. Scores are given to each farm for appearance as viewed from the public highway or farm entrance.

Attractive farmsteads have an appeal to the public. As Dan Baker, program president and a dairyman from Tioga County says, "Clean and neat farms sell milk."

With the high cost of milk promotion, it is nice to see a program that is run by volunteers on a very low cost budget.

The Dairy of Distinction farms are a great asset to the dairy industry. And without the volunteers the Dairy of Distinction would not be successful. So we congratulate the winning farms and thank the volunteers who have again made the 1991 Dairy of Distinction program a viable dairy promotion and beautification program.

EDITOR:

Having just read PFA President Keith Eckel's article (Keystone Dairymen Could Lose $1.05 Premiums) under the new dairy legislation being considered in Congress, I find it very amazing that Mr. Eckle expresses concern about this, as PFA helped reduce the premiumn at the last milk board hearing. PFA and Farm Bureau are also still trying along with USDA and trade representatives to reduce the dairymen's milk price at the farm level to be able to export dairy products into the world market at world market prices.

I would agree with him that states should be able to set prices at the state level. But this permission would not even be needed if PFA, Farm Bureau, NMPF and some other so called farm organizations, along with USDA and the Secretary of Agriculture and a host of politicians, started to think about the damage they are doing to the dairy industry, especially the dairy farmer.

All dairymen hear from them is that we need prices set by the law of supply and demand, which they say is working. This to me is a cruel joke on dairymen. USDA sets the price under sthe M-W price series. Yet even with production dropping and the M-W price going up, my price per #100 has dropped every month this year. Is this the way supply and demand is supposed to work?

I also agree with Mr. Eckle that we do not need mandatory supply or quotas. And also if passed that no part of the country should be exempt.

1. What we as dairymen need is a dairy policy that sets the price of milk at the average cost of produc-

NOW IS THE TIME

To Estimate Corn Yields

The Agricultural Engineering Department at the University of Illinois has developed a technique for estimating corn grain yield prior to harvest.

A numerical constant for kernel weight is figured into the equation in order to calculate grain yield. Since weight per kernel will vary depending on hybrid and environment, the yield equation should be used to estimate relative grain yield.

The steps in doing this yield check are:

- Step 1. Count the number of harvestable ears per 1/1000 th acre.
- Step 2. Count the number of kernel rows per ear on every fifth ear. Calculate the average.
- Step 3. Count the number of kernels per row on each of the same ears. Do not count kernels on either the butt or tip that are less than half size. Calculate the average.
- Step 4. Yield (bushels per acre) equals: (ear number) times (average row number) times (average kernel number per row) divided by 90. This yield estimate may be done anytime after kernels develop on the ears.

To Salute The Poultry Industry

The Lancaster County Commissioners have declared August as Poultry Month in Lancaster County. Poultry is the county's number 1 agricultural industry.

The county ranks first in the state in number of eggs and broilers produced and first in the nation in the number of eggs produced. The county's laying hens produce 6.5 dozen of eggs every second.

The farm value of poultry production in Lancaster County is more than $225 million. Poultry continues to be a growing industry in the county.

During the past five years, the number of broilers produced has increased by 40.4 percent and the number of laying hens by 38.9 percent. This poultry production contributes to the general economy of the county.

Support companies such as hatcheries, trucking services, husbandry services, feed manufacturing, grain buying, management services, and investment firms have developed. These farms and companies provide jobs and generate money that is used in the community for goods and services, taxes, and investment.

Every citizen in Lancaster County is affected by the poultry industry. We salute this strong agricultural industry for its progressive growth in supplying people an economical source of protein food while providing jobs and contributing to the economic health of the county.

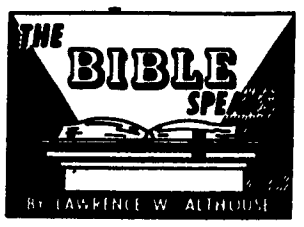
To Visit With Your Banker

It is always a good idea to maintain good communications with your banker. This dry year presents many challenges both in production and financial management.

If you have not talked with your banker recently, now would be a good time to schedule a visit with him. You might want to invite him to come and visit your farm and see first hand what you are doing.

This would be a good time to discuss where you are, any anticipated problems facing you, and your credit needs for the next six months. By sitting down and working out a plan before loans come due, will reduce stress, preserve equity, and maintain a good credit rating.

Remember, bankers do not like surprises. By keeping them informed and soliciting their advice will help keep your farming operation financially sound.



Background Scripture: Nehemiah 8.

Devotional Reading: Psalms I 19:97-104.

Whenever God speaks to us and we are willing to hear him (which is a big "whenever"), there are two logical reactions to what he communicates to us.

Our first reaction — that is if we have really listened to what he says — is usually one of feeling a sense of guilt at the most or humility at the least. Take all the classic confrontations in the Bible and you will see this illustrated again and again: Moses at the burning bush, Isaiah in the temple, Jeremiah and Ezekiel when called to be prophets, Mary at the annunciation, Paul on the Damascus road. In God's presence all of them are struck humble with the realization of the tremendous gap between themselves and the Lord.

There are numerous occasions in the Bible when the whole nation of Israel reacts in this same manner. One of these is the great assembly in Jerusalem after the temple walls have been completed. Nehemiah is implored to read to them the law. Apparently the law had been much neglected while they were in their Babylonian captivity. Now they want to get back to God's law, so Nehemiah reads it in the original Hebrew while others translate the Hebrew into the Aramaic language which the people had learned from their captors in Babylon.

When they hear the law and realize what God expects of them and when they consider that they have not been living up to his expectations, they are mortified, so that Nehemiah has to say to them, "do not mourn or weep." This does not mean that Nehemiah does not want them to realize their need for national repentance. But Nehemiah knows that the experience of God's revelation does not end in the grief of repentance. That is just the first step.

THE FIRST STEP

Christians have often done well in learning this first step and Christianity has often been characterized by a sense of holy — and maybe not so holy — sorrow. My earliest perceptions of the church as a very young child were that whatever Christianity was, it must be very sad. Even the most positive mood I found in the church was far short of joy. I concluded — wrongly, as it turned out — that the essential mood of being a Christian was something that was just short of being down-right grim. (I'm sure some of the problem was mine and not just that particular church.)

Nehemiah was gratitied by the people's repentance and he now needed to move them to the second step: "Go your way, eat the fat and drink sweet wine and send portions to him for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy to our Lord; and do not be grieved, for the joy of the Lord is your strength" (8:10). Repentance was necessary, but one must move from repen- tance to the joy of the Lord.

To be sure, in the presence of the Lord we are struck with the sense of our own inadequacy and lack of worth. But we need also to realize that the joy of God's love is just as compelling as the grimness of his judgment. If we focus only upon the grief of our sin to the exclusion of the joy of our redemption we have not really heard God's word to us. And half of the message is not enough.

On this occasion at least, the people got the whole message from God through Nehemiah and he tells us: "...all the people went their way to eat and drink and to send portions and to make great rejoicing, because they had understood the words that were declared to them" (8:12).

It matters little what we get from our Christian faith if we possess everything but joy. Without joy, we've missed the message.

QUANTEM SERIES 50

Temperature Modulating Fan Speed Control

Designed to be splash and dust resistant in accordance with NEC Article 547.

The "Vari-Speed" VENTILATING Control is a SOLID STATE, single phase, variable motor speed controller, designed to automatically ventilate industrial, commercial and agricultural facilities. The Series 50 provides ventilation control in proportion to the error sensed between the controller set point and actual space temperature as monitored by the controller's sensor. As temperature changes, voltage to the fan motor is changed proportionately.

When Livestock Do The Shopping

Livestock prefer the natural taste of high moisture grain. Give them a choice and they'll go for its quality and nutrition most every time. It's the feed they deserve to maximize performance.

You need the efficiency of a Harvestore® structure. It easy-loads from the top and wisely unloads from the bottom. You can store grain at natural, high moisture levels* because a Harvestore structure minimizes spoilage and preserves the grain.

The price differential between a Harvestore system and other less efficient grain storage processing systems has shifted dramatically in the past few years. Before repairing or investing in outdated technology, contact your authorized, independent Harvestore Systems dealer.

FREE DELVOTEST® SP or P OFFER

Introducing Delvotest® SP.

Buy a Delvotest® Block Heater before August 31, 1991, and get a FREE Delvotest® SP MiniKit.

Delvotest® SP is a simple, reliable, inexpensive test for detecting virtually all antibiotics which includes an increased sensitivity for sulfa residues in milk. You can set up a Delvotest® SP in 2 minutes. With the use of a timer, you can read the results at your convenience, up to 12 hours from the start of the incubation period. You run the test in your own milk room.

Why Delvotest® SP?

- Because you need to know your milk is free from all antibiotics, including sulfa residues.
- Because you need to know your milk is going into the tank truck, instead of down the drain.

Lebanon Fair Hosts Breeding Sheep, Goat Shows

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — The low price of lamb apparently put somewhat of a damper on the number of entries in the 4-H breeding sheep competitions this year.

Interest in sheep in the Lebanon area has been continually growing over the past 15 to 20 years, but the number of 4-H sheep enthusiasts who showed animals Tuesday at the Lebanon Area Fair was slightly down from previous years.

However, according to judge Dave Harpster, of State College, a number of the animals shown could have stood a lot more competition.

There were five breeds open for competition. This year, there was no overall champions of all breeds. Instead, the champions were decided within the respective breeds.

In the Correidale breed, Benj Bow captured both the champion ewe and reserve champion ewe titles, while Darrell Martin, with the lone ram entry won the champion ram contest.

In the Dorset breed, Jenny Wenger's ram also won champion ram, while Darrent Grumbine's year-old ewe was named champion and Jamie Bomberger's 2-year-old was reserve.

Breeding Sheep, Goat Shows

In the Suffolk breed, no rams were entered, and Benj Bow cleaned house with his entries.

In the small-statured Montadale breed, Tony Ebling's young ram was named champion, while Tisha Ebling's ewes took champion and reserve champion.

Goat competitions were also somewhat limited, though interest in goats in Lebanon County has been historically new.

The three breed show saw Sarah Goss win champion and reserve, as the lone competitor in the Nubian breed; Jennifer Ungemach took grand champion with her yearling Saanen and Deana Brightbill took reserve champion, with the two entries of the show.

The Toggenburg show saw more competition with Karalyn Stoner's kid capturing champion rating and Michael Stoner's kid taking reserve champion.

Farmland Trust Praises Legislation

TAYLOR'S BRIDGE, Del. — The American Farmland Trust (AFT) praised the passage of legislation designed to protect valuable agricultural lands by making the state eligible for federal cost-sharing funds.

The legislation was recently signed into law by Delaware Gov. Michael N. Castle.

American Farmland Trust President, Ralph Grossi who attended the ceremony to commemorate the passage of House Bill 200, called it "historic." He said the legislation will allow Delaware to receive financial assistance under the federal Farms for the Future Act, in the form of low-interest loan guarantees for farmland protection.

"Delaware farmers -- particularly young farmers -- will be thankful for the program as land prices rise," Grossi said.

"The Delaware Legislature and Gov. Castle have taken action that is historic and far reaching for farmland protection in Delaware. If fully utilized, the Farms for the Future Act could provide Delaware with millions of dollars to ease the financial burden of transferring farmland from one generation to the next."

Authorized by Congress in the 1990 Farm Bill, the Farms for the Future Act provides federal financial assistance to state farmland protection programs. As much as $10 million in low-interest loan guarantees are to be provided annually to qualifying state programs to match funds that states are devoting to farmland protection.

"If states like Delaware provide sufficient matching funds to receive the maximum benefits under the federal act, as much as $50 million could be available to them in low-interest loans in the next five years," said Robert Wagner, AFT's Northeastern office director who advised Delaware officials as they developed legislation to establish the Foundation.

Under the terms of the federal program, two dollars of federally guaranteed loan funds would be made available for every one dollar of state, local or private funds.

"The Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation gives Delaware another important tool to protect its natural resources," Wagner said. "The program is a voluntary way for landowners to protect their farms without losing equity. And because it qualifies the state for the Farms for the Future Act, Delaware now has extra help in reversing the trend of farmland decline."

Cattlemen Tour Pa. Beef Operations

Roger Meinhart, owner of Happy Hills Farm, Huntingdon, talks about the need for safe and strong handling facilities. He raises Texas Longhorn cattle, seen in the background, beyond the nine-strand high-tension fence. Their horns, valued at almost $200 each set, creates a need for special facilities.

SHEILA MILLER

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The Berks/Southeast Cattlemen's Association, an affiliate of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, traveled to four central Pennsylvania beef operations July 20 to review different types of management.

This marked the fourth annual summer field trip hosted by the Association.

Committee chairman Paul Holcombe said this year's trip boasted the best attendance in the 4-year history for this event.

Each anniversary seems to rival the previous year's temperature for being held on the hottest day of the year, according to Holcombe. This year's trip was no exception, with temperatures close to 100° F in the shade.

Susquehannock Farm, a Polled Hereford seedstock operation owned by Fred and Doreen McMurry of Sunbury, was the first stop of the day. Dr. McMurry, who currently serves as secretary of the Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Association, exhibited his 1991 calf crop to the more than 40 visiting cattle producers.

The cattle were grazing an alfalfa-grass hay strip which had been sectioned off with temporary electric fence. The McMurrys utilize intensive grazing techniques to maximize their pasture's feed value. However, Dr. McMurry pointed out the severe impacts of this summer's drought on his hay crop and pasture regrowth which has forced him to maintain his herd of registered Polled Herefords with a dry lot hay program.

Dr. McMurry shared his knowledge of breeding beef cattle and his interest in genetics with the group. He recounted how he purchased the former dairy farm 10 years ago and has built his herd using artificial insemination and embryo transfer to produce cattle with "predictable genetics." He said the chief criteria he uses in selecting bulls to use on his cows is maternal value and performance.

Of the 40 calves in Susquehannock Farm's 1991 calf crop, almost half are "ET" calves.

"The investment in each of these calves is substantial," said Dr. McMurry. He selects A.I. sires who are proven to produce calves with low birth weights, or who produce a shorter gestation period.

Catching cows in heat is not an easy task for the McMurrys, who operate the farm with no outside help. The heat and drought this summer has made the challenge even greater since heat stress can greatly affect heat cycles. Prostaglandins are used to help synchronize the herd.

Calving season at Susquehannock Farm finds the doctor on call through the help of a monitor which is hooked up from barn to house. The McMurrys calve out their cows in a stall barn. The cows are brought there just before their predicted due date.

He said that Susquehannock Farm immunizes all cattle for pinkeye and rabies. Fly control on this central Pennsylvania farm features a parasitic fly which Dr. McMurry has used for a number of years. He admitted it is not a cheap method, but quickly added that a top show calf that loses an eye to pinkeye is more costly.

Pine Hurst Acres, a dairy beef feeding operation run by Stanley Crone of R.D. 6 Danville, provided the cattle producers with a closeup look at a different aspect of the industry. Crone feeds Holstein steers in a stocker program, taking them from about 200 pounds to roughly 400 pounds before shipping them to finishing feedlots in Wisconsin and Kansas.

Crone, who also shared his personal plight with this year's drought, said he farms 1,700 acres of land. He noted his 160 acres of wheat wasn't hurt by the dry weather, but his 900 acres of corn and 400 acres of soybeans might be totally lost. "Everything is burning up," lamented Crone. "It's a bad year to have anything."

Crone, who contracts with PACMA, in Palmyra, feeds the calves a manufactured pellet. This is combined with a dry corn ration along with some hay. Calves are weighed every 30 days.

Crone said there is a market advantage to marketing the lighter calves as stockers to Midwest feedlots instead of finishing the cattle here in Pennsylvania. His biggest problem is shipping fever and a higher mortality rate in calves, weighing less than 200 pounds, that come to his farm.

Fly control is not a major problem, he said. "Alleys are scraped every ten days. And there isn't the manure with the dry feed that there was when I used to feed with silage and high moisture corn," said Crone.

From Danville, the Berks/Southeast Cattlemen's Association members struck a course due west to State College to visit the 475-acre farm owned by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association Seedstock Producer of 1991, Dr. Gerald and Sue Clair.

At Lyn-Lee Farms, the Clairs breed red and black Salers, along with Suffolk sheep and Hampshire hogs. This year's calf crop numbers more than 80 calves out of 50 Saler cows. Embryo transfer allows optimal production of the top females on the farm.

Manager Jim Culwell described the farm's breeding program and operation in a barn which held the cream of the calf crop along with the farm's 1991 Reserve National Champion Female Saler cow, Lacey.

Dr. Clair shared with the cattle producers his reasons for selecting this French breed of cattle, noting their reputation for leanness and cutability and the fact that this breed was written up in beef publications for topping test stations across the nation.

He cited the breed's average birth weight of 72 pounds as an integral part to high calving ease, along with the sloping year end of the Saler cows. Dr. Clair, who is a gynecologist by profession, equated this dropped tailhead to a woman who has no problems during childbirth because of a wide pelvis.

In summing up his philosophy on breeding beef cattle, Dr. Clair advised the visiting cattle producers to "invest in one good cow and flush her, rather than investing in 10 average cows."

Stanley Crone, owner of Pine Hurst Farm, in Danville, talks to visiting cattlemen about his Holstein steer operation. Crone buys calves at about 200 pounds and raises them to 400 pounds to sell for stockyard finishing in Wisconsin and Kansas.

The tour's last stop was Happy Hills Farm at Huntingdon. Roger and Grace Meinhart raise Texas Longhorns and fullblood Salers on their two farms, totaling 500 acres. Meinhart explained that he segregates the two breeds on separate farms since the Salers are the most aggressive breed.

Meinhart had high praise for the cowboy's favorite — the Texas Longhorn. He owns a total of 130 head and described them as "easy raising." As a weekend farmer, he said the cattle have to make their own living and calve by themselves. Meinhart credited the Salers as being "easy calvers," too, but he had reservations about their temperament and their bigger size.

Happy Hills Farm was described by Meinhart as perfect cattle country. "The shallow mountain soils here are droughty and not suitable for crops," he said. Meinhart harvests hay as round bales, and supplements his pasture fields with lime, boron, and chicken manure from a nearby grower house.

Both the Salers and the Longhorns at Happy Hills Farm are horned. Only the Longhorns keep their head ornaments, said Meinhart. These horns, which can reach 6 feet in length during a cow's lifetime, provide challenges when moving cattle through handling facilities and chutes.

Cattle are dewormed in the spring and fall with Ivomec and bull calves are pinched at weaning.

Meinhart markets his Longhorn calves as feeders and to rodeo people who are interested in roping. Some find homes in zoos and others are purchased by individuals who want something exotic, he said.

All the cattle pastures feature nine-strand high tensile fence, with three strands electrified. The cattle are rounded up on "Japanese Quarterhorses," joked Meinhart, referring to his four-wheel all-terrain vehicles.

Breeding is done naturally in both the Longhorn and Saler herds, although Meinhart said he had tried artificial insemination once. "With my schedule, A.I. just didn't work. So all my breeding is done by bulls," he said.

Meinhart concluded the field trip on a positive note when he reiterated his satisfaction with the Texas Longhorn breed's gentle disposition. Those horns were quite a conversation piece for the cattle producers on their return trip to Berks County, especially after it was recounted that the horns alone are worth nearly $200.

A 12-year-old cow, "Birdie," one of Dr. Fred McMurry's best Polled Herefords, is the cornerstone of his embryo transfer program at Susquehannock Farm. She is a Vindicator daughter and through flushing and ET work, has produced more than 90 offspring in her lifetime.

Wins Farm Credit Award

WELLSBORO (Tioga Co.) — David Good, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Good of Westfield has been named the recipient of the Northeast Farm Credit Award as the Outstanding Senior Agriculture Student. The selection process was conducted as an interview with loan officer Bonnie Kiel of the Wellsboro Office. David received a plaque and a $100 check. His name will be engraved on a permanent plaque, displayed in the Agriculture Room at Cowanesque Valley High School, where David is a student. He plans to attend Delaware Valley College in the fall, to pursue studies in Dairy Husbandry.

David has served as the local FFA chapter president and treasurer, has been a member of the parliamentary procedure team, received the Star Greenhand and Star Chapter awards, attended the National FFA Convention as a chapter delegate and has been involved in many chapter activities. He has served as vice president and chaplain on the county level, while earning recordkeeping awards on the county and state levels. The state degree was awarded to David this past January.

David has been a member of the football team, being named to the league All-Star twice.

Cattlemen Hold Field Day

FRANKLIN (Venago Co.)—Harvest Plantation, located in the rolling hills of Western Pennsylvania was the scene of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and Pennsylvania Simmental Association field day. Harvest Plantation is owned by Lee and Linda Snyder.

The first purebred Simmental was bought in 1985. And most of the members of the present herd trace back to Dynasty cows that were early entries into the herd. From these cow families has come the grand champion bull and supreme champion female at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. An Embryo transplant program has been followed and the fourty cows are managed on a 75 acre intensified grazing program.

At the field day, topics such as hoof trimming, seman purchase and handling and embryho transfer for the small breeder were covered. The department of dairy and animal science at Penn State cosponsored the event.

State Approves Saving Two Lehigh Farms

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Two Lehigh County farms, totalling 373 acres, were approved for permanent preservation yesterday by the state Agricultural Land Preservation Board in Harrisburg.

Lehigh County and the state will be jointly purchasing perpetual agricultural conservation easements on the two farms.

The state and county will be paying $239,438 to Rodney and Diane Schlauch to purchase the Schlauch's development rights on their 141-acre Heidelberg Township farm.

The second farm approved for preservation recently is owned by Bruce and Kent Chattin of Weisenberg Township.

An agricultural conservation easement will be purchased on the Chattin's 232-acre farm for a combined state/county cost of $417,379.

Landowners who sell agricultural conservation easements retain ownership of their property, but agree to place permanent deed restrictions on their property, preventing all future non-farm development.

Perpetual conservation easements stay with the land for all future owners.

The Lehigh County Agricultural Land Preservation Board is now accepting new applications from qualified Lehigh County farmland owners for the second 1991 funding round of the Agricultural Conservation Easement Program.

For more information on the program, please call Jeff Zehr at (215) 391-9583.

Pa DHIA PIP Report

BOB ORMSBY
Training Coordinator

Almost everyone connected with DHIA in Pennsylvania has seen or heard of the PIP Report. It was so named because it isolates a few cows that show potential identification problems.

First produced in August, 1990, its value was quickly recognized and it became a semi-annual report. Some questions still linger concerning how and why some cows appear and if they will continue to appear.

The PIP Report will go out again in August and this explanation may assist in answering a question or two. Each year, in fact twice a year, the USDA runs all official DHIA records through various programs and ties them in with a system of bull and cow evaluations.

One famous program is the Animal Model where genetic merit and potential of all cows is compared with that of their relatives to produce a predicted transmitting ability (PTA). Each animal in these calculations must be properly identified and pass through various "edits." Each time this USDA run is done, several Pennsylvania cows are excluded because something about their identification did not "jibe."

Sometimes the identification problem is due to a mistake on the DHIA reports. Or, it can be that the cow does not meet the proper standards for inclusion in the PTA.

PA DHIA recognizes a responsibility to alert members of potential identification problems (PIP). An editing process was designed to catch several of the common mistakes. It cannot locate everyone, and it also produces some cows that are okay as reported, but that fall outside common edits.

Some dairymen will receive no PIP Report, others may have one cow listed, still others will have many cows listed.

Sometimes the breed code is missing and should be filled in by the DHIA supervisor. One edit is if the registration number is too long for the breed. Maybe an extra number was entered or keyed and a quick check will correct that.

For grade animals, the PA DHIA edit check looks for a nine character number beginning with the state code 23, followed by three letters and four numbers. State codes other than 23 are accepted by USDA and PA DHIA but for the purpose PIP was designed for, all out-of-state numbers appear.

A quick check will determine that everything is okay. An edit locates all animals with unknown sires and dams to give the member one more reminder that that is how she is recorded. A quick search will sometimes locate another sire or dam number.

Sometimes the animals' breed code has been listed and it is different from the herd breed. That may be okay as is, but sometimes a mistake can be cleared up quickly.

One time PA DHIA found a Holstein, listed as a Jersey, that was about to set a breed record for production. When her breed code was corrected, her production was more in line with her breed. Even more unusual, one cow failed to receive a PTA because a breed code indicated that her dam was a goat.

No one laughs when something like this happens, and I emphasize the importance of the PA DHIA "PIP" Report. It is run twice a year at no cost to the members and has proven invaluable. Look over your "PIP" report and help us help you in your efforts to receive proper credit for all your animals.

How Does Your Herd Compare?

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — This data is pulled from Pennsylvania DHIA's mainframe computer each week. It is a one-week summary representing approximately one-fourth of the herds on test, as they are tested monthly.

These data are valuable from a business management standpoint and can be used for comparing your operations to the averages from almost 1,400 herds across the state.

Werkheiser Honored For Service To Farmers

KEMPTON (Berks Co.) — A recent Retirement Banquet for Marvin O. Werkheiser of 7966 Cricket Road, Bath, Pa., a fieldman for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, was attended by over 150 dairy farm friends of Lehigh, Berks, and Schuylkill Counties. The event was organized by Kermit and Roma Loch, longtime milk haulers for Lehigh Valley and ADC.

Werkheiser, also known as "Mo", was honored for almost 43 years of service to dairymen. He began in September 1948 as a dairy cow inseminator for Lehigh Valley A.I. bull stud, which later merged with 3 other eastern PA and NJ studs to form the North East Breeders' Association, and now a part of Sire Power, Inc. He bred cows for 24 years after which he re-joined his former employer, Lehigh Valley Farms, as a fieldman or milk inspector. The farms he supervised consistently had a high rating by the U.S. Public Health Service, scoring well over 90% rating every time. The farmers appreciated his common sense approach to his job and dedication to ensure a good, clean supply of fresh milk, meeting the highest standards required today. He thanked all the dairymen for cooperating so well with him to meet all those high standards.

The toastmaster for the evening was a New Tripoli dairyman, Russell Dietrich, who recalled the years since 1948 when Marvin visited his farm in his various duties.

Also on the program was Samuel Remaley, a Northampton Co. neighbor and co-employee of Lehigh Valley and ADC.

Mary Ann Reimer, a field office secretary at Lehigh Valley recalled some of her experiences.

The 1990-1991 Berks Co. Dairy Princess, Suzanne Moyer of New Tripoli, daughter of one of the Lehigh and ADC farm producers, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moyer, related some of her experiences as dairy princess in promoting milk.

State Rep. Paul Semmel, also a Lehigh milk producer, presented Werkheiser with a citation from the State House of Representatives for a job well done serving agriculture for over 42 years.

Dietrich also said the dairymen did not wish to say "good-bye", but "thank you", for a job well done and most of all thank you for being a friend!

80 New York Farms Receive Dairy Of Distinction Award

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Eighty New York dairy farms were recently recognized through the prestigious Dairy of Distinction award program.

The award pays tribute to the winners for their efforts in maintaining a high quality farm appearance, and the recipients receive a colorful plaque to hang from their farm signs.

Initiated in 1983, the Dairy of Distinction program has a two-fold purpose — to recognize the hard work and dedication of dairymen for their well-kept farmsteads, and to instill in consumers a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings. Winners are judged annually to ensure that they continue to meet the standards of excellence set by the program.

Those recognized include:

Rolee Meadows, Robert & Lee Ann Day, Arcade, Wyoming County;

Valley View Farms, Harold Brown, Alexander, Genesee County;

G. M. Reynolds & Sons, Corfu, Genesee County;

However, Long, farm manger of Nittany Farms in Centre Hall, said the hardest class to judge came from the 8/9-year-old division of the 4-H showmanship. "I think this may be the toughest class I've ever judged," said Long, because of the high quality of the steers shown and the surprising expertise of the exhibitors. But the 14/15-year-old and 16-19-year-old classes garnered the 4-H showmanship championship, Roxanne Kirst and brother Chris Kirst picking up champion and reserve showmanship, respectively.

The championship blocking exhibitors did their best to make sure he animals were well-groomed, and hair used to best advantage to show off the best part of the steers, according to Long. Fluffing up the poll and keeping the steer clean and head level on rump is important to achieve the "straightness and balance" so crucial to showing the steer, said Long.

In showing animals, Long said that it is hard keeping the steer in line, and cantankerous animals make the exhibitor's job that much tougher. The combination of the heat and the fact the steers were brought in only a day before the show contributed to problems in controlling the animals.

The market classes, including lightweight, are important, and exhibitors should keep in mind "calves that will grade." The champion exhibited the thick,

First place in the medium weight class went to Leigh Hitz, left. Second place went to Daryl Bomgardner, center and Roxanne Kirst picked up third place.

Second place in the the fair market lightweight class went to John Risser.

conditioners, deep tillage equipment, discs, cultivators, and a bale wrapper. And of course, all types and sizes of tractors.

The demonstrations began at 9:30 a.m. and concluded at 2:30 p.m. After the demonstrations shut down, farmers continued to talk to dealers. "Dealers and farmers came up to me and shook my hand, saying it was a very worthwhile day," Haas said. "They called the day the 'best ever.'"

Equipment sponsors for the 1991 Ag Showcase were: Ag Industrial; Briggs, Inc.; W.N. Cooper & Sons; Benjamin Haines Equipment and C. B., Hoober & Sons. Supportive sponsors included the Cecil County Fair Board; the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland; Milford Fertilizer; C. W. Brown; DuPont Company; Cecil Soil Conservation Service; Central Maryland Farm Credit; Southern States and Maryland Department of Natural Resources. Union Hospital again sponsored an outdoor health clinic.

Mr. Scott Deputy, East Berlin, Pennsylvania, chairperson for Adams County Dairy Princess and Promotion Committee.

Early in the day, each contestant met with the judges for a 15 minute interview, presented their dairy promotion skits and taped a 30-second radio announcement. The evening consisted of a brief oral resume and introduction of family and friends present. Each princess gave a presentation of their skit for the entire audience. These skits will be used throughout their reigns for the promotion of milk and dairy products. The impromptu question each had to answer was, "Why should we promote the dairy industry in Maryland"?

The newly crowned princess, Jenell, feels it is especially important to promote the dairy industry during hard economic times. "We need to promote the dairy industry to boost our economy" Jenell says. "It is quite an honor to represent the hardest working people I know, and I'll try to do a good job". Her eight-year-old sister, Jena was her escort. For her skit, she sang with her Molly Magical Cow Puppet to tell children about dairy products in a land called Milky Way. Jenell is the current reigning Maryland Farm Bureau Queen, and recently won the Miss Maryland Teen USA title with a full four-year scholarship to the University of Maryland. She will represent Maryland in the national Miss Teen USA Pageant this fall.

Crystal Smith was chosen Alternate Maryland Dairy Princess. Her two-year-old niece, Leslie Hardesty, presented her for the princess walk. Crystal owns Holsteins, Jerseys, and Guernseys and was asked to pick a favorite. She said "I couldn't pick a favorite of the three breeds. They're like my children". The children in the audience became excited as Crystal introduced her family of pull-toy cows by name. Each cow brought a dairy product. Then along came a blue and purple "imitation" cow to help Crystal explain why we should look for "real" dairy products.

The Francis Kepler scholarship was awarded by the Dairy Princess committee to Crystal who was also chosen Miss Congeniality.

Tonya Broadwater was escorted by a 5-year-old friend, Jena Harshman. She used a Bart Simpson puppet to introduce dairy products to children. She feels we should help Maryland farmers as much as possible by buying and eating more dairy products.

Washington County Dairy Princess, Dawn Downey, chose her five-year-old brother, Wade, to perform the honor of escort. She says, "Maryland is a farm and dairy state and we need to keep it that way". Dawn took the audience on a dairy train ride through dairyland. Using her violin to portray train music, her various stops were to learn important facts about dairy products.

Donna Johnson's three-year-old nephew, Mitch Lemney, was her escort. Donna dressed as a fairy godmother. She used real dairy products to transform to a beautiful Cinderella. She hopes to work for a bull stud operation, and later become an elementary art teacher. She would like to "help consumers understand why they should pay a little more for what they are getting and how it is made".

Baltimore Harford County Princess, Gretchen Klein, was escorted by a nine-year-old friend Jason Selman. She portrayed Miss Muffet whose spider forgot to use dairy products to build a strong healthy body. A career in radio and TV broadcasting is her hope for the future.

The 1990 Maryland Dairy Princess, Stacey Guyton, in her farewell speech, thanked her family and the Dairy Princess Committee for their support. She says the Dairy Princess is an important part of Maryland's dairy promotion program and counted it a privilege to represent the farmers of Maryland. Stacey was given a cash bonus for her outstanding efforts.

Traveling more than 9,000 miles this year, she gave presentations at 26 different schools, appeared in 30 news articles, did 11 TV and radio spots, attended 17 grocery promotions, 21 non-farm events, 44 farm meetings, and 71 special events. Stacey also received special recognition from Maryland Governor Donald Schaefer.

The entertainment for the evening was provided by Silent Speech, from Linganore High School. They used sign language to convey the messages of their selection of songs.

meaty top, through center, in a straight line to the hind and loins. In the medium weight class, steers must show straightness and uniformity from the back, loin, and rump. The heavyweight steers often become too heavy to grade high, Long told the exhibitors.

The breed show only included four exhibitors and five animals — four representatives of the Simmental breed and one of the Angus.

At the beef show, there were approximately 20 exhibitors and 40 animals altogether.

York Open Holstein Show Has Red Champion

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.)— Judge Curtis Day of Shippensburg saw red during the York County Holstein show last Friday -- and liked it.

In fact, he liked it so well he pulled Ke-Hills Misty Cinnamon-Red into the champion slot during the judging finale for the annual show, held in the York Fairgrounds livestock arena.

The winning five-year-old is from the Ke-Hills herd of the Keith Shaffer family, Jefferson. Sired by Misty-Maples Arlinda Magnet, the stylish red cow also earned Shaffer the prized best-bred-and-owned plaque.

"She was a real surprise -- the first red and white animal we ever had born into the herd," Shaffer noted after his first champion win. "It's a good feeling to have a homebred do well." She has two red daughters, a red maternal sister and two black and white maternal sisters expanding this cow family in the Shaffer herd.

No newcomer to the tanbark trail, Cinnamon scored a reserve champion win as a three-year-old at the 1989 York Fair. She took a third in her class at the January Farm Show and second at the Holstein Spring show in March. Scored EX-90, she is projected to complete her five-year-old lactation with some 22,000 pounds milk.

Though his children show in 4-H competition, Shaffer says it was Cinnamon that brought him back into the showring after an absence of about 15 years since his own 4-H days.

Reserve champion honors went to the second-place five-year-old, Coredale Ingrids Quality Queen. A Quality Ultimate daughter, Queen was bred and exhibited by the Rodman Thompson family's Coredale Farms, East Berlin.

Queen, scored VG-86 as a two-year-old, is projected to more than 20,000 milk with a 3.7 percent fat and 3.4 percent protein average. She was named reserve All-Pennsylvania as a junior two-year-old.

Junior champion honors went to 10-year-old Amy Trimmer, East Berlin, with her first-place junior calf. Penn-Gate V Dan Hope also took a blue the previous day in the 4-H show for the second-year dairy project exhibitor.

Reserve junior ribbons were awarded to the winning spring yearling, owned and exhibited by Dan and Patti Hushon, Delta. White-Oak-Vue Symbol Jenie aso earned the Delta family the best junior female bred and owned plaque.

Numerous high placings by the nine homebreds in their string of 12 at the show earned the Thompson family the coveted premier breeder banner and a blue in the best three females class. Rodman, Jane, their children and now grandchildren have been showing most of the 32 years they have been dairying in York County.

Senior and grand champion honors at the York Holstein show went to Keith Shaffer, whose 5-year-old red entry also claimed the best senior bred and owned award. In the reserve spot was the five-year-old runnerup, homebred by the Rodman Thompson family, with Shirley Trimmer at the halter. On hand for the awards were York dairy princess Penny Jordan, right, alternate princess Annie Rauhauser, and judge Curtis Day.

tion plus a percentage for management and equity for each region of the US, as some areas have a great difference in production costs.

2. CCC purchases should be frozen at what is needed for their food programs, and no more.

3. If needed for handlers and processors to balance their supplies for a market, temporarily freeze every dairyman's production. Then let handlers and processors work to supply a market and not look for all the extra milk they can find just to sell to CCC.

Then we would have supply and demand controlling production and not a bunch of so-called expert politicians and farm leaders who have lost all sense of reality on what it costs to produce milk.

Editor:

I recently received the seventh annual USDA report to Congress on the Dairy Promotion Program. I wish they hadn't sent it to me.

While reading the report and reviewing research projects, both Nutrition and Product Research, both current and completed, I could not find one — not one — project that the dairy industry can say, "We received a good return on our investment." Not one can we say the entire industry could capitalize on and earn money. One Product Research project that I was very enthused about was the removal of cholesterol from our dairy products. Those of us on the Product Research Committee were led to believe it would be rather simple and inexpensive. Well, several years later, the research is still not completed. The researchers do not want to complete the projects, because the funding may be terminated. The National Dairy Board (NDB) has spent millions of dollars on research.

Another waste of money: From the inception of NDB, the Board members were instructed to attempt to consolidate and coordinate programs with other promotional organizations. Throughout the seven years, there has been at least $10,000,000 spent on the goal of bringing the promotional groups together. From the beginning through SMA, the groups are more distant from each other than ever before.

Another waste of money: The NDB has spent $2,000,000 to educate "Mary Consumer" on the aspects of BGH. I feel we should let the manufacturers of BGH do their own consumer education.

I would like to see a national referendum to lower the assessment to 10¢/cwt. and give it all to the State and Regional programs and entirely abandon the NDB. With today's economy in the dairy industry, 5¢/cwt. would help pay some bills. I have talked with other Charter Board members and they share my feelings. 5¢/cwt. generates approximately $80,000,000 per year, which, in my opinion, is down the tubes.

I also believe the reason for the two term limitation for Board members is by the time a Board member serves six years on the Board they begin to recognize the "leeches" and then, in come new faces and they're all happy again with all the expenditures.

This is my personal opinion, after serving six years as a charter member of the NDB from California.

EDITOR:

I have been watching with interest your coverage of the milk pricing situation. The last issue, July 20, 1991, has me confused.

First RCMA through New York's Rogers-Allan Act is supposed to have raised Pennsylvania's milk to the $1.05 over-order. Second the Grange Master is excited that their support kept the $1.05 for "all Pennsylvania farmers". Third PFA is against the new house committee bill to raise support to $12.60 because of the provision that states can't overprice federal levels and that would hurt us as several hundred million was returned to PA farmers.

To us second rate citizens in Federal Order #2, who are subject to every Pennsylvania tax and regulation and retgail markets regulated by the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board, which of the three above represented us? I guess our cost of production up here where everything costs more (highest fuel, freight, ect. probably anywhere) isn't enough to warrent any of the $1.05.

While everyone is patting themselves for a job well done, to many the job isn't done. Also remember the PFA fought the $1.25 raise on Class 1 milk last winter. What is their proposal?

Editor:

With the summer comes numerous livestock shows where youngsters proudly parade their calves before the judges. In the ring most all exhibitors use leather or nylon web halters, but behind the tanbark arena in the stabling area poly rope halters are a common sight.

I'm an adult, and I wasn't handling an animal in the unfamiliar and noisy surroundings of a show when a poly rope lead became a "chain saw" and ripped my finger off. The surgeon at the hospital said the remaining stump was a very "clean" cut — meaning no ragged edges. He was amazed by my story as I hope you readers will be too.

It was nearly chore time and I decided to put an eight month old heifer that had been picket grazing in the barn before we got the cows up. This heifer has been led and handled since birth — so she wouldn't think of playing around on the rope. Leading her into the dim stable, she spooked at a rat scurrying down the gutter and bolted. Before I could let the rope go she drug it through my hand and it whipped around my middle finger just below the finger nail. In an instant I felt like I had touched a lit lantern wick — and looking saw bone and muscle where there had been a finger just seconds before. My children were horrified. They ran across the road to the neighbor and she drove me to the hospital. I was back home by eleven that same night — luckily, but I'll be unable to do much for at least six weeks. Here it is summer with canning to get done — and sewing dresses for the coming school term. Luckily most of our cows are fall freshening — so we aren't milking that many that the girls can't handle chores themselves since I'm not supposed to do anything to bump the healing skin graft and my husband works away since we're in our first year dairying on our own.

When I look at the small fingers of my little girls - I shudder, thinking that a child could easily lose several fingers just as quickly as I lost part of one. I say as a warning to all parents and 4-H leaders — don't let your youngsters use poly rope — It may be cheap and waterproof and looks pretty — but it's deadly.

This is a letter to Congressman, the Sec. of Agriculture and President Bush.

You have made fools of the family farmers long enough.

Oct. 1, 1991 we will be fighting back. It will not only be the poor going hungry in this country when the farmers hold their milk, but lots of industries will suffer. Without milk you won't need cereal and a lot of other things that you need milk for.

This battle will not be like the one in IRAQ. Farmers will not be digging under the ground like Saddam did to hide. We are going to meet you head on.

To the farmers who are not going with this Nationwide Milk Withhold: by shipping milk you are siding in the government, the guys who want you to go bankrupt and make room for more cow factories. Oct. 1 when we dump our milk, we are not doing it for ourselves but for every family farm to stay in business throughout America.

Remember the family farm is the backbone of America.

Judge Names Jersey Supreme At Lebanon

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — An aged Jersey cow was named supreme of all dairy cattle breeds among the 4-H and FFA entries in Tuesday's Lebanon Area Fair youth dairy show.

From a field of 10 cows, representing 4-H and FFA grand champions among five breeds, Dianne Dice's FFA grand champion Jersey, born March 29, 1986, "Blue Mountain Lovely Leslie" was the most correct, according to fair colored breed judge and supreme judge Mary Shank Creek, of Hagerstown, Md.

According to Creek, the only thing she would do to Dice's cow is "clean her up, up front. She's carrying a little too much condition."

Dice's Jersey also was named grand champion of the open class competition.

At the Lebanon Fair, colored breed cattle are all shown at the same time — 4-H, FFA and Open classes. There is usually limited FFA participation, but 4-H entries can be heavy. This year was no exception.

Youth Holstein cattle are also judged early in the week. The open class of Holstein cattle, however, were shown yesterday, after newspaper deadline.

The colored breed shows were heavy with entries in the Ayrshire, Brown Swiss and Jersey breeds, while limited in the Guernsey breed.

Creek, who lives on Palmyra Farm in Hagerstown and milks 250 registered Ayrshires, also judged a unique contest among the Lebanon Area youth — best bred and owned.

In the contest, 4-H members who have bred and own a project animal, vie for a comprehensive bred and owned title.

Not only are the youths' animals judged, but the project books on the animals are also judged, and other aspects as showmanship and fitting are also considered for a maximum of 50 points. The animals' type is graded on a scale of one to 10.

There were 15 entries in the competition.

The first place winner this year was 11-year-old Garrett Mase, whose intermediate heifer Brown Swiss calf, Meadow Hill Jubilation Appeal, born Dec. 10, 1990, also earned him 4-H reserve junior champion rosette and a first place class ribbon.

The top three placings in the best bred and owned competition each received an $100 gift certificate, courtesy of Agway in Lebanon.

Judging the Holstein breeds, Curtis Day, of Shippensburg, a familiar judge in area shows, said he was pleased with the number and quality of cattle presented before him.

"It was an excellent show. The champion and the reserve champion cow as well are two nice cows. The same things with the heifers (the junior and reserve junior champions)," Day said.

"And the kids all act as though they enjoy showing and that helps," he said.

(Turn to Page A33)

On the right, Brenda Dice holds the open class grand champion trophy for her family's grand champion Jersey, while a friend helps out with the reserve grand.

The quality is great, as good as anything. I've done quite a few shows this year and (the Lebanon Fair youth Holstein show) is definitely getting better all around."

Curtis selected two dry cows as grand and reserve grand champion Holsteins.

The grand champion Holstein was Loving Meadows Rowena, owned by Kevin Bomgardner of Ono. The 5-year-old Hanover Hill Counselor-ET daughter drew praise from judge Day.

"I don't usually like to make a dry cow grand champion, but she's a good one," he said.

Likewise, the reserve champion cow was a dry cow entered by Stephanie Wagner of Myerstown, Ju—Vindale Tradition Bobbie, an 7-year-old September born Holstein, sired by Sweet Haven Tradition.

York Open Holstein Show

honors was the Dale and Darla Doll family of Glen Rock. They took six blues in individual classes, firsts in junior best three females and daughter-dam, and second in best three females categories. Doll's Dar-Dale herd has participated in area Holstein shows for some 25 years.

Winner of the crowd-favorite Kiddie Klass was veteran "kiddie" exhibitor Angie Beshore, New Cumberland. The 7-year-old, daughter of Sue and Jed Beshore, repeated her accomplishment of last year in her final chance at the popular kids showmanship-only competition.

A cloudburst that swept across the fairgrounds as the show was wrapping up brought smiles and exuberance to both exhibitors and spectators suffering with parched crops and heat-stressed herds -- and sent buckets of rainwater flying among drenched 4-H competitors.

But while some two inches of much-needed moisture flooded fair parking areas and flushed out parts of the show arena, many exhibitors were disheartened on returning home to only a few tenths-of-inches that had fallen on thirsty fields and pastures.

New Jersey Recognizes Eight Farms

CEDAR KNOLLS, NJ. — Eight New Jersey dairy farms were recently recognized through the prestigious Dairy of Distinction award program.

The award pays tribute to the winners for their efforts in maintaining a high quality farm appearance, and the recipients receive a colorful plaque to hang from their farm signs.

The 1991 New Jersey Dairy of Distinction recipients include: William Pettit Jr., Andover; Triangle Farm, Donald Smith, Elmer; John Hubschmith, Bridgeton; Hotse Heeres, Stewartsville; August W. Knispel, Pittstown; Henry Byma, Sussex; Charles Russell Jr., Sussex; and Larry and Carol Freeborn, of Newton.

Initiated in 1987, the Dairy of Distinction program has a two-fold purpose — to recognize the hard work and dedication of dairymen for their well-kept farmsteads, and to instill in consumers a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings. Winners are re-judged annually to ensure that they continue to meet the standards of excellence set by the program.

For more information on the program contact the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. at (315) 472-9143.

The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council Inc. is a dairy promotion organization representing dairy producers from New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

Pro Ag Officials Attend House Ag Meeting

Representatives of the Progressive Agriculture Organization (Pro Ag) were in Washington D.C. on Tuesday to witness the passing of the New National Dairy Act by the U.S. House of Representatives Agriculture Committee.

According to Arden Tewksbury, manager of Pro Ag, the proposed Dairy Act will establish the milk support price at $12.60 per cwt. The Act also calls for the U.S.D.A. to be responsible for the first 5 billion pounds of reserve milk. All dairy farmers will be assessed for milk purchased between 5 and 7 billion lbs. If the Secretary of Agriculture estimates there will be more than seven billion lbs. of reserve milk for any calendar year; then the act "kicks-in" a two tier program.

Recently, Pro Ag's steering committee went on record of not supporting a new National Dairy Act unless it contained a base price over $12.60 per cwt.

Tewksbury, who has spoken to thousands of dairy farmers concerning the need of a new national dairy policy said the proposed act contains many of Pro Ags suggestions. He said, "We are not satisfied that the South Eastern part of the country will be exempt from the two tier part of the program. However, Tewksbury said the exemption was a political decision. If the proponents wanted enough support to pass the act then the exemption of geographic areas with high Class I utilization was necessary.

The House Sub-Committee on Dairy has recently passed the National Dairy Act and submitted it to the full House Ag Committee. Tewksbury said when the Sub-Committee first started to consider the Dairy Act: The Proposed Act contained a support price of $11.60. Pro Ag officals were not satisfied with the $11.60 price so they contacted all members of the House Ag Committee, urging the committee to go to the $12.60 level.

William Dagostim, Chairman of Pro Ags Steering Committee said the general farm organizations won a victory when Congressman Jim Walshs' (R. NY) motion to eliminate the amendment which prevented States from establishing over-order pricing passed. This means that States like Penna. and New York will be able to establish over-order prices to dairy farmers.

Dagostim said that twice during the committee meeting, Chairman de la Garza wanted input from a dairy farmer concerning provisions of the Act, and both times Arden Tewksbury responded to several questions from committee members, Tewksbury told the full Committee that dairy farmers needed a price for their milk that covered the cost of producing milk.

Bull Fertility Reduced By High Heat And Humidity

STEVEN L. MILLIKEN, VMD
Reproductive Associates

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Bulls may experience a temporary, delayed, reduction in fertility following a prolonged period of high environmental temperature and humidity. This reduced fertility may appear 2 to 3 weeks after the hot, humid weather and persist for 13 weeks or more. Cattle breeders using natural service (farm bulls) for breeding cows or heifers should consider using artificial insemination (AI) for 90 days or longer after periods of extreme heat and humidity. Bulls may also be more sluggish and exhibit reduced sexual activity during hot spells.

Development of sperm cells in the testis (spermatogenesis) occurs optimally a few degrees below normal body temperature. If a bull is exposed to prolonged elevated environmental temperatures, particularly associated with high prolonged humidity or elevated body temperature as in certain infectious diseases, the temperature of the testes are increased above normal and the developing spermatocytes (immature sperm) are affected. Since the damaged spermatocytes will not be ready for release for another two to three weeks, the infertility is delayed after the initial exposure to the heat. Although this infertility is temporary, it could last ninety days or longer depending on the duration and severity of the high temperatures.

This lowered fertility may also be seen in bull collection centers for artificial insemination. However, every semen sample from every bull collected in AI centers is carefully evaluated before being frozen to assure that there is adequate live sperm in each straw for insemination. Dairymen can have confidence that frozen semen from reputable AI centers is good quality for optimum fertility.

Because of the hot, humid weather we've experienced in the northeast this summer, beef and dairy farmers using farm bulls should consider using artificial insemination whenever possible. Depending on future weather developments, AI should be used for at least the next three or four months (July through November). This is a time when many dairy cows and heifers will be bred for base milk next year, so optimum fertility is important. AI will also allow beef and dairy farmers to make more rapid genetic improvement in their herds, reduce the risk of venereally transmitted diseases and reduce the risk of injury to cows and people from a bull.

Summer heat stress can also reduce fertility in cows by affecting embryo quality. This is a more immediate affect and is most critical the first week after insemination. So keep all cows cool and comfortable as possible and use artificial insemination for the best breeding success.

Egg Producers Associates Committee Change Announced

WASHINGTON, DC — At its last board meeting Northeast United Egg Producers (NEUEP) announced that Dave Newman (Northeast Agri Systems) relieved Frank Baber (DeKalb Poultry Research) as the chairman of its Associates Committee.

Through the Associates program NEUEP recognizes the value of having a closer working relationship with allied industries. By attending meetings and reviewing reports the Associates know the producers' plans and are able to influence ultimate decisions. "Staying abreast of issues, industry changes and new ideas is smart business," said Mac McLaurin, NEUEP President.

As the first chairman, Baber built participation from zero to twelve active Associates. His vast knowledge of the indust- and many personal contacts assured the success of the program. Regular members deemed the Associates' input to be most valuable.

Dave Newman has been very active in planning the Northeast Tradeshow, scheduled for September. Through his equipment company he is in close contact with producers throughout the region. He's looking forward to the challenges that lie ahead.

U.S. Sen. Wofford Visits Lebanon Farm

ANNVILLE (Lebanon Co.) — U.S. Sen. Harris Wofford recently visited the Charles Bomgardner farm here to discuss local farmers' concerns and announce his latest actions to obtain federal disaster assistance for Pennsylvania farmers.

Earlier this summer, Sen. Wofford was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the accidental death of Sen. John Heinz. Heinz died in an airplane-helicopter crash.

Wofford had served as secretary of the state Department of Labor and Industry, a position he had been appointed to by Gov. Robert Casey in 1987.

"Our state's farmers have been forced to watch their crops dry up because of a natural disaster, while the administration sits back in Washington saying no special assistance is needed," Sen. Wofford said.

"They obviously haven't visited Pennsylvania farms where crops have been destroyed, pastures are dried up and winter feed stocks are nearly depleted. The time is now for the President to lend his support for the emergency if our family farms are to survive."

Sen. Wofford visited Lebanon County's farming community after meeting with Sen. Quentin Burdick, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Agriculture and Related Agencies, urging him to support legislation granting disaster assistance for Pennsylvanians.

Sen. Wofford is recommending that the Senate adopt an Emergency Supplemental Appropriations package smiliar to the one submitted by the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Rural Development, Agriculture and Related Agencies, which would provide $1.75 billion in disaster relief for farmers.

The Bush administration, however, has threatened to veto the Emergency Supplemental Appropriations if it contains funding for agriculture.

Last week, Sen. Wofford also sent a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan urging him to issue a Disaster Declaration for 27 Pennsylvania counties. The declaration would make farmers eligible for low interest loans from the Farmers Home Administration.

"This aid would help, but it won't pay the bills," Sen. Wofford said.

"More loans would only force our farmers deeper into debt as they struggle to repay their operating loans. The kind of assistance they need must be immediate, direct payment for losses due to drought conditions. That's why it's so important to pass an appropriation with emergency aid to our farmers.

"I've been fighting for relief in all levels of government because crop assessments have indicated that this drought is worse than the one we faced in 1988," Sen. Wofford said.

"The lack of rain, coupled with extremely hot weather since early May, has affected yields for most fall crops. Pastures have dried up, forcing farmers to use next winter's feed supplies now — placing them in an even tougher financial position.

"Agriculture is our number one industry, and Pennsylvania farmers have already lost 30 percent of their crops with an estimated economic value of $600 million dollars," Sen. Wofford explained. "You don't simply remove $600 million from the economy — especially when we're trying to come out of a recession — and not miss it.

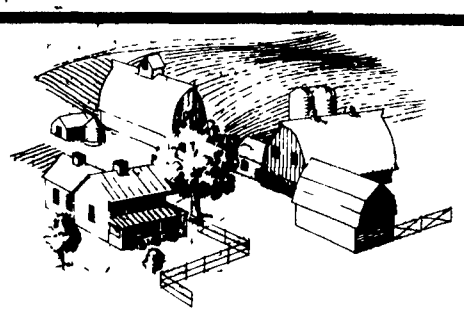
"The administration wants to give unconditional Most Favored Nation trade status to China. I think it's time to give 'Most Favored Neighbor' status to America's farmers.

"We extend assistance to the victims of flood and famine across the globe, but when it comes to helping our own hard-working neighbors, the Bush administration holds back," Sen. Wofford charged.

"I find it incomprehensible that, while reaching out with $1 billion in grain credits to Soviets and hundreds of billions to defend our wealthy allies in Europe and Asia, the administration can turn its back on Pennsylvania's farmers."

An executive disaster declaration would make low-interest loans from the U.S. Farmers Home Administration available to qualified Pennsylvania farmers in the following counties: Bedford, Blair, Bradford, Cambria, Centre, Clarion, Clearfield, Clinton, Cumberland, Erie, Forest, Fulton, Huntingdon, Juniata, Lebanon, Lycoming, Mifflin, Montour, Potter, Snyder, Somerset, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, Venango, Wyoming and York.

Federal disaster assistance legislation would aid all Pennsylvania farmers hurt by the drought, regardless of the county in which they are located, he said.



FARM MANAGEMENT

RED FLAGS OF CREDIT USE

Patricia L. Powley
Extension
Home Economist

One of the greatest disadvantages of credit use is the loss of financial flexibility in personal money management. Income which must go toward past purchases through credit payments reduces the amount available for present family living expenses. You also have less capacity to handle emergencies.

The most important single factor in controlling credit is to limit its use to amounts you can pay safely out of current and future income allocated for family living expenses. Here are a few danger signals to watch for in the use of credit.

• 1. You have an excessive percent of disposable personal income assigned to debt. Generally, spending more than 20 percent of net income on debt repayments, excluding farm/home mortgage, is a clear sign of difficulty.

• 2. You pay for previous borrowing by taking out a loan. You may find you owe numerous creditors different amounts at varying interest rates. A consolidation loan may seem attractive. The result however is a higher total finance charge (including perhaps consolidation fees) since you borrow money over a longer period of time even if the interest rate is less than that charged by some of the existing creditors. An add on loan, taking out a second loan for a larger amount before you repay the first loan, can also be a sign of increasing debt beyond reasonable limits.

• 3. You request increases in your credit limits in order to make ends meet. Creditors are usually willing to increase your approved credit limit because it can mean more income for them. For some families, a low credit limit inhibits flexibility, but for others you may be getting deeper into debt after obtaining an increase in your credit limit.

• 4. You make only minimum payments on your accounts. This greatly increases the total finance charges you will pay. You will also likely find your account balances growing toward their limits.

• 5. Expenses are greater than income. You are missing credit payments. If you are running out of money on a month-to-month basis, dip into emergency reserves, or relay on overtime or bonuses to pay for everyday expenses you may be overextended.

Dealing With Creditors

For a host of reasons — sickness, unemployment, personal problems — many people experience debt problems. Dealing with financial trouble can cause less distress if you know your options.

Reduce your anxiety by taking charge now. Here are some practical, step-by-step strategies to use when bills cannot be paid:

• Step 1: List family income. What is your current income? Do you expect it to change?

• Step 2: List assets--all that you own. It may be possible to sell some assets in order to pay bills. Do you own recreation equipment that is rarely used? Could you get along without a second car?

• Step 3: List debts. Record the creditor's name, total balance due, interest rate, and payment schedule. Are you behind in payments? How much?

• Step 4: Make a spending plan. See where your money goes. Put credit cards in a safe place and avoid using them for while. Cut out frills, postpone some spending. Take advantage of community services. Dust off your do-it-yourself skills.

Approaching Creditors

Contact all creditors, including professionals such as a dentist or physician. Explain the facts — that a reduction in family income because of unemployment or divorce, for example, makes it impossible to keep up your complete payment. Be frank about future income prospects. You and your creditor can work together to figure out an acceptable plan. Put it in writing. Do not make promises you cannot keep. Remember, if reduced income continues for longer than you anticipated, renegotiation of payments will be necessary.

If you contact creditors by telephone, record the name and title of the person with whom you talk. This information may be helpful at a later time. If creditors are contacted in writing, keep copies of all correspondence, including the reply.

Deciding Which Debts to Pay

You are obligated to pay all creditors. Not paying debts will affect your credit record and may involve court action. Probably the fairest approach would be to prorate your available money to all creditors. In doing this, each creditor would be paid a fair share. This method does not always work since it requires the cooperation of all creditors. Procedures for dealing with debtors who cannot meet payments vary among creditors.

Establishing priorities is another way to determine which creditor should be paid first. Ask yourself these questions: What will affect my family's health and security the most? Usually the house, utilities, food, transportation, and insurance coverage take preference. Pay these creditors first or contact them immediately to make provisions for smaller monthly payments.

Is your debt due to secured or unsecured credit? Secured credit is backed by collateral, usually a title to property in the event of failure to pay, the lender can take possession of the property. Home mortgages, car loans, and sometimes furniture and large appliance loans are secured.

Unsecured debts, backed only by the borrower's signed guarantee to pay, may have to take a lower priority for payment.

How much equity do you have in the loan? Equity is the amount of principal paid on the debt. You may have loans on a television and a refrigerator. The refrigerator is essential, but if only two payments are left to buy the television, you may want to make those first.

Consider selling or returning items purchased just before your income dropped. In the case of voluntary repossession, you may pay the difference between the market value of the merchandise and the loan balance. Such action may be reported in your credit record, but has a more positive status than repossession.

What is the interest rate you are paying? Compare the interest rates charged on your debts. Pay off the outstanding balance of loans with higher rates first. This allows you to reduce the amount of interest paid.

Is a consolidation loan a good idea? Personal finance companies want you to think so, but generally a consolidation loan charges high rates of interest. A new loan also adds new credit costs. A single loan does make payment easier, but this is a small benefit for the additional costs involved. What about your credit record? Nonpayment of bills is recorded on your credit record; late or partial payments may not be. That is why it is important to contact all of your creditors immediately if you cannot pay bills.

Collection Practices

If you don't contact creditors and make no payments, creditors may hire a collection agency. Federal regulations limit the practices of these agencies when collecting a bill. Collection agencies may only contact you between 8 a.m. and 9 p. m. They can't discuss your financial situation with others (neighbors, employers), but they can contact others in order to locate you. You have the right to tell the collector in writing not to contact you and the collector must honor your written request.

Alternatives

If, after talking with your creditors, you feel you can no longer handle your financial situation, seek credit advice. You county extension office can refer you to financial counselors.

As a last resort in severe financial situations, you may want to consider filing bankruptcy. Seek legal counsel before taking this step.

SPELTZ AND WHITE SOYBEANS ARE FAST GROWING IN DEMAND, especially if they are non-toxic. Speltz brings twice as much as wheat because it is so much better for food and feed. White beans bring twice as much as yellow beans because the demand is growing fast for soymilk and tofu and vegetarian burgers, because the farmers are polluting animal and poultry meat with drugs. Shame on them. It causes consumers to change to a healthier source of protein. They will like it so much that they will never go back.

Besides plenty American Soy Food factories, the Japs are building a large factory in Indiana. Get on the band wagon.

WHY NOT DOUBLE YOUR INCOME PER ACRE if you need more money? Sow Speltz in September. We have both kinds of seeds. Our Nutri Carb fertilizer applied in the fall produces toxic free crops next year.

Foliar feed your alfalfa and late vegetables with our good high mineral liquid fish for only $5.00 per acre. It has many more precious trace minerals than higher priced liquid fertilizers.

We have a good natural insecticide that does not pollute your precious soil, for only $4.00 per acre.

ANY STUBBORN FAMILY HEALTH PROBLEMS?

We have the answer to that too, as well as soil problems. Back to nature is the answer to both. Dr. Robert Preston ND, from Calif. and the products he formulated can help you at a meeting at the Leola Family Restaurant on Rt. 23, 5 miles east of Lancaster, directly opposite the big Stauffers of K.H. 1991 BARN PAINTING

Aim For The Best - In Coating Film Thickness

To do it right use the finest kind of bristle brush evening out the coating into a film thickness that does not peel in normal moisture stress (found on most barn siding from outside and inside by livestock or stored animal feed.)

1. PREPARATION. Peeling old coatings (improperly brushed) needs to be removed. The best method is simply water blasting or power washing! High volume of water - medium pressure is best! Done professionally or do it yourself, especially on the easy to reach areas. This is resurfacing!!!
2. BEST NEW START ON RESURFACED WOOD SIDING After spraying on this kind of barn paint or stain, take time to pay attention to brush out in all directions to create a film thickness that will prevent future peeling & resurfacing costs & effort. This film will let excess moisture breathe through it. Depending on the amount of weather wear it can be recoated lightly in 10-15 years. Southern exposures usually wear faster.

Family Lives In Chicken House, Bakes In Barn

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — At Kissel View Farm, Bob and Karen Harnish and three children live in the chicken house and bake in the barn.

It's a setup that many envy. Both chicken house and barn have been artfully redecorated. Their stone home belies that at one time it was a two-story cement block chicken house, and their sand-blasted barn that houses a bustling bakery business reveals no sign of former animal use.

For the Harnishes, the attractiveness of the farm is far surpassed by "the opportunity for us to work together as a family at home," Karen said.

During Karen's growing up years, she helped milk Holsteins in the barn and gather eggs in the chicken house. As the only child of Mervin and Kathryn Deiter, Karen spent lots of her time in the kitchen with her great-grandmother who lived with the family. There she learned to bake perfect cookies — mounds of them at Christmas time. The dough was mixed in a huge crock bowl, and the cookies placed on antique china plates. There were sand tarts, ice box black walnut cookies, rolled coconut, date- and raisin-filled cookies, and many more varieties that filled the kitchen with tantalizing smells.

From her mother and grandmother, Karen learned the art of candy making. I say art, because Karen stocks hundreds of molds and uses her creativity in decorating them.

During her high school years, Karen helped a neighbor bake pies and cakes that were sold at Thomas Farm Market, along Route 501, Lititz.

When Karen graduated from high school, she took over her neighbor's bakery orders. From the beginning, it was a separate entity from the farm market.

Karen turned some of the barn's limestone and quartz stones into flower arrangements.

During this time, Karen was also dating Bob, who "planned to farm until the day he died."

By the time the couple married the following year, the bakery business was flourishing. The couple renovated the two-story chicken house on Karen's parents' farm. Now, three children later, the Harnishes have plenty of space in the roomy chicken house. Newcomers to the area never suspect that the stone home was once a cement block chicken house.

Although the Harnishes did not move during their marriage, their careers underwent changes. When first married, Bob continued farming with his father in Washington Boro. Soon, "the farmer" found himself working more and more evenings to help with the bakery workload. During Karen's first pregnancy, Bob learned to bake so that he could take over during the weeks she took off for childcare.

Bob discovered that baking was almost as much fun as farming. Expanding business soon demanded that Bob help full time in the bakery.

For many years, the Harnishes worked in cramped quarters at the Farm Market. When their lease expired this year, the couple scrambled for ideas to find a home for their business. At first, they planned to build a bakery along the road, but were appalled by the cost estimates.

This year on a January day, her father suggested she use the barn.

"I had always admired the stone barn on my father's farm," Karen said. "There aren't too many stone barns left in the county. When my father sold out the dairy herd, the barn was empty except for a few horses for many years. I thought it should be used, but I never dreamed of using it for the bakery business."

In fact, when her dad first made the suggestion, Karen admits, "I shed two tears because I had dreamed of a new building, but within 30 minutes I had walked through the barn and drawn up a rough draft of how the bakery could be laid out in it."

The plan underwent several revisions, and Karen said, "I never envisioned all the work involved in doing it." The stone that was covered with white plaster inside and outside was sand blasted and pointed. Three sets of trusses and three new roofs were added to the barn. New plumbing, heating, and electrical work were done. The barn is totally air conditioned for baking comfort.

The huge timbers lend a rustic air to the bakery showroom. The large kitchen has numerous countertops for the different types of baking.

On April 25, the bakery was officially opened for business. "We went from 700 square feet to 5,000 square feet," Karen said. "The work was definitely worth it. We love working in it."

Eight-hour work days are rare for the couple. Instead, the couple often rises at 2 a.m. to begin their baking chores. Karen tries to take a short afternoon siesta. Despite the hard toil, Karen said, "I enjoy the work. There isn't any part of it that I don't like except the pressure of knowing I should be doing several things at the same time."

When Karen first started her bakery business, she baked about 10 dozen cookies and four shoo-fly pies weekly. Now, she does 15 varieties that total 150 dozen weekly (50 varieties during the Christmas season), and 16 to 32 shoo-fly pies plus 30 other varieties every couple of days, depending on demand. The bakery uses as much as one-third ton of chocolate at Christmas for their candy making. Buns, breads, honey, maple syrup, hand-made beeswax ornaments, and 80 different kinds of bulk food are offered at the Farm's store.

Karen also bakes an extensive line of no-sugar cookies, pies, and apple dumplings, and sugar-free jams and jellies.

The bakery is perhaps most famous for their corn pies. The family husks and freezes all the corn needed to make the pies year around. There is a big demand for their fresh apricot pies during this time of the year.

When the Harnishes had their bakery in the Farm Market, they had several miles to travel from their home. Now the barn is located only a few feet from the home and the whole family pitches in with the work. Andy, 13, likes baking miniature pies and mixing up the apple cakes. Jenny, 11, and Krista, 9, help out at the counter and do other jobs such as restocking cookies. The Harnishes employ two full-time and two part-time workers in addition to Karen's mom who fills in whenever necessary.

"I never had aspirations to own my own business," said Karen, who seems a little awed by the success of the bakery. "I was more into art than business, but I learned early that the market for art was limited."

But she is delighted that she can incorporate art into the business. In addition to the beeswax ornaments that she makes and paints, and her decorative breads, she recently added a new line to the store — flower arranging on stone.

The idea was birthed when Karen's father, who is a carpenter and mason, was working on the barn. He had six feet of solid rock that needed to be removed. He gave Karen some of the quartz and limestone rocks, and said, "Make something with them."

Karen did. She used the rocks as bases for silk flower arrangments, which are sold in the shop with her dried bun baskets, beeswax ornaments, and other collectibles.

Kissel Hill Bakery is located at 122 West Millport Road in Lititz. The Harnishes also operate the Bake Shop at Root's Farmers' Market, Manheim, on Tuesdays.

York Drive-In Promotes Dairy Products

JOYCE BUPP
York County Correspondent

COLLINSVILLE (York Co.) — A month-long dairy promotion at the Collinsville Drive-In was just part of a full schedule of June Dairy Month activities organized in York County.

Dairy Princess Penny Jordan, Brogue, and the promotion committee worked closely with the Collinsville restaurant during the four weeks of contests, drawings, and dairy product giveaways. A purchase of sundaes, ice cream cones, or milkshakes in varying weeks qualified customers to enter drawings for free dairy desserts of their choice.

What better way to celebrate July Ice Cream Month than with a super-duper cone? York Dairy Princess Penny Jordan gets ready to lick the challenge of a giant soft serve donated by the Collinsville Drive-In.

Children had their own chance to participate in the restaurant's promotion through a cow coloring contest. Coloring contest winners, who also earned a dairy dessert prize, were Shane Butt, 3-4 years-old division; Kristin Waltermyer, 5-7 years-old division; and Brian Onion, 8-10 years-old division.

June Dairy Month babies were recognized at two York County hospitals. Both little boys and their mothers received special gifts and baskets of dairy products from Princess Penny Jordan.

First June baby at York Hospital was the son of Rita Accardo, York. Memorial Hospital's first June birth was the son of Micha Burnett of Marriatta, Georgia.

Stewartstown Senior Citizens had their own dairy month contest, a milk bingo game created by Penny for their June meeting. Cow erasers used as chips for the bingo game were especially popular, according to Princess Penny.

Radio and newspaper interviews, Vacation Bible School visits, promotions at the Giant supermarkets, and York's 250th anniversary parade have kept Penny in the public eye and brought York Countians a greater awareness of the dairy industry.

Milk sampling at the Harrisburg Senators baseball game and sundae-making at the Philadelphia Ice Cream Day offered Penny additional Dairy Month promotional opportunities.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

"Do you have a jar?" asked one of our favorite little persons a few nights ago. "I wanna' catch lightning bugs."

Jar in hand, neighbor Andy pursued his firefly-stalking expedition through the deepending shadows of the backyard at twilight. The tiny lights winked in the dusk, sending the catcher on a circling chase.

From the rabbits' pen to the perennial border to the springhouse, lightning bugs suddenly found themselves prey to a warm-summer-evening pastime that has surely occupied millions of children over who knows how many centuries.

Pity the children who have never run outside, barefooted, in the fading sunset of a summer evening, to light up their childhood with firefly blinks.

Fireflies lighting up the inside of a glass jelly jar, holes punched in the metal lid, sparkle in my memories of carefree childhood summers. Too often, we kept the innocent catches imprisoned in the jars overnight, bringing their normally brief lives to an even quicker end, despite the ventilation holes.

Later in the season, when fireflies had passed with earlier summer into history, we refilled the jelly jars with grass and snagged crickets. Though perhaps more durable than fireflies under glass-jar imprisonment, our crickets, too, went belly up if kept bottled up too long.

Actually, cricket season had ominous overtones. First day of school was imminent and we, like the jarred insects, would have to endure confinement, enhanced by entire, whole days of having to wear shoes.

Imprisoning hapless insects was only one of the pasttimes we pursued on long summer evenings. A neighbor's wide lawn hosted countless softball games; a good game was when you could round up enough kids for at least two three-person teams of varying ages and abilities.

Do kids still play kick-the-can? That was a favorite version of hide-n-seek. Whoever was "it" had to go find and round up those in hiding. If someone could sneak in while "it" was rounding up the other players, and give the can a healthy kick, all those already "found" were free.

A great game. Unless you were "it."

Recycling was not in vogue then, but this was a handy way to get cans flattened. Today's lightweight aluminum, though, wouldn't make nearly as loud a rattle to alert "it" that the can had been kicked — and that the others were free to scramble for another hiding place.

A badminton net was almost a permanent fixture from June through August on our side lawn. Preferable playing time was morning or early evening, since its location on the west side of the house took the afternoon's worst heat. Badminton "birdies" sailed anywhere from the neighbor's vegetable garden to the sloping roof of our house; there may still be one lodged in the Rose of Sharon bush outside Mom's sewing room window.

Croquet was another favorite summer pasttime. Almost preferable to hitting the wooden ball through the hoops was aiming at one belonging to your younger brother. Reward for hitting a competitor's ball was the chance to penalize theirs, "sending" it with a whack off the laid-out course, through Mom's peony bushes into the vegetable garden beyond. Sort of a sand trap.

Such antics occasionally got out of hand; there was temptation to use those mallets as weapons when the inevitable sibling squabble broke out.

"He hit me!"

"But she hit me first!"

The game got a prompt end, and we got an occasional shape-up smack on our ends for such forbidden shenanigans.

In the near dark, Andy opened the jar's plastic lid and freed his captive lightening bugs. They flew off for a few more days of life, unaware of the role they've played in a little boy's — and one middle-aged neighbor's — memory.

Crickets are already beginning to sing. Think we'll keep the jar handy.

TYRONE (Huntingdon Co.) — When Billie Joe Hoover of RD 4 Tyrone decided to become Huntingdon County's Dairy Princess, it seemed the natural thing to do. Billie Jo combines her dairy background, her interest in food and nutrition, and the Dairy Princess 4-day training seminar to become a responsible spokesperson for promoting Huntingdon's dairy interests.

"I've always known about it (being a dairy princess) and now that I'm old enough, it seems the natural thing to do," states Billie Jo.

Billie Jo, 17, and her brother Doug, 19, are the third generation on their parents 600-acre dairy farm. Parents William and Deb Hoover milk 130 cows and raise corn, soybeans, and alfalfa. Billie Jo is responsible for feeding the calves.

A 9-year veteran of 4-H, she emphasized food and nutrition rather than showing dairy cattle. With this background, she plans to attend Penn State to major in Food Science.

Billie Jo was one of 38 princesses and over 20 alternates from Pennsylvania to attend the 4-day Dairy Princess training seminar at Lycoming College. Billie Jo's father William observed, "I was surprised at the number of different experts they had speaking on topics such as animal rights, erosion, and the Chesapeake Bay Program. They did give them a lot of information on a variety of subjects, not only dairy. I was impressed by that."

As a representative of agriculture, Billie Jo appreciates the training to better prepare her for her various duties. She has already attended the State Holstein picnic, parades, fairs, fireman's festivals, schools and has spoken on the radio. Dairy Promotion Committee coordinator Eleanor Isenberg will be on hand when Billie Jo Hoover attends the State Dairy Princess contest in September.

CHELATION THERAPY

THIS MAY BE YOUR ANSWER TO: Heart Problems, High Blood Pressure, Poor Circulation, Arthritis, Diabetes, Leg Cramps, Numbness, Tingling, Cold Hands And Feet & Atherosclerosis.

Dear Golden Pride/Rawleigh:

At age 16 I was diagnosed as having juvenile diabetes. My blood count was over 300. I was put on a high dosage of insulin.

Over the years I became pregnant three different times. I miscarried between the second and fourth month each time. At age 40 I became tired and was losing weight. I went from 140 pounds down to 90 pounds. I was finally diagnosed as having diabetic neuropathy. Since medical history records have been kept, I was the 500th case to be diagnosed. The neuropathy is what makes it rare. My doctor conferred with the doctors at Mayo Clinic before he could prescribe or treat me. At this time my blood sugar was never below 350 and I was taking 110 units of insulin. At times my blood sugar would go up to between 400 and 500. Twice it went to 1000.

Last June my Golden Pride/Rawleigh dealer began telling me about Formula #1. I began taking two tablets a day. On the day I started Formula #1, my sugar reading was 359 and I was taking 110 units of insulin a day. I began to see results on the third bottle. My sugar count was coming down and I began decreasing my insulin. My doctor kept asking what I was doing different but I wouldn't tell him for about eight months. When I went for my check up in March, my blood sugar was 102 and my insulin intake is down to 30-34 units a day. My doctor is very pleased with my progress and told me to continue taking the formula.

I feel sure if I would have known about Golden Pride/Rawleigh years ago I would never have gotten in the condition I was in.

Consumers Look For Magic Pill In Food Choices

BETH WHITMAN PITZER
Cumberland Co.
Correspondent

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Do you sometimes look for magic answers in choosing the foods that you eat? If you answered "yes" or "maybe" to that question, you're like most Americans.

According to Eileen Newman, nutritionist for the Human Nutrition Information Service, most consumers do look for a magic answer and need help in making food and nutrition decisions.

Let's look at some of the newest nutrition findings and hopefully answer a few of your nutrition questions. This information was discussed at "Bridge to Excellence", a conference offered for home economists and nutritionists at University Park on June 29.

On a very positive note, the average consumption of fat decreased from 40% of calories to 37% of calories in the last ten years. The guideline and aim is to consume 30% of calories from fat in the diet. But what exactly does that mean? Let's look at it an easier way.

Try counting the amount of calories from fat by counting "fat grams". It's easy, so let's see how to do it using the needs of an "average" adult female for an example:

Step: 1. Establish the amount of calories you eat daily. An example: An average is 1800 cal.

Step: 2. Drop the last digit. An example: 180.

Step: 3. Divide by 3. An example: 60.

The resulting number is the recommended number of grams of fat to consume from foods each day. For the "average" American woman, this translates to 60 grams and for men, 75 grams.

Now let's look at an example in a menu choice. Many of us know how much more lean beef and pork are today than they were 40 years ago. Let's look at two menu items and compare their fat content. First, start with a salad. Begin with the usual lettuce. Add tomato, cheese, egg, nuts, bacon bits, croutons, and dressing. The fat adds up to about 37 grams, with moderate amounts added. Now let's look at a hamburger. The average hamburger contains 21 grams of fat, that's 16 grams less than all of the ingredients in the salad. That finding would surprise many American consumers. The bottom line is eat foods in moderation and eat a variety of foods.

"Consumers are most concerned about fat. But, taste ranks above fat." That is research Madeline Bissonnette, nutrition scientist from Kraft, shared with the audience. She relayed that the food industry is trying to bridge the gap. That is, give consumers more low fat products that keep the taste they enjoy. This can be done using a unique blend of foods to produce fat-free products.

For example, skim milk, egg white, gums, and starches can be combined to reproduce the taste and feel of fat without using much fat. The secret and the challenge is to try to reproduce the feel of fat. She shared that we can expect more and more low-fat items with the taste and feel of fat.

Looking away from fat to fruits and vegetables, we find more new research in this area also. Eileen Newman, HNIS, discussed that it is now recommended to eat 5 servings of fruits and 5 servings of vegetables each day. Other nutritionists recommend 6 to 10 servings from the fruit and vegetable group combined. That's double what many of us grew up to know!

Another interesting change was highlighted by John Stanton, Ph.D. of Food Marketing Research at Saint Joseph's University in Philadelphia. As more and more women have joined the workforce, more children have an increased role in food preparation. Presently we have 7 million latchkey children ages 6 to 13. They watch over 50,000 T.V. commercials, spend over $6 billion, and influence $60 billion in spending! Whew!

What does this mean? We have new "gatekeepers". That is children who have a large influence on family eating habits. Some industries will be targeting this new audience by giving simple explanations for kids. In fact, it was reported that 65% of kids make all meals in 20% of the families. These are families having children ages 6 to 13.

For more information about nutrition, inquire about the new Dietary Guidelines, and write to the following address: U.S. Department of Agriculture, Human Nutrition Information Service, 6505 Belcrest Road, Hyattsville, Maryland 20782 or call: 301-436-5724.

Plump Tomato Ideas

After months of using store-bought tomatoes, I am again amazed by the juicy goodness of plump, well formed tomatoes. The flavor of a vine-ripened tomato bears little resemblance to their shipped or greenhouse counterparts.

Too bad we can't find a way to preserve vine-ripened tomatoes for year-around enjoyment.

But why complain. There are endless ways to enjoy them baked, broiled, cooked, and in sauces.

Did you know that one medium tomato provides 40 percent of the recommended allowance of vitamin C; 20 percent of vitamin A? In addition, tomatoes are an excellent source of potassium and fiber. And, a medium-size tomato has only 35 calories.

Tomatoes do not ripen in the refrigerator, and they lose their natural goodness if refrigerated.

Enjoy them in a variety of ways by trying these recipes.

DUTCH BEANS

2 16-ounce cans string beans, drained
1 16-ounce can whole tomatoes
½ cup onions, diced
½ teaspoon salt, optional

Drain tomatoes, placing juice in saucepan. Cut up tomatoes and add to juice. Bring to boil and add onions. Cook for 2 minutes.

Add string beans and salt and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to medium and boil for 5 minutes. Serve.

Variation: add 1 tablespoon of real bacon bits to tomatoes before adding beans.

GRILLED CHEESE AND TOMATO SANDWICH

2 slices bread
2 tablespoons butter
2 slices tomato
2 slices American cheese

Butter bread and place buttered side down in skillet.

Layer 1 slice of cheese on bread, 2 slices tomato, and another slice of cheese. Top with another slice of bread, unbuttered side down.

Cover and grill over low medium heat until both sides are toasty brown.

Variations: On top of tomato slices, place: 3 slices crisp bacon or 1 slice of ham or 3 tablespoons drained tuna fish.

SUMMER PASTA SAUCE

4 or 5 large tomatoes
1 large zucchini, sliced thin
1 large yellow squash, sliced thin
1 large onion, sliced thin
2 tablespoons unsalted butter
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 large carrot, grated
2 tablespoons tomato paste
4 or 5 large fresh basil leaves
Salt and pepper to taste
Grated parmesan cheese

Blanch tomatoes in boiling water, remove skins, core and quarter. Reserve in large bowl. In a large sauce pan, saute onions in oil until soft, but not brown. Add tomatoes, grated carrot, tomato paste and basil leaves; cook uncovered over medium heat about 15 minutes or until tomatoes are soft and sauce is thick. Adjust seasoning. Add both squashes and overcook. Swirl butter into sauce before serving on cooked fettuccine or linguine. Top with cheese.

BLENDER KETCHUP

Use electric blender and eliminate need for pressing or sieving.

24 pounds ripe tomatoes
2 pounds onions
1 pound sweet red peppers
1 pound sweet green peppers
9 cups vinegar
9 cups sugar
½ cup canning or pickling salt
3 tablespoons dry mustard
1½ tablespoon ground red pepper
1½ teaspoon whole allspice
1½ tablespoon whole cloves
3 sticks cinnamon

Wash tomatoes and dip in boling water for 30 to 60 seconds or until skins split. Then dip in cold water, slip off skins, core, and quarter. Remove seeds from peppers and slice into strips. Peel and quarter onions. Blend tomatoes, peppers, and onions at high speed for 5 seconds in electric blender. Pour into a 3- to 4-gallon stock pot or large kettle and heat. Boil gently 60 minutes, stirring frequently. Add vinegar, sugar, salt, and a spice bag containing dry mustard, red pepper, and other spices. Continue boiling and stirring until volume is reduced one-half and ketchup rounds up on a spoon with no separation of liquid and solids. Remmove spice bag and fill pint jars, leaving ¼ -inch headspace. Adjust lids and process 15 minutes in boiling-water canner. Yield: about 9 pints.

Use an abundance of cherry or patio tomatoes with shish kebabs on the grill.

NEAPOLITAN TOMATO PARMESAN

6 firm medium-sized tomatoes
4 eggs
¼ cup parmesan cheese
1½ teaspoons garlic powder
¼ cup parsley flakes
½ cup fresh basil
Salt and pepper to taste
Flavored bread crumbs
Oil
8 ounces Mozzarella cheese, shredded

Slice tomatoes ¼ -inch thick. Coat tomatoes with bread crumbs; dip into egg mixture made from eggs, parmesan cheese, garlic powder, parsley flakes, basil, salt and pepper. Fry in hot oil until lightly browned. Drain on white paper towel. Place in shallow dish, single layer. Sprinkle with shredded cheese. Heat in hot oven or microwave until cheese melts. Serves 4 to 6.

CANNED SPAGHETTI SAUCE

30 pounds tomatoes
1 cup chopped onions
5 cloves garlic, minced
1 cup chopped celery or green pepper
1 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
4½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoon oregano
4 tablespoons minced parsley
2 teaspoons black pepper
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup vegetable oil

Caution: Do not increase the proportion of onions, peppers or mushrooms. Wash tomatoes and dip in boiling water for 30 to 60 seconds or until skins split. Dip in cold water and slip off skins. Remove cores and quarter tomatoes. Boil 20 minutes, uncovered, in large saucepan. Put through food mill or sieve. Saute onions, garlic, celery or peppers, and mushrooms (if desired) in vegetable oil until tender. Combine sauteed vegetables and tomatoes and add remainder of spices, salt, and sugar. Bring to a boil. Simmer, uncovered, until thick enough for serving. At this time the initial volume will have been reduced by nearly one half. Stir frequently to avoid burning. Fill jars, leaving 1-inch headspace. Adjust lids and process 25 minutes at 10 pounds pressure.

FRIED TOMATOES

4 medium-sized tomatoes
½ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons fat
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Use ripe but firm tomatoes. Do not remove skins. Cut in slices ⅓ -inch thick. Roll in flour and fry in hot fat. When browned on both sides, sprinkle with salt, pepper, and brown sugar. Place tomatoes on platter and serve.

HERBED VEGETABLE COMBO

2 tablespoons water
1 cup zucchini squash, thinly sliced
1¼ cups yellow squash, thinly sliced
½ cup green pepper, cut into 2-inch slices
¼ cup celery, cut into 2-inch strips
¼ cup onion, chopped
½ teaspoon caraway seed
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
1 medium tomato, cut into 8 wedges

Heat water in large frypan. Add squash, green pepper, celery, and onion. Cover and cook over moderate heat until vegetables are tender-crisp, about 4 minutes.

Sprinkle seasonings over vegetables. Top with tomato wedges. Cover and cook over low heat until tomato wedges are just heated, about 2 minutes.

QUESTION — Cindy Stahl, Lititz, would like an easy recipe to make duck that does not taste greasy.

ANSWER — Mrs. C.M. Haas, Monocacy Station, wanted a recipe for sweet potato biscuits that tastes like those served at English's in Maryland. Thanks to Cindy Stahl, Lititz, for sending one that is printed in a cookbook called "Sweet Potato Recipes by Homemakers of Virginia's Eastern Shore."

Sweet Potato Rolls

1 package dry yeast
1½ cups warm water
⅔ cups sugar
1¼ teaspoons salt
⅔ cup liquid shortening
2 eggs
1 cup lukewarm mashed sweet potatoes
7 to 7½ cups flour

In mixing bowl dissolve yeast in warm water. Stir in sugar, salt, shortening, eggs, potatoes, and half the flour. Mix in remaining flour until dough is easy to handle. Turn onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth, about 5 minutes, adding extra flour, if needed as you go. Place greased side up in greased bowl. Cover with plastic wrap. Refrigerate for 2 hours (dough will double). Take out amount you are going to use. Roll out to ¼ -inch thick and cut with small floured tumbler. Let rise until light, about 1 hour. Bake 15 to 20 minutes at 400 degrees. Yields approximately 3 dozen rolls, depending on size of tumbler.

ANSWER — Catherine Shearer of Greencastle requested a bread recipe that is baked in wide-mouth pint jars. Thanks to Cindy Stahl, Lititz, for sending directions. She writes that any quick-bread recipe can be used. Follow the directions for mixing the quick bread. Grease wide mouth jars. Fill jars to halfway with batter. Place jars on a cookie sheet and bake until knife comes out clean. Remove one jar at a time from oven. Place wax paper circle on top hot bread. Fit lid inside ring and screw into hot jar. Immediately, turn jar upside down. Repeat this procedure for each jar of bread. The heat of the bread creates a vacuum and seals the jar. The wax paper circle keeps the bread from sticking to the lid when the jar is turned right-side up. Before storing, check each lid for a correct seal. Unsealed jars should be kept in the refrigerator to be eaten immediately. Sealed jars may be stored in freezer or with other home canned foods. Bread will keep indefinitely, but it is always wise to check for signs of mold or spoilage before eating any home canned foods.

ANSWER — Here are two blueberry recipes sent in by Nancy Kramer of Newmanstown.

Blueberry Bread Pudding

2 tablespoons margarine
4 eggs, beaten
2½ cups milk
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
8 cups French or Italian bread cubes
2 cups fresh blueberries

Melt margarine in a 13x9x2-inch pan. Set aside. Combine next 4 ingredients in a large bowl, beat well. Add bread cubes. Let set 5 minutes. Fold in blueberries. Spoon into prepared pan. Bake at 350 degrees until lightly browned and puffed. Serve warm with a custard sauce or whipped cream. Serves 10.

Orange-Blueberry Muffins

1 cup uncooked oatmeal
1 cup orange juice
3 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
3 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup sugar
1 cup vegetable oil
1½ cups fresh or frozen blueberries

Topping:

½ cup chopped nuts
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine oatmeal and orange juice, set aside. In large bowl, combine flour, baking powder, salt, baking soda, and sugar. Make a well in center and add oatmeal mixture, oil, and beaten eggs. Stir only until moistened. Carefully fold in blueberries. Spoon batter into greased muffin cups, filling ¾ full. Combine nuts, sugar, and cinnamon. Sprinkle over muffins and bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes or until muffins test done. Remove from tins and serve warm if desired. Makes 24 muffins.

Tomato Ideas

SALSA

4 cups peeled, cored, chopped tomatoes
2 cups seeded, chopped long green peppers
1 cup seeded chopped hot pepper (chili or jalapeno)
¾ cup chopped onion
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cloves garlic, minced
1½ cups cider vinegar

Combine tomatoes, peppers, onions, salt, garlic, and vinegar in a large heavy kettle. Bring mixture to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes. Pour into hot jars, cap and process 30 minutes in boiling water bath. Be sure to drain tomatoes well for a nice thick salsa. Any combination of hot peppers will work. Let your creative streak go wild. It is no fail!

FAMILY-SIZE BRUNSWICK STEW

2 (3-pound) broiler-fryers or 2 (4-pound) stewing chicken
1 pound salt pork, sliced thin or chopped
2 quarts freshly cut corn
5 quarts sliced peeled tomatoes
1 quart diced peeled potatoes
2 quarts lima beans
2 medium onions, chopped
2 medium onions, chopper
¼ teaspoon ground red pepper or 1 medium pepper pod
Salt and pepper, to taste

Cut up chicken. Cover with water in heavy kettle; cook until meat falls away from bone, adding water if necessary.

Add salt pork. Add vegetables and seasonings. Simmer slowly until tender, and mixture is thick and well blended. Remove pepper pod, if used. Serve hot. Makes 15 to 20 servings.

HEARTY VEGETABLE SOUP

2 tablespoons butter
1 pound hamburger
1 cup diced carrots
1 cup diced potatoes
½ cup diced onions
1½ cups chopped celery
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
2 or 3 cups milk
⅓ cup flour
2 cups tomato juice

Melt butter and brown meat; add onions. Stir in remaining ingredients except flour and milk.

Cover and cook slowly until vegetables are tender. Combien flour and 1 cup milk. Add remaining milk and heat, stirring frequently. Do not boil again. This soup can be frozen.

In Asia, milk is a prestige drink symbolizing the new values of a consumer society. Middle class people in Japan, Indonesia, Singapore and the Philippines are eagerly drinking the protein-rich fluid. And, in Thailand, the government actively encourages local milk production.

MICROFIBERS - THE NEWEST IN FABRIC INNOVATIONS

After many years of taking a back seat to natural fibers, polyester is gaining new respect with the introduction of microfibers. Microfibers can produce fabrics that are softer and more durable than the finest silk. Brushing intensifies the softness of these fibers. They also have certain performance characteristics that other soft-hand fabrics lack. These include good resistance to wrinkling, soiling and wear, as well as washability. Although microfiber fabrics are slightly more expensive than their cotton, rayon, silk, and regular polyester counterparts, the more durable microfiber fabrics will have a longer fashion life.

The term microfiber describes any fiber that is less than one denier in fineness. A denier is a unit of weight for measuring the fineness of a thread. It is equal to the fineness of a yam weighing one gram for each 9,000 meters. Some microfibers are as fine as 0.5 denier per filament. By comparison, silk, the finest natural fiber, is one denier.

Most microfibers are made from polyester, although a few are made from rayon or nylon. Microfibers also can be blended with other fibers, particularly cotton. There are no regulations about the percent of micro necessary for using the term microfiber. However, industry experts agree that 35 to 40 percent is the minimum amount required to retain the desired hand and performance.

In addition to hand and performance, there are other benefits to microfibers. Colors are brighter. Due to the many filaments that make up each yam, micro-denier yams have more surface area, thus producing a stronger color. Because they are more porous, microfibers breathe better than other polyesters. Air passes easily through the fabric, wisking moisture away from the skin's surface to the outer face of the fabric. This feature makes microfibers particularly desirable for outerwear and bodywear. Microfibers are versatile. They can be knitted or woven into a variety of familiar fabrics, such as twill, satin, crepe and broadcloth. They are showing up in virtually every textiles end use, from men's slacks to women's silk-like blouses and dresses, from intimate apparel to sheets and pillow cases. Luxurious upholstery fabrics, including jacquards and rich velvets, are also getting the microfiber touch.

Pork Is Healthy — Doctors Don't Know It

DR. RICHARD BARCZEWSKI
Extension Co. Agricultural Agent
University of Delaware

NEWARK, DE — Over the last six years I've learned a few things about life: no one individual can know everything, and it's often more important to know where to find information than to know it off the top of your head.

As an agricultural agent I talk to many people about a lot of different problems. Sometimes the solution is as simple as referring the client to an agency that is better equipped to handle the problem. At other times, I'm able to help the person directly.

Recognizing the limits to your knowledge is important if you intend to be a source of reliable information. Some people have yet to learn this.

In a recent survey commissioned by the Pork Industry Group of the National Livestock and Meat Board, 253 internal medicine specialists and 151 family practitioners were interviewed by telephone. One finding is mind-boggling: only 29 percent of the physicians interviewed said they'd recommend pork as part of a well-balanced diet. Their reason? The common misconception that pork is high in fat and cholesterol.

The same physicians gave high marks to chicken (92 percent) and fish (97 percent) and only 12 percent gave a positive rating to beef. Quite obviously somebody is not aware of the facts.

Perhaps it isn't fair to expect doctors to know everything about nutrition, but they should keep abreast of new dietary information. After all, concern over lawsuits and the expense of malpractice insurance dictate that doctors keep abreast of new technologies and medicines that benefit their patients.

This pork survey should send a strong message to leaders in the pork industry and the National Livestock and Meat Board. We cannot assume that major decision makers know all the facts. Actually, many of the physicians surveyed said they feel more negative about pork than they did just a year ago.

An intensive effort by the pork industry in addressing this issue would be great, but the responsibility for getting the message out lies in our hands as well. Maybe it's time for a grass-roots approach. Next time you make a visit to your physician, take a few minutes to see how she or he feels about the product you produce.

If the response is negative, contact your state pork producers association and ask for information about the nutritional qualities of pork. Send your doctor this information. Follow up with a call to make sure he or she received the information and read it. Doctors are busy people, but most want to provide accurate information to their patients and will take the time to review new findings and information.

The livestock industry cannot stand by while inaccurate advice is coming from respected sources like the family physician. It's up to each of us to get accurate information about pork out to doctors, dieticians, teachers and consumers alike.

We need to stand apart from the radical factions that are working against our industry. Sensationalism, misinformation and out-and-out lies are tactics better left to the radical animal rights activists who will eventually lose credibility as facts become known. For us in the industry, simple, accurate information, provided in an unemotional way, will go a lot further in correcting the misinformation about the nutritional value of our product.

The fact that today's hogs are leaner than ever makes it even easier to convince doubters that the producer is changing to meet consumer needs and wants. As individuals, we can help to inform and educate the medical profession about pork's improved dietary qualities.

Kids Make Woods A Better Place For Hikers

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Fred Walter loves the woods. Recently, he took a group of 4-H'ers on a nature walk at Lancaster County Park.

Before the 4-H'ers could begin the walk, Fred told them, "Always leave the place better than when you first walked into it. If you see trash, pick it up."

He handed a garbage bag to Dennaya and Letoya who were going on the walk. The other kids were instructed to pick up trash and put it into the bag that Dennaya and Letoya carried between them.

Tall, strong trees grow in the woods. Skinny, little trees also grow there. To help the children identify the different types of trees, Fred pointed out the different kinds of leaves and barks that the trees grow.

The children learned to tell the difference between a maple tree and a walnut tree by examining the leaves.

Fred said, "Maple leaves have sererated edges. That's a big word, but it simply means points on the leaves."

Dennaya and Letoya hold a garbage bag for the trash that the children collect on their nature work.

One of the 4-H'ers identifies a small maple tree growing in the brush.

One of the boys saw a tree that had no bark.

"Why do you think this tree has no bark," Fred asked the children.

"Because it was hit by lightening," someone answered.

Fred said that was true and now the tree will die.

Roots of the hugh maple trees spread across the path. These roots are like stepping stones when climbing up the path, but if they grow in your yard, they are hard to mow around.

Fred had a helper, Ann Roser, who also likes the woods. She carried an interesting cane that was made from a tree trunk that had a vine wrapped around it. Ann showed the children the cane. She asked them to look for a tree in the woods from which a similar cane could be made.

The children found a small tree that had a vine wrapped tighly around it. The vine strangles the tree so that the bark has deep indentions cut into it by the vines.

These 4-H'ers sort the trash the collected into containers for recycling.

"Be very quiet and listen. Can you tell me what you hear?" Ann asked.

"Birds," someone answered.

"Crickets," said another person.

"I hear branches creaking," a little girl said.

Ann said, "These are the special sounds of the woods. Indians used to walk very quietly through the woods so that they could capture animals."

All along the way, the children picked up dirty food wrappers, discarded soda cans, and other trash them previous hikers had throw along the trail. After 20 minutes, the garbage bag was half filled with trash.

The children were proud that they left the woods cleaner than when they entered it.

The trash that the kids picked up in the woods was sorted for recycling into different containers. The paper was placed in one container, aluminum cans in another, and glass in another container. Then 4-H leaders delivered the items to a recycling center.

If you would like to join a 4-H club, call your county Penn State Cooperative Extension office. In Lancaster County, call 394-6851.

These children plant seeds in a peat pot sponge.

Make A TACO!

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Do you like tacos? 4'H'ers at the Lancaster Day Camp do. They learned how to make them. Here is a recipe you may help your mother make.

TACOS

1 pound ground beef
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ small can tomato sauce
Grated cheese
Lettuce, shredded
Tomatoes, diced
Chili sauce
Taco shells

Brown ground beef in salt; add garlic salt and pepper. After browning, add tomato sauce and cook 10 to 15 minutes on low heat. Place in large tablespoonful of the meat mixture in each taco shell. Top with shredded lettuce and diced tomatoes. Spoon chili sauce and sprinkle grated cheese on top.

Taco making was almost as much fun as eating the tacos.

Lancaster Society of Farm Women No. 8 met on July 10 for a "Day Out." They visited the Hans Herr House, lunched at Hershey Farm Restaurant, and then met at the home of member, Evelyn Russell, in Ronks.

The August 13 meeting will be a family picnic at Rock Point Park, Maytown, at 5 P.M.

They will have an Auction and each member will bring a 1 pound item (wrapped).

Lancaster Society 15

Lancaster County Society of Farm Women 15 met on July 18 at 1 p.m., at the home of Kathleen Groff near Tayloria.

Members responded to roll call by telling a nice thing about the person sitting on their right. President Arlene Maule introduced speaker Steve Bueno from Elder's Pottery. He told of the process in making clay pottery. Two pottery vases were given as door prizes and were won by Nancy Shoemaker and Sadie Greenleaf. Isabel Ferrie gave the treasurer's report.

The Lancaster County Farm Women's annual picnic will be held at the Hoffman Building in Quarryville on August 6. Society 15 will have their family picnic at Kirkwood Park on August 15 at 6:30. Nancy Shoemaker told of plans for a trip to Conewingo Power Plant on September 14. Members voted to donate $200 toward the Quarrryville Bicentenial Treasury.

Lancaster Society 20

Twenty-two members of Farm Women Society #20 met with Emily Gallimore on July 11. The co-hostesses were Martha Hart and Sara Conroy. Following the refreshments, Martha read a poem "A Smile" and for the scripture part of Proverbs 77. The Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison and following the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, the president, Vera Herr, conducted the business meeting. In answer to the Roll Call each mentioned what they did on July 4.

The County Picnic will be at the Hoffman Building on August 6.

The program was very interesting because the members brought some treasure or keepsake and told about it. There were some very pretty, as well as old, items.

Berks Society 4

Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 4 met at the Boyertown home of Elsie Rothenberger, president.

Students who received the home economics awards were Heidi Schwarz, senior high; Courtney Fisher, Junior High East, and Camilla Hopkinson of Junior High West.

Following the business meeting a pound auction and white elephant sale was held with Virginia Taylor as the auctioneer.

For the next meeting on August 3, the group will leave at 7:30 a.m. and travel to Perry County for a visit and picnic at the home of Verna and Charles Taylor of Loysville.

Berks Society 5

Berks Farm Women Group 5 held their July meeting at the home of Micharleen Eves.

President Sylvia Scharff reminded members that Farm Women Cookbooks are available for $15. Members should also send contest names for "Name the Heifer" to Marie Baughman.

Members discussed plans for the Scenic River Days and a sandwich sale.

The next meeting will be held at Betty Schoner's residence with guest speaker John Ravert lecturing on recycling.

York Society 26

York Farm Women Group 26 met at Valley Green Bonanza Restaurant on July 9. Fourteen members attended.

The group voted to give a donation of $25 to the Lewisberry Annie E. Sterline Library.

The next meeting on August 13 will be at the Beshore Pavillion. Group 26 will entertain Group 34. Mabel Miller and Doris Beshore will be in charge.

Apple Promotion Launches

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Retailers will be selling more locally grown apples this fall, thanks to the first-ever Pennsylvania Apple Season promotion sponsored by the state's apple producers.

Developed by the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board, Pennsylvania Apple Season is a free merchandising program available to retailers to help them promote the freshness and flavor of the state's apple crop during the peak September and October sales months.

Pennsylvania Apple Season marks a significant expansion of previous fall apple promotions. For the first time, in-store merchandising will be supported by full-color 30-sheet billboards appearing statewide during September and October, as well as a press relations campaign targeting the state's media markets.

To reinforce the message in stores, retailers will receive versatile Pennsylvania Apple Season continuous point-of-purchase display rolls, perfect for wall and island displays and window posters.

For more information on the Pennsylvania Apple Season promotion, contact the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board at 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110 or call (717) 783-9418.

Soft Drinks Take Fizz Out Of Calcium Intake

SOUTHAMPTON — There is a growing concern that teenagers do not understand the consequences of inadequate calcium intake since the total population's annual consumption of soda is 47 gallons versus 21 gallons for milk, according to Althea Zanecosky, R.D., Dairy Council's nutrition media specialist in Southampton.

According to a study reported in "Nutrition Today," soft drink consumption among teenagers had a negative impact on adequate intake of vital nutrients including magnesium, riboflavin, vitamin A, ascorbic acid and most conspicuously, calcium. Even among girls who consumed no soft drinks, only 75% of the Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) for calcium was met. And among girls occasionally or regularly consuming soft drinks, calcium intake fell to 66% and 59% of the RDA for calcium, respectively. Seventy-one percent of boys ages 12-18 also consume less calcium than the RDA.

Consuming soft drinks may seem like a pretty harmless addiction. There's no hangover, no fat, and no cholesterol. But new studies out of Harvard's School of Public Health suggest that binging on soda can weaken bones. When surveying more than 5,000 former female college athletes, soda drinkers were about twice as likely as non-soda drinkers to suffer a first bone fracture after the age of 40. "This is a troubling result, because many athletes drink large amounts of soda," states Althea Zanecosky, R.D., nutrition media specialist of Dairy Council in Southampton. This effect may be due to the presence of phosphoric acid in sodas; studies suggest that this compound interferes with the absorption of calcium, which the body uses to build bone. Another likely explanation is the fact that soda consumption has increased by 300% over the past 30 years. According to Zanecosky people are drinking soda where they once drank milk, so calcium intake is down and bone fracture incidence is up.

Perry County Names Dairy Baby

(Perry Co.) — The Perry County Dairy Promotion Committee sponsored a First Baby in June contest. To enter, parents had to send in their baby's date and time of birth. Paige, daughter of John and Deb Morrison, was the winner of this year's contest. She was born on June 1 at 3:10 a.m.

Paige won a stuffed cow, a cloth book about farm animals, and a cow bib. Her parents were awarded with REAL dairy products, including milk, yogurt, whipped cream, butter, cheese, ice cream, and frozen yogurt. They also received the cookbook, Royal Recipes, featuring recipes from past county princesses.

Perry County Dairy Princess Jennifer Hummel awarded the gifts to the new parents.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

One often is told to mark all of the pictures that are taken of family! Of course, we know who is in the photo but 50 or 100 years from now who will remember?

I think that slides too should be marked. Recently, when emptying my unmarried cousins' house, I came across hundreds of slides in a cardboard box. I had quite a time acquiring a projector to view them.

After everyone was in bed and asleep, I'd project them on my white kitchen wall. They showed a slower way of life in the 1940s and 1950s. There were pictures of favorite cats, ducks and even geese. There were pictures of vacations at the shore and a trip to Niagara Falls.

Flowers were a favorite subject and these included tulips and dogwood in the spring, roses in the summer and beautiful fall foliage. And, some snowstorms that piled the snow in high, high drifts.

There were many group pictures of Mennonite ladies. But, I knew none of them. There were pictures of young people and I would guess they were members of a Sunday School Class in Reading.

I even found pictures of my children and of my parents. Also some of my uncle and aunt as they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. My sister's big church wedding was also included with two pretty flower girls.

As there are no descendants of this particular family, the hundreds of slides will be forever unidentified I fear. Whenever I get a film developed and receive double pictures for my children, I make it a point to sit down and write names, dates and places on the back of the 48 pictures. But, maybe no one will care who is in the picture in the year 2040.

Pat Burdick bakes cookies and breads in her home to take to market. The zoning board ordered her to stop. Rep. Armstrong has come to her defense. He fears this case could set a precedent against others who bake or make crafts in their homes. "Zoning protects a community from ill effects, but we must be careful zoning does not become so intrusive that it takes rights away from the individual," he said.

What's Wrong With Baking At Home?

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

SILVER SPRING (Lancaster Co.) — Farmers think they have problems because neighbors complain about the odor of animal manure. Well, let it be known that farmers' livelihoods aren't the only jobs being threatened by disgruntled neighbors unhappy with smells.

Pat Burdick lives in a development. Her next-door neighbor considers Pat's baking business a nuisance because — it smells.

Now, some housewives aren't very good cooks. Some husbands have a legitimate complaint about the burnt casseroles their wives serve them, but, it seems that Pat is quite a good baker. So good, that she was baking 1,000 cookies during the holiday season to fill family and friends requests.

She was enticed by all the compliments she received for her cookies to capitalize on her baking skills and earn some money. About one year ago, she started baking cookies and quick breads to sell at Root's Country Market, Manheim, and at the Green Dragon, Ephrata.

Determined to do everything legal, Pat attained a license from the Department of Agriculture. She was approved.

"The Cookie Lady" or "The Bread Lady" as she is most commonly called at the Farmer's Markets soon had a thriving business for her baked goods. She uses the Rosette cookie recipe handed down from her grandmother and bakes mini-loaves of breads such as banana walnut, zucchini, strawberry, and chocolate chip.

But, a few weeks ago, Pat's baking business was ordered to "cease and desist," by the zoning board.

The West Hempfield Township notified her that she was violating the zoning ordinances by baking in her home. And that she could be fined as much as $500 a day if she continued.

Pat wasn't sure what ordinance she was violating since she had no sign erected in her yard and she had no delivery trucks or customers stopping by. From the outside, there were no signs of her baking episodes.

"I just bake in my kitchen," Pat said. "No special ovens or additions. I load my little red Toyota with my goodies and take them to market."

When Pat asked the zoning officer what she was violating, he was vague about what she was doing wrong.

Eventually, she found out that her next-door-neighbor had complained about Pat's in-home business because of the smell and noise nuisance from loading and unloading the car for market.

Before the complaints about Pat's baking business, Pat said that she had asked the neighbor not to park his 18-wheeler along the street. He complied. But relations were strained.

Pat lives in an upper middle-class development with homes built close together. The zoning officer said that her bakery is not in an R-2 zoning district and no exception had been granted for her business.

Pat said, "I would have filed for the exception if I had known it was required. I tried to do everything above board."

At that point, Pat did pay $150 to file for an exception, and she appealed the order. Seventy neighbors signed a petition asking that Pat be allowed to continue her in-home baking since they cannot smell it or see any other visible signs.

On July 9, Pat had a hearing, but the zoning officers said the petition was not valid since a notary public did not notarize the signatures, and her appeal was denied because of technicalities of not properly filling out the appeal papers.

Fortunately for Pat, the town manager reviewed the matter, and provided a way for her to appeal without paying the fee again.

Rep. Tom Armstrong (R-98) has also come to her defense. He said that the state has hundreds of people who make food and crafts to sell at market. Where will this lead? She is not violating any residential regulations. She is not making any nuisance."

Rep. Armstrong said, "There are good reasons for zoning to protect communities from ill effect. But we must be careful that zoning does not become so intrusive that it takes rights away from individuals."

Not only is Rep. Armstrong concerned about Pat's dilemma but also the precedent it would set against the farming community. "Look at all the individuals who raise produce for farm markets, bake pies, and make woodcrafts to take to market. We need to encourage family businesses — that's how America was built."

On August 16, Pat will need to appear in front of the planning commission, and later in front of the zoning board.

Some believe that the zoning disagreement is really a neighborhood quarrel. Regardless, it is costing Pat money and time.

She has hired a lawyer. "This is aggravating," Pat said. "The expense of a lawyer, the tension and time that it takes to get permission to bake in my own home. It's scary to know that if one person doesn't like you, it can cost you your job."

Based on per capita production, America eats more ice cream than any other country. According to the International Ice Cream Association, at least 98 percent of Americans eat ice cream—consuming about 831 million gallons each year. The next biggest ice cream-craving countries are Finland, Australia, New Zealand and Canada.

Real Milk Is Hit At Festival

Lines form for fresh, whole milk shakes at Berks County Dairy Farmer's Association milk shake stand at Scenic River Days.

CONNIE LEINBACH
Berks Co. Correspondent

READING (Berks Co.) — Ice cream was the big attraction Sunday at the Berks County Dairy Farmers Association tent during Scenic River Days along the Schuylkill River on July 25 to 28.

A crowd watched in wonder as Berks County Dairy Princess Kelly Gelsinger, the Little Miss Dairy Princess Rachel Hartman, and several dairy ambassadors built a giant sundae using eight 2 1/2-gallon containers of ice cream.

After dousing the mountain of ice cream with chocolate syrup, cherries and whipped cream, the group served it to festival goers, who paid 25 cents for a dishful.

Mary Haag, dairy princess coordinator for the association, said 356 people were served the sundae. Before that, 20 contestants of varying ages took part in the ice cream eating contest, in which they had to eat a dish of vanilla ice cream as fast as they could. It didn't take long for a few teen-age boys to Winners received T-shirts, neck ropes and ice cream scoops. Way-Har Farms provided the ice cream for both events.

Before and after these events, Kelly served free milk to festival-goers who visited the Berks County Farm-City Council tent.

Haag noted the difference in holding a farm function in the city instead of the country. "It was amazing to see all the little kids who keep coming back for a glass of milk," she said. "Their faces light up when they see how good it tastes. It's neat to touch them like that."

Champion In Sheep Lead-Line Credits Smiles, Fun For 2nd Win

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon) — It was a different set of judges and a different year, but the senior winner was the same as last year's at the Sheep Lead-Line held at Lebanon Area Fair on July 30.

Fourteen-year-old Jamie Irwin divulged her secret for winning. "Smile, smile, and have lots of fun," she said.

And Jamie did smile as she modeled a purple oversize sweater spun from lambs wool and a fall wool plaid skirt. She accented her outfit with black shoes and gold jewelry.

Jamie's win did not depend entirely upon her talents. Dutchess, her two-year-old registered Corriedale, had a lot to do with the win, for sheep are graded on alertness and cooperativeness in handling by the judges.

Lead-Line competition promotes sheep and wool attire. The eight contestants are judged on general appearance and conduct. Their wool outfits must be attractively designed and appropriate for the age, size and type of contestant. The sheep and contestant must exhibit poise and ease as they walk around the show ring. The sheep must be properly fitted and show evidence of training for the event.

Jamie owns three other sheep at her home called Royal Sheep Farm. Her parents are John L. and Linda A. Irwin. Jamie a 4-H Lebanon Sheep Club member is in the ninth grade at Tulpenhocken High School.

Second place in the senior division went to Krista Hetrick who modeled a 70 percent black wool suit accented with red boots, hat, and carnation. Krista is a Harrisburg Area College graduate and shows market lambs from the family's Dorset flock. A Suffolk ewe accompanied Krista in competition.

Third place winner was Michele Ungemach who modeled a gray wool suit that she made for Fashion Revue competition.

Junior Division

In the Junior division, last year's top two winners switched places. This year, Leah Bomberger topped the competition with a red and black checked jumpsuit and a Dorset ewe borrowed from a friend. She raises 20 to 25 Dorsets on her parents', Swen and Kathy Bomberger's, farm in Fredericksburg.

Second-place went to Rebecca Kleinfelter, 11, who modeled a 100 percent gray wool suit accented with royal blue shoes, gloves, and blouse. Her black hat had a blue print scarf draped around it.

Fourth grader Ann Leed placed third with a 100 percent gray wool jumper. Katy Moyer and Melissa Moyer placed fourth and fifth respectively.

Judges were Marilyn Caltagi-none, Marilyn's School of Dance; Sandi McLaughlin, Polled Dorset breeder and director of Berks Co. Sheep and Wool Growers; and Betty Martin, home economist at Tulpehocken Junior High School.

Dressed For The Fair

Six-year-old Nathan Tice munches his favorite popcorn at the Lebanon Area Fair. The son of Debbie and Tom Tice, Fredericksburg, said that he comes to the Fair to see everything, but his very special event is watching the pig racing. Dressed in a black hat, cowboy boots, western-style shirt and jeans, Nathan said, "I want to enter sheep like my brother, Joseph, when I get older." Nathan helped out at the Fair by holding the sheep for contestants in the Lead-Line competition.

Summer Fun At Maryland State Fair

TIMONIUM, MD — It's a time for outdoor fun and celebration, and no other event in Maryland provides so much summer fun, food, and family entertainment for so little, as the Maryland State Fair. The 110th Maryland State Fair will open Saturday, August 24 and run through Monday, September 2, at the Timonium Fairgrounds in Baltimore County. The fairgrounds will open at 8 a.m. for livestock and horse shows, demonstration halls open at 10 a.m., and the Midway opens at 11 a.m. on weekends, and 12 noon on weekdays. Fairgoers won't want to miss Opening Day's popular and colorful Hot Air Balloon Race, at 7 p.m. The infield will be open at 6:30 p.m. to watch the pilots unfurl, inflate, and take off in their balloons.

A great turnout is expected for this 10-day festival of home arts, agricultural demonstrations, livestock presentations, midway chills, live entertainment, and horse racing.

The Maryland State Fair is an educational resource complete with daily exhibits and demonstrations which are sure to captivate visitors of all ages. Fairgoers are invited to explore the Farm and Garden, 4-H, and Home Arts Buildings, the Cow Palace, Horse Show Ring, and other agricultural buildings and displays, as well as the commercial Exhibition Hall.

The State Fair is the culmination of over a years worth of hard work for 4-H members who will compete in shows and demonstrations throughout the Fair. The 4-H Livestock Show will begin Saturday, August 24 and run through Wednesday, August 28. The 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale will begin Wednesday, August 28, at 6:00 p.m., in the Cow Palace. The Open Class Livestock Show will open Thursday, August 29 and run through Labor Day.

For fairgoers who love thrills and chills, the Midway will provide fun for the entire family with more than 30 rides. "Kiddie Land" will offer tame but exciting rides, while the Midway promises to thrill even the bravest fairgoer.

A wide selection of food will be available, enabling the fairgoer the opportunity to enjoy the delightful taste of corndogs and cotton candy, or the traditional flavor of crab cakes, mouth-watering rib eye steak sandwiches, fruit and many other products fresh from Maryland farms.

For the wildlife lover, the State Fair Park, will not only offer picnickers plenty of tables and shade, but a chance to see owls, snakes, and other wildlife provided by the Department of Natural Resources.

Many of last year's favorites, including live entertainment will be back for a return engagement.

The Race Track will offer daily horse races, with additional races on Saturday and Labor Day. Post time is 1 p.m.

Admission to the 1991 Maryland State Fair is only $3.00 for adults and children under twelve are admitted free. Admittance to the race track is included in the admission price of the Fair.

There will be plenty of parking; lots are located on both sides of the North Gate entrance off of York Road. Fairgoers attending the horse races should park in the Fairground's South Lot by entering through the Timonium Road Gate. A nominal fee of $1 will be charged per day for parking.

Free parking is available at the Park and Ride facility located directly behind the Cow Palace on the west side of the Fairgrounds. The Park and Ride lot is accessible off of Timonium Road on Greenspring Drive.

The 1991 Maryland State Fair has something for everyone, the young and the old. Bring the family and friends and show your pride in Maryland. For more information, call (301) 252-0200.

Who's Riding An Elephant?

It's not an African Safari — it's Mike Firestine riding an elephant at the Lebanon Area Fair. Firestine, vice president of ag lending for Lebanon Valley National Bank, said the ride was steadier than a horse but hard on the rump. It cost $2 to ride the elephant that was part of the exotic animal display at the Fair. The 6,500 pound elephant is nine years old and daily consumes six bales of hay and 60 pounds of grain.

4-H HAPPENINGS

July 4-H Meeting

The Boots and Saddles 4-H July meeting was held at the home of Dave and Pat Hill. The meeting was called to order by President Eileen Holm.

Thirty-three members were in attendance with 11 guests. Pledges were given by members Abby Sullivan and Emily Hill. Missy Overbaugh gave the secretary's report with the treasurer's report by Becky Preiss.

The following are important upcoming events: Lancaster County Roundup on July 20, at the Lower Hopewell Horse Center, Lititz. The 4-H Fair, August 7, 8 and 9, will be held at the Solanco Fairgrounds. For information, contact 4-H agent ZoAnn Parker at (717) 394-6851.

A demonstration was given by Samara and Robert Shuster-Edelson on "Parts of the Harness." The guest speaker for the evening was Lloyd Henry, fire chief of the Lampeter Fire Dept. His topic was "Fire Safety for the Horse Owner."

For more information on the Boots & Saddles Club, call Rose Fellenbaum at (717) 569-3068.

FARMING FOR THE FUTURE with Aer Way®

★ NEW FOR 1991 - BOLT-ON TEETH ★

A GOOD THING JUST GOT BETTER!

UNIVERSITY TESTS SHOW

- AerWay-ing Pays
- Increases yield and quality
- Important part of intensive hay and pasture management
- Helps conserve valuable soil, fertilizer and water.
- Reduces compaction
- Improves manure management
- Reduces run-off
- Promotes extended stand life.

"In the last two years we put in alfalfa with a nurse crop of spring triticale and field peas. The Aer-Way and flexible chain harrow were the only tillage used. The alfalfa seedlings are the best we've ever had."

RICK & KATHIE ARNOLD
Twin Oaks Farm
Truxton, New York

"My dairy farm is located on rolling terrain in Reedsburg, Wisconsin. After the first cutting, I used the Aer-Way on my thinning alfalfa stand to get the fertilizer and water into the ground. The second cutting was noticeably better with thicker and leafier alfalfa. I would recommend the Aer-Way to other dairy farmers."

DAVID RABOINE
Dairy Farmer
Reedsburg, Wisconsin

"I have better pastures since I started using the Aer-Way to aerate and renovate my pastures. Using the Aer-Way has helped me get the nutrients where they are needed. I would not recommend fertilizing or liming without running the Aer-Way first.

SANDY FISHER
Brookview Farm, Manakin-Sabot, Virginia

"The Aer-Way is playing an important role in my soil-building program and saving me fuel and labour at the same time."

Kyle Rooker, Uniontown, Pa., exhibited the reserve champion Division V heifer at the 18th Junior National Polled Hereford Show, Kyle's entry was Boyd Brittany 17Z, bred by Boyd Polled Herefords, Mays Lick, Ky. Kyle, the 12-year-old son of Keith and Linda Rooker, will be a seventh grader this fall, while his brother, Kevin, right, 10, will be in the fifth grade. Kyle has exhibited at the Junior National four years, while this year was Kevin's third year.

Junior Polled Hereford Show A Major Event

KANSAS CITY, MO — An extravaganza of numerous sorts was held when members of the American Junior Polled Hereford Association AJPHA met in Abilene, Texas recently for the 18th Junior National Polled Hereford Show and Forum.

Hosted by the Texas Junior Polled Hereford Association, the Texas Poll-ettes and the Texas Polled Hereford Association, the "Lone Star Extravaganza" was a major event. More than 250 junior members from 27 states competed.

Held in Texas for the first time, the Junior National attracted 333 head of Polled Herefords — 293 heifers, 16 cow-calf pairs, and 24 steers. Along with the show, leadership forums and national contests helped to give youth the opportunity to step up knowledge of the breed and industry.

Officiating the two-day Polled Hereford show were lead judge Kevin Jensen, Courtland, Kan., and associate judge Dick DeMuth, Senatobia, Miss. For their grand champion heifer, the pair chose WLB 62U Ldy Pleasure 35Z, an early junior yearling sired by Trustmark and shown by Stephanie Lorenzen, Chrisman, Ill. Ldy Pleasure, who was bred by Travis Biglieni, topped Division V prior to her championship placing.

The show's grand champion bred-and-owned heifer was Escapade, an early summer yearling also sired by Trustmark, and owned by Susan Griffiths, Kearney, Mo. In addition to her bred-and-owned honor, Escapade was selected the overall Division II champion.

An early summer yearling earned the Division III and reserve grand title in the heifer show for Carlynn Wolfe of Wallowa, Ore. Wolfe's champion was BSF Special Lady 21Z, a 5E SF 4WF 38 Special daughter bred by Ballard Stock Farm, Nashport, Ohio. Wrapping up the reserve grand champion honor in the bred-and-owned division was Tammy Riffel, Enterprise, Kan., on PVF Rocknroll Angel 059. Riffel's early summer yearling sired by Trustmark was also the overall Division II reserve champion.

Judged as champion in the cow-calf show was Will-Via Nascar Queen, a 2-year-old RH Formula One daughter, and her February heifer calf sired by DR P183 Rebel 926Y. The pair is owned by Steven Soules, Skiatook, Okla. Precious Atlas, Grandview, Texas, exhibited the reserve champion cow-calf pair that included 2-year-old Atlas Ms Julie 10Y, sired by Kilmorlie 12P Steel 359S, and her January heifer calf by Beau Donald Rival.

Junior members from Nebraska and Minnesota took home the highest awards from the steer show. Nine-year-old Darbie McMahon, Blue Hill, Neb., owned the champion steer, a 1,240 lb. BB MSU 15S Wisdom son. Tony Heins, Hewitt, Minn., exhibited the reserve champion steer, an 1,150 lb. son of JKS High Summit.

Recognized with the 18th Junior National's highest achievement award, the Joe and Walter Lewis Memorial Award, was Joel Birdwell of Fletcher, Okla. Tying as the show's co-premier exhibitors were Tammy Riffel and Kristi Moser, Effingham, Kan.

Riffel was also named the shows' junior premier breeder, while ACE Land & Cattle Co., Skiatook, Okla., became the senior premier breeder for the second consecutive year. The first place state group of five heifers was shown by junior members from the state of Oklahoma.

TIME TO GO WHOLE HOG FOR ORGANIC?

Public reaction against pesticide use seems to be gaining momentum daily. Though many in farming regard this trend as a threat, the production of crops and livestock without agrichemicals could actually be turned into an opportunity for economic and environmental gains.

Organic and sustainable agriculture are viable ways of producing a crop. While not defined in the same way by all groups, organic growing generally means the production of a plant or animal crop without using synthetic pesticides or chemicals.

Most options for weed, insect, and disease pest control today would not be allowed in an organic system. In fact, recent federal legislation spells out that for a product to carry an organic label, no pesticides can have been used on the land for three years prior to planting the crop.

For the livestock industry, organic means that animals are fed only organically produced feeds, which contain no additives and antibiotics, and that agrichemical options a conventional producer might employ in the raising of stock are not permitted.

Sustainable agriculture involves some agrichemical use, but the success of this system relies on reduced inputs. Excessive inputs of fertilizer and pesticides are discouraged, except when economic thresholds are reached and profits are threatened.

For me, sustainable agriculture is a practice in which inputs are directly related to realistic yield goals, and that for every dollar invested in inputs, more than a dollar is realized in profit.

Organic and sustainable agricultural enterprises can be just as viable as traditional methods. The difference is in how each type fits into the bigger picture. No one can argue that the actions of our entire society, not just farmers, have had an negative impact on the environment. Everyone, nationwide, is to blame for the problems we now face.

That's why as farmers and citizens we must support agricultural research to limit the need for expensive inputs. This research must continue to be conducted, evaluated, and published in journals so the entire scientific community can improve upon the findings. Comparisons of conventional practices to sustainable and organic methods of production need to be carried out in an unbiased way so we get an honest picture of the situation.

Think about it. If a way to enable you to produce hogs more efficiently with fewer out-of-pocket expenses were developed, would you use it? Would you consider growing a vegetable crop without insecticides?

We have already progressed to the point at which pesticide inputs can be reduced and crop yields remain unaffected. A couple of management tools that have come into use in the past 10 years have made this possible.

• Cooperative Extension's Integrated Pest Management program already has enabled farmers to reserve the use of expensive insecticides only to times when they are most needed. Scouting fields replaces routine agrichemical spraying.

• Soil testing is available through your university soil test lab. Recommendations are based on research of realistic yield goals instead of fertilizer needs of a once-in-10-years possible crop yield.

• Manure testing and subsequent applications based on the actual amounts of nutrients it contains replace mass disposal on the land just to get rid of the waste product.

• The use of no-till or minimum-till practices protect soil from erosion.

These are only a few examples of how agriculture has changed for the better over the last few decades in response to environmental concerns (in many cases raised by farmers themselves).

But we have a long way to go. Further unbiased research is needed. And as producers we owe it to ourselves to keep open minds, to explore different methods of production, and to accept new practices when they are proven better than the conventional ones.

Agriculture continues to evolve. New varieties, new production methods, better crop rotations, and better management will all fit into agriculture's future.

Animal Behavior, Welfare Theme Of Livestock Day

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Animal behavior and welfare was featured at this year's Junior Livestock Day, held at Penn State's Ag Arena.

"Animal welfare is an important issue, and we wanted to address it with the youths," said Robin Keyser, assistant professor of agricultural and extension education and member of the Junior Livestock Day committee. "Young people who handle animals need to be aware of techniques to keep animals comfortable and cooperative."

The program started with a general session on the correct and incorrect ways to handle livestock. Participants practiced proper methods of moving, loading, unloading, and restraining. At six hands-on stations, youths practiced with beef cattle, sheep, swine and horses. The afternoon featured a presentation on using dogs for herding sheep and other animals.

Several Penn State faculty were on hand to demonstrate livestock handling.

Kenneth Kephart, assistant professor of animal science, and Robert Mikesell, graduate student in animal science, showed how to load and unload swine. Clair Engle, associate professor of animal science, demonstrated herding and transporting sheep. Ward Studebaker, horse farm manager, and Pat Comerford, extension horse program coordinator, showed how to load horses into trailers. John Comerford, assistant professor of dairy and animal science, demonstrated proper equipment and handling for beef cattle.

"The demonstrations showed how to take advantage of an animal's field of vision and herding instincts and to use quipment and facilities that are the correct size and construction," said John Comerford. "People have problems handling animals if they don't understand how animals see and move."

Junior Livestock Day is hosted by the department of dairy and animal science in cooperation with 4-H and youth development faculty in Penn State's College of Agriculture. Sponsors for this year's event were the Pennsylvania Friends of 4-H, the Pennsylvania Beef Council, the Pennsylvania Lamb Marketing Council, Penn State's University Creamery, and Weis Markets.

honor that recognizes achievement in beef cattle production, leadership and citizenship, was awarded to Stacy Tankersley, Elkins, Ark. The first runner-up was Rick Aden, St. Joseph, Ill., and second runner-up was Mary Shirley of Seneca, S.C.

Also a feature of the Junior National week was the election of AJPHA officers for 1991-92. Tony Heins, Hewitt, Minn., was elected chairman and will guide the activities of the 12-member Junior Council and the 37 state junior Polled Hereford associations in the coming year. Teaming up with him are Vice Chairman Dustin Lewis, Grass Valley, Calif., Secretary Katy Beckett, Birnamwood, Wis., and Reporter Susan Water, Stet, Mo.

Beckett and Waters are two of the AJPHA's six new directors who were elected at the 18th Junior National. Others include Judy Anderson, Gold Hill, Ore; Jock Beeson, Wayne, Neb.; Cari Webster, Carthage, Tenn.; and Cynthia Kirby, Lucama, N.C.

ASCITES (WATER BELLY)

Donald L. Singletary
Research Assistant
Dept. of Veterinary Science

Ascites is a major cause of mortality in chickens in many parts of the world. But, fortunately, ascites here in Pennsylvania is almost always an individual bird problem rather than a serious general flock condition.

Often it is a secondary problem associated with other health problems of the affected bird. The chickens most seriously affected are broilers. Most ascites occurs in birds between 4 and 6 weeks of age.

The Cause

Extensive research has failed to determine a specific cause of ascites. Many factors contribute to the development of the condition.

In other areas of the world, raising poultry at high altitudes is a major contributing factor. However, in our area, high levels of carbon monoxide and ammonia due to improper ventilation, cool brooding temperatures, fast-growing birds (genetic susceptibility), improper vaccination procedures, aspergillosis (and other lung infections), and feed/nutrition factors (high energy and sodium, certain antibiotics, and feed programs and additives) all have been incriminated in causing ascites.

Thus, because of the numerous factors associated with ascites and because many of these factors change constantly in the birds' environment, it is impossible to determine a single cause of ascites.

Symptoms/Lesions

A poultryman is unlikely to notice any particular signs of ascites in the flock before he finds a dead bird with its abdomen distended with fluid (which he calls water belly). Typically, affected birds are undersized, listless, and unthrifty in appearance.

The most significant finding when one cuts into a bird with ascites is the exceptionally large amount of clear yellow liquid (a jelly-like substance) which pours out. Other important findings include very dark congested tissues, a heart with its right side dilated, and a shrunken, pale, firm liver.

Treatment And Prevention

No treatment is effective for affected birds. Thus, the emphasis should be directed toward its prevention.

Since feed energy level and feeding programs play a significant role in its incidence, for farms which have had a continual high ascites mortality problem, it is probably best to use feed restriction programs that restrict rapid growth during the time ascites mortality occurs.

This practice seems helpful in reducing the mortality because of ascites. Prevention of ascites must also rely on improving management practices such as proper ventilation, correct brooding temperatures, and good vaccination procedures.

While ascites is not a major problem for Pennsylvania poultrymen, there are steps which can be taken to reduce its effects.

NPLC Elects Officers

COLLEGE STATION, Texas — More than 75 percent of the membership of the National Pedigreed Livestock Council (NPPC) participated in the annual meeting held here recently.

Topics that brought participants from all over the U.S. and Canada included DNA fingerprinting (the science of parent determination from protein follicles) and ethics of business and personnel management.

The association's blood typing lab and Texas A&M University provided tours of their facilities and updates on programs.

The membership endorsed additional promotional programs and activities after hearing that the organization was financially sound. A poster containing each member's breed of livestock, to be circulated to youth groups for educational purposes, was unanimously approved. Efforts to obtain group health insurance for members and staff were also endorsed.

Officers elected for the ensuing year are President Kathy Krafka, National Suffolk Sheep Association; Vice President George Harris, Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association; and Secretary/Treasurer Zane Akins, Akins and Associates (formerly of the Holstein Association of America). Board members include Ed Roberts, American Paint Horse Association; Dr. Roger Hunsley, American Shorthorn Association; and Rick Maloney, Hampshire Swine Registry.

Next year's meeting will be held in Amarillo, Texas, on May 16-18, hosted by the American Quarter Horse Association. The office of the National Pedigreed Livestock Council is headquartered at 1 Holstein Place, Brattleboro, VT 05301.

PRICING CORN SILAGE IN THE FIELD

Roland P. Freund
Regional Farm Management Agent

In this severe drought year, we have many farmers with dairy or beef cattle to feed who are short of forage. At the same time, their neighboring crop farmers have corn fields which may develop too little ear to make it worth harvesting to sell as grain.

If they can agree upon a price that is fair, then trading corn silage can be a good deal for both parties. The problem is to arrive at a price which is fair to both parties. To analyze such a situation, it is necessary to look at the transaction from the viewpoints of both the corngrower and the cattleman.

Corngrower's Perspective

Before corngrowers can decide what they must get if they sell corn as silage, they need to work out what the field would give them if they sell it as grain. They must know grain yield potential and the price they can expect at harvest time. Grain yield can be determined by sampling and yield checking the field.

Price can be established by what the mill is offering for contract deliveries at normal harvest time. These two facts enable corngrowers to determine the gross income potential for corn as grain.

But this is not what the grain is worth when it's standing in the field. Harvest cost, drying, and hauling must all be deducted first to give the net income from grain. This is the minimum which graingrowers should logically accept. If graingrowers can get more than this by selling the field of corn elsewhere, that alternative may be a good deal for them.

If the crop is covered by crop insurance, they need to check with the agent before dealing to sell it as silage.

Cattlemen's Perspective

Buyers of a cornfield need to know how much feed and the value of the feed they are getting. Corn silage yield in an even stand can be measured by sampling techniques. With uneven fields in droughty conditions this is a guessing game.

Because there is about twice as much water as there is dry matter in silage, it's more important to know the dry matter % (D.M.%) and pay for dry matter tons than to try to estimate moisture levels and count wagon loads. The simplest and most accurate system to determine yield is to start with an empty silo, measure the level of silage in the filled structure and use silo tables to arrive at the dry matter tons in the silo.

Take care to check if the tables are for once only filling, for settled height, or for settled and refilled capacity.

When cattlemen are feeding normal well eared 35% D.M. corn silage (65% moisture), in each ton the cattle are eating about 4 hundredweight of earcorn and 4 hundredweight of fibre equivalent to a fair quality grass hay. This means that in one D.M.Ton of corn silage there is approximately .57 tons of ear corn and .57 tons of hay.

So, the price of ear corn and the price of grass hay can be used to calculate corn silage value. In a drought year few ears form, but the plant nutrients that would have formed the grain remain in the plant. If the earless plant is harvested and ensiled at the correct moisture and maturity, it can produce silage of reasonable quality. A composite sample from the entire filling will be needed for a forage test to accurately asses the feed value of the droughted product.

The cattleman is going to have expenses handling this silage which must be deducted: harvesting, hauling, and ensiling. In addition, there are ensiling losses and quality adjustments which need to be considered. The resulting value is the maximum price that the cattleman should consider paying

Example

Area of field - 56 acres
Shelled Corn yield - 25 bu.
Silage fills 20 x 50 silo, 118 D.M.T.
Shelled corn price - $2.60 / bu.
Ear corn price - $80 / T.
Fair grass hay - $80 / T.

Corngrower's calculations (Bold)
Grain gross income - 25x2.60 =	$65
Harvesting cost -	$23
Grain haul 10C-	2
Drying charge -	6
Total deductions	31
Potential income from grain	$34
Stover value 5C+	10
Corngrower's value per acre -	$44
Cattleman's calculations(Bold)
Yield = 118 /56 = 2.11 D.M.T. /Ac.
0.57 Tons Earcorn $80 = $45.60
0 57 Tons Grasshay $80 = $45.60
Feedvalue /D.M.T. Cornsilage = $91.20
Feedvalue /Acre = 2.11 x 91.20 = $192
Harvest cost -	$45
Hauling cost -	12
Ensiling cost -	9
Storage loss (10%)	13
Low grain discount	7
Total costs, losses	$86

Cattleman's maximum value $106 per acre
At various moisture levels this is equivalent to a price per wet ton: 60% - $20, 65% - $18, 70% - $15, and 75% - $13

Buyer beware!

Recognize that there is usually a big difference between minimum and maximum price in such a deal. Careful calculations should ensure that a price is struck which is advantagous to both parties.

To assist in these computations Penn State Extension has a computer template in each extension office. Do not hesitate to contact your county extension office and request that your figures be run through the "Pricing Corn Silage" program.

Providing that the information supplied is reasonably accurate, the printout will give both parties the information which they need to negotiate a corn silage deal.

IRRIGATING FIELD CROPS — HOW AND WHEN

The decision wheiher to irrigate is difficuit. In a drought it increases yields and quality. On the other hand, irrigation costs money for pipe, sprinklers, pumps and energy.

If you are thinking of buying an irrigation system, you should consider the following before committing resources:

• Do you have an adequate water supply? Sprinkler irrigation will require 30,000 gallons every time an inch of water is applied to an acre of land at flow rates as high as 10 gallons per minute per acre. Drip or trickle irrigation are often used on wide row spacings in orchards, and vegetables require less water. Evaporation losses from sprinkler or gun irrigation can run as high as 80 percent of the water being lost.

• Are you willing to dedicate time and energy needed to managing the irrigation system? Monitoring weather forecasts, soil moisture levels, putting the system in, moving it about all require a firm commit- ment to irrigate - not just an idea that would be nice.

• Are you willing to invest in the long term future of your operation? Planning, design and installation take time. It is seldom possible to buy and install an irrigation system in the middle of a drought and get any benefit. The system must be hands-on and ready to go when the drought hits. The decision to irrigate should be based on long-term averages, not short-term year-to-year weather variations.

Irrigation is considered a consumptive use water. Here in the Susquehanna River as in consumptive use of water such as irrigation can be terminated if a drought emergency occurs. To avoid problems ssociated with restrictions on irrigation you should contact the river basin commission. These folks can help you plan for consumptive use during these rare periods.

To get the maximum benefit from irrigation, you need to maintain moisture at a level where it doesn't limit plant growth. When it is wilting, you are already late and loosing yield. Too soon, and you waste water.

DROUGHT WATCH

Different soils respond to different irrigation schedules. The water content of a soil after a soaking rain or irrigation is called field capacity. Soil acts like a sponge, "squeezing" water from a fistful of soil is easy at first, but becomes more difficult as water runs out. That is just what the corn plant experiences as it grows.

When water is plentiful and we are getting 3/4 to 1 inch per week, the corn plant expends no effort to obtain water. As soil moisture gets short, the plant expends more effort to meet its demands. The point where the crop cannot take up any water is called the permanent wilting point. All the available water is gone and the plant will die if water is not provided.

The difference between field capacity and permanent wilting point is called available water. Corn leaves begin to curl when 50 percent or half that available water is done. Once it falls below the 50 percent mark you should begin to irrigate.

Soil can be viewed as a reservoir that holds moisture for plant roots. How much it holds is based on the particular type. A shaley ridge wilt show wilting many days before a loamy valley bottom soil does.

Soil Characteristic	Water storage capacity inches H20/foot of soil depth
Heavy clay	1.5
Clay loam	1.8
Silt loam 2% organic matter	2.0
Silt loam 3% organic matter	2.5
Sands	1.0

The corn crop's water needs are not constant throughout its growth. The highest need for water starts 45-50 days after planting. This is when the plant stops its green or vegetative growth. The plant has 12 leaves out. It begins to stretch or elongate and goes into its reproductive growth stage. The plant tassels and develops an ear. At that point it is withdrawing between ¼ -⅓ of an inch a day. After 75 days after planting, the water need drops off again as the grain matures.

So, how do you know when to irrigate? When is the maximum depletion reached? One needs to know how much water is in the soil reservoir. In areas of the country where irrigation is the normal way of farming, farmers often install resistance meters, potentiometers, or neutron probes at ½, 1, and 2-foot levels at various sites in the field and get meter readings which they interpret as to when is the best time to irrigate.

In Pennsylvania we use irrigation only as an "insurance" measure. The "feel method" of when to irrigate works best then. As the water content of soil changes, so does its "feel." It is not just as easy as reaching down and scooping up a handful of soil. A soil probe which cores out a sample at various depths is a good way to check what is going on in the root zone.

Percent available Water	Sand	Loam	Clay
0	dry, loose flows through fingers	powdery dry when blown on	hard, baked and cracked

How Beef Got A Bum Steer

WESTMORELAND, NY — "Beef has been given a bum steer!" according to Dr. Louis Reznick, program director of the Family Practice Residency Program at Wyckoff Heights Medical Center in Brooklyn, NY.

He was the featured speaker at three medical meetings in the New York City area in June, with his presentation entitled "Where's the Beef?"

A total of 105 physicians attended one of the three programs, a family practice breakfast meeting, a dinner meeting of the Wyckoff Heights Hospital medical staff, and a Sunday brunch meeting of the American College of General Practitioners, all sponsored by the New York Beef Industry Council.

Dr. Reznick made a very strong case in favor of red meat in the healthy diet using scientific evidence, practical tips and humor.

He told how red meat "got such a bum steer" in the first place, and discussed some very scientific information on fats, cholesterol, and their various functions in the body. He also explained about how the meat industry has responded to consumer demand for leaner, healthier products by breeding and feeding to produce leaner animals, how retailers are trimming off the fat, and even explained some low fat cooking methods.

"Lean is keen," he said, and "trim will keep you thin."

He also explained how they could receive a free "HeartCare" video kit for use in educating their patients.

"All of the evaluation forms turned in at the conclusion of the seminars indicated the doctors' perceptions about meat were changed favorably as a result of one of these programs," according to Marilyn Haynes, Health and Nutrition Education coordinator for NYBIC.

"Many of them wrote comments like, 'I had no idea meat was so nutritious!'", and 'I will definitely recommend including lean meat in low cholesterol diets for my patients.'"

Sire Power Holds World Class Sale

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Bidders and consignors from all over the U.S., Canada, and Holland congregated at Penn State's Ag Arena on July 24 for Sire Power's Sale '91.

Fifty-nine (59) lots were sold totaling $179,525 with an average of $3,042.79 per lot.

Lester Poust and Michael Weimer of Emlenton, consigned Solid-Gold-MC Dazzle-Red-ET for the top selling price of $17,000. Bought by Etazon Embryo Company, this cow will be housed at Em-tram in Elizabethtown.

The second highest selling cow was bought by Tom Henderson of Altoona for $11,200.

The third highest lot sold at $9,400 for the first choice female from 10 pregnancies due from Caernarvon Mark Messie-ET, consigned by Andrew Stoltzfus of Morgantown.

The sale was dubbed a "resounding success" and was well attended in spite of the economy.

"The sale is a showcase of daughters of our bulls so that people can see the offspring and have an opportunity to upgrade their herds and buy cattle," said Dewayne Kutz, general manager of Sire Power.

The sale has been held annually for more than 15 years. Kutz said, "There have been other sales that have had higher averages, but we're more concerned about satisfied customers. We have a report card twice a year, Sire Summaries, for production-type information. We were pleased we were able to add, along with Allied Genes, well over 14 new bulls. That's a pretty dramatic addition to our line-up. Some of them are the very top bulls in the breed. In fact, we have six bulls in the top 20 group of listed Holstein sires in the Holstein Association information. We're pleased that that group of bulls is available to market to our dairymen."

Sire Power is a cooperative which provides for the farmer a voice in the marketplace for semen and services. Kutz praised the cooperative effort of its dairymen for consigning top animals for the sale.

"The AI industry is 53 years old. Fifty (50) years ago they started with $5 breeding fees. You can still breed a cow a $6," Kutz said.

"If you talk about tractors, fertilizers or herbicides, that isn't the case. As a cooperative, I think we have done what a cooperative is supposed to do, which is a large group of people working together to do what a single person could not."

Bidders from the U.S., Canada, and Holland rallied back and forth for Sire Power's highest selling cow, Solid-Gold-MC Dazzle-Red-ET. Consigned by Lester Poust and Michael Weimer of Emlenton, PA, this cow went to the Etazon Embryo Company of Holland for $17,000. The Etazon Embryo Company houses their animals at Em-tram in Elizabethtown, PA.

Shanks On Disc Unit Till Deeper

GOODFIELD, Ill. — DMI, Inc. recently announced the addition of a parabolic disc unit to their line of Colter-Champ II conservation yield-till chisel plows.

This new unit is equipped with rear-mounted 1-1/4"x3" edge-bent parabolic shanks and patented winged Tiger-Points. These shanks till 4" deeper than regular shanks (using some hp) to reach and relocate compacted soil.

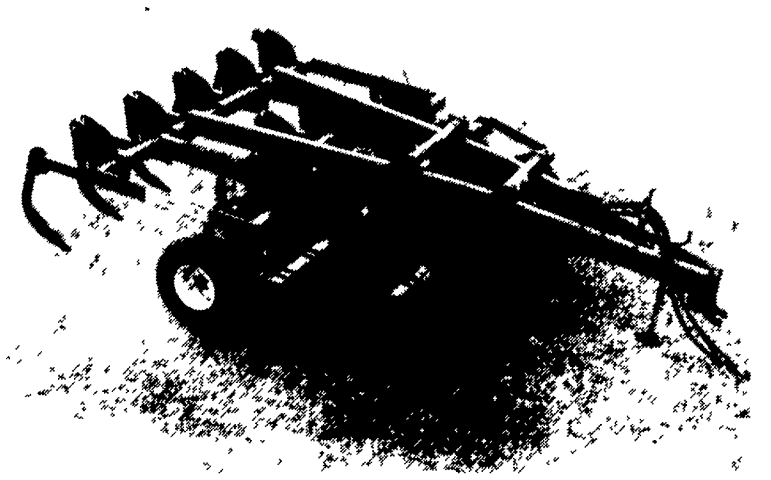
The front mounted 1-1/4" x 2" edge bent regular shanks prefracture the soil ahead of the parabolic shanks. All shanks are equipped with optional S/R 1800 spring reset shank assemblies that provide 1,800-plus pounds of holding power.

The parabolics and winged Tiger-Points twist and move the clay particles out of a compacted state, while bringing a portion upward and mixing it with the finer surface soil. According to DMI, this results in an open, mellower and healthier soil.

DMI also states that this "Yield-till" offers improved water and air management, enhanced earthworm habitat, increased plant root growth, and higher yields.

The new DMI Colter-Champ II also features a disc assembly for residue management. This assembly is made up of two rows of independently mounted 20" discs on 15" centers and offset 7-1/2" with a 33" rank. These discs cut residue and take out root crowns, with the shorter residue uniformly mixed with the soil for a more cosmetic, finished look.

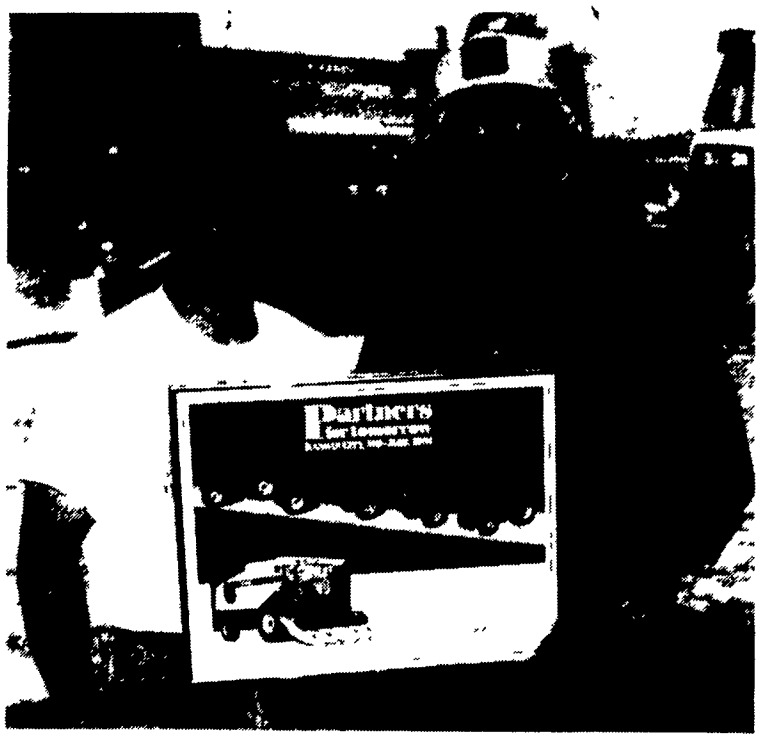
According to DMI, there are no arbor bolts to ball up or scrapers to plug, with the disc assembly operating hydraulically and independently and protected from obstructions by a hydraulic relief bypass. This independent hydraulic disc depth control allows mixing and covering of residue on flat ground, while leaving more residue exposed on hillsides.



DMI new Colter-Champ II HD parabolic disc unit.

The resulting uniform mixture of exposed residue and coarse surface soil (created by the parabolic shanks and Tiger-Points) minimizes soil erosion and fertilizer runoff. Plus, decomposition of residue is enhanced through aerobic bacterial action.

For further information, contact DMI, Inc., P.O. Box 65, Goodfield, IL 61742-0065, (309) 965-2233.



Hernley Attends New Product Event

ATLANTA, Ga.— Duane Hernley, of Hernleys Farm Equipment Inc. in Elizabethtown, recently attended a major new product introduction held in Kansas City. The program was sponsored by AGCO, the parent company of Deutz-Allis, Hesston Corporation, and White Tractor Company.

The new products introduced included 12 new models of AGCO Allis tractors in five distinct series, ranging from 40 through 130 PTO horsepower, and featuring the popular "Allis orange" color; a new "DX" line of six tractors, ranging from 50 through 120 PTO horsepower; and a series of completely re-engineered rotary Gleaner combines.

Duane Hernley is shown here accepting a commemorative poster from AGCO President and Chief Executive Officer Robert J. Ratliff. More than 3500 dealers and their sales people attended the meeting, which took place during a three week period in June and is estimated to be one of the largest product introductions ever. More than 175 pieces of rolling stock, including the new tractors, combines, hay tools, and implements were displayed on a farm near Kansas City.

Heavy Duty Backhoe For Loaders

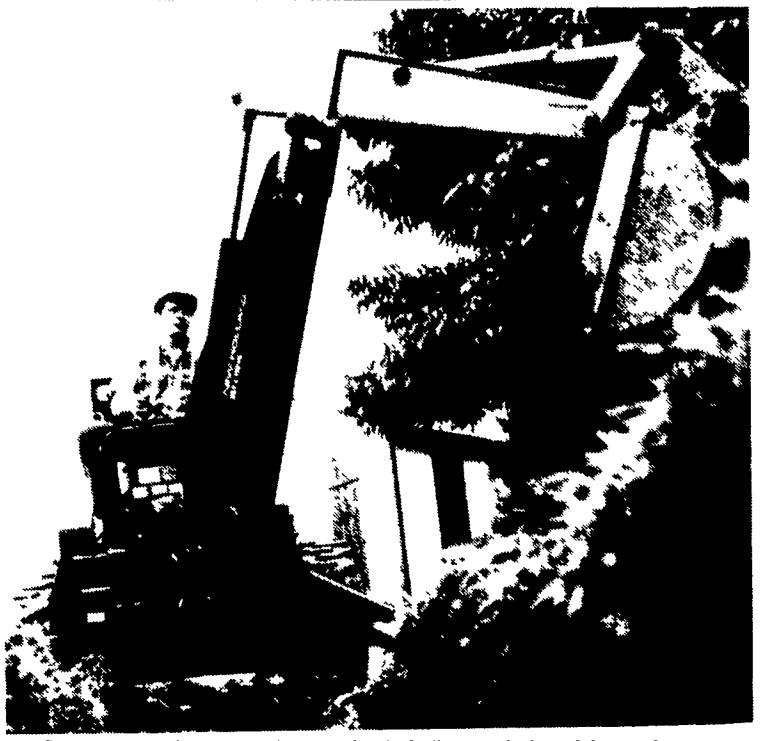
NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The new heavy-duty Model BH124 backhoe for "L-780" series New Holland skid-steer loaders has more than 20 percent more bucket digging force and nearly 50 percent more dipper digging force than the "B124," according to Ford New Holland Product Manager Bill Sauber.

Stronger king post design of the new backhoe adds ruggedness and durability to match, he said. Digging depth is 11 feet (24 inch flat bottom).

The 22 percent greater bucket digging capacity comes from a new design featuring additional mounting positions for better lever/fulcrum relationship. Larger diameter cylinders provide the "BH124" with 47 percent improvement in dipper digging force. The open-center hydraulic system has built-in reliefs in the boom, dipper, and bucket circuits.

The new backhoe mounts on the loader boom adapter plate for Quick-attach coupling. Sauber points out this fast, easy mount adds to machine and operator productivity in construction, utility, and landscape work. Operators can switch from backhoe to bucket or other attachment in moments without muscle strain.

Power-dig buckets for the new Model BH124 include 12 inch, 16 inch, and 24 inch units.



The new heavy duty Model BH124 backhoe boom-mounts on "L-780" series large-frame. Bucket digging force is increased 22 percent. Dipper digging force is up 47 percent.

Pfizer Names New Head Of Division

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Roger A. Behrenhausen has been named vice president, general manager of the Pfizer Animal Health Division, with responsibility for the firm's business throughout the United States. Pfizer markets an extensive line of injectable antibiotics, anthelmintics, and feed medications, and is one of the largest animal health companies in the world.

Behrenhausen, a native of Reading, Pa., joined Pfizer in 1968, and has served in a variety of management positions prior to his latest appointment. He began his career as a systems analyst in the controllers division, and has held positions of increasing responsibility over the years both overseas and in the New York headquarters office. He was country manager in Hong Kong, Sri Lanka, and Taiwan prior to becoming group product director in Pfizer's Roerig Division in 1985. In 1988, he was appointed vice president of marketing and product development for the worldwide animal health group.

After graduating with a B.S. degree from The Pennsylvania State University in 1966, Behrenhausen earned his MBA in 1968 from Dartmouth's Tuck School of Business. He was an officer in the U.S. Army from 1969-1971.

Osborne Offers Wall Scale

OSBORNE, Kan. — Osborne Industries' Accu-Arm® platform Wall Scale™ offers the convenience and versatility needed for the various weighing chores in livestock barns and hog confinement buildings.

The Accu-Arm® wall scale platform folds down from a trim 5-inch deep storage position against a wall and is equipped with treadplate ramps for convenient weighing of feed carts and animal transport carts. The Accu-Arm® weighing system gives amazingly accurate weights owing to the wall scale's uniquely designed cantilever beam-supported platform. With an optional small animal enclosure kit, animals can also be weighed on the scale.

The wall scale is capable of weighing a 500-pound load capacity. It is available in a 17-inch narrow model to fit narrow alleys as well as a more versatile 24-inch wide model for weighing carts and animals.

Other options for the scale include an instant read-dial or electronic digital meter featuring a "quick-freeze" digital display that holds the weight until the scale is unloaded.

For more information, contact an Osborne dealer or the Customer Service Department, Osborne Industries, Inc., P.O. Box 388, Osborne, KS 67473, (800) 255-0316.

Bomgardners Win Big At Lebanon Hog Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Neither rain nor rowdy hogs — including a 233-pounder that threw exhibitor Jake Mase into the air — dampened the spirits of some 61 exhibitors and 112 hogs at the Swine Show on Monday at the Lebanon Fair.

One of the largest crowds of onlookers, including a busload of 37 kids and nine adults from the Centre Hall Ag Club, watched as hogs were paraded in the ring — a few plunging headlong into the gates — on a rainy day at one of the shortest swine shows ever at the fair.

The Bomgardners were big winners at the show. Greg Bomgardner picked up overall market hog champion with a 248-pound Hampshire/Duroc barrow. In addition, Daryl Bomgardner won champion Hampshire class, and Kathy Bomgardner won champion Yorkshire class (reserve went to Greg Bomgardner). Also, Jeff Bomgardner won the champion 4-H showmanship title.

Judge Nelson Beam, Elverson (who also judged last year's show), said there "were quite a few champions on the (champion market hog) show floor. But the champion crossbred is the highest quality hog overall."

When the judging was over, Beam praised the exhibitors, and rated the show very high. (However, he cautioned the 9-year-old showmanship class to "not bang on the pigs so hard," and they should improve on controlling the animals using alternative methods.)

But the champion show exhibitors "make it really tough to judge. You ought to be real proud of what is shown. Ten different judges would select 10 different champions," Beam said.

Following is a list of show placings.

Plan Ahead for Poultry Structures

Dennis E. Buffington
Professor and Head
Agricultural and Biological Engineering Department

The construction of new facilities on your farmstead represents at least a 10- or 20-year investment.

Mistakes or omissions that are made at the time of construction will haunt you for years to come. You should never plan to start the construction and then make decisions "as we go along."

Space here does not permit covering all aspects that need to be considered when planning a structure. Major initial planning factors include:

• Site selection involves selecting a site on the property with proper drainage. There is a common fallacy to assume that a location on the top or side of a hill will always have good drainage. The building site must be at least 50 feet from other buildings and obstructions such as dense high vegetation to allow for proper air flow through and around the buildings. Distance from buildings is also important from a fire safety standpoint. The building site needs to be at least 50 feet from the property line because you cannot control what your neighbors might build near the property line.

• Utilities need to be assessed from the viewpoint of both near- and long-term needs. Your 4-inch well may have always met your water needs even through dry periods. But with the new layer house that you are planning to build, will you have sufficient water for the birds as well as other needs for the new operation? It is important to have the capacity of your well checked before embarking on a major expansion. Is there sufficient electrical service on your farmstead? For modern poultry facilities today, it is very important to have standby generators available to operate if the electrical power is cut for just 15 minutes or up to 8 to 10 hours.

• Manure management always needs to be considered in the initial planning stages. Do you have adequate landholdings in nearby locations for field spreading? If not, how will you dispose of the manure? Some poultrymen have built facilities for several hundred thousand birds on the few acres needed for the building and access lanes with reliance on neighboring farmers to take the manure. But what happens if the neighboring farms begin generating all the manure they can apply according to DER regulations? If the neighboring farms become developed, then there will be additional pressures on you to handle and dispose of the manure in an environmentally acceptable manner (from the neighbor's point of view).

• Labor and management capabilities need to be realistically assessed before an additional or expanded poultry enterprise is seriously considered. Sales literature will often speak of a "turnkey poultry housing system" that requires little or no labor and management. Such building systems simply do not exist. While it is true that modern poultry facilities with computer controls require less manual labor, these is still considerable skilled labor and management required. If your labor and management capabilities are fully utilized with your present poultry operation, then it must be clearly defined just who will be providing the additional labor and management.

The issues of site selection, utilities, manure management system, and labor and management need to be considered before developing specific details for the structure. Structural details such as building size, configuration, building materials, insulation, lighting, ventilation, and equipment need to be specified before requesting a cost estimate and making a commitment with a construction firm. The time spent in planning ahead is probably the best investment a poultry operator can make.

Tenneco Names New J I Case President

HOUSTON, TX — Tenneco Inc. announced that Robert J. Carlson has been named president and chief executive officer of its J I Case agricultural and construction equipment unit and is to be elected to the Tenneco Inc. board of directors.

Carlson, 61, began his professional career at Deere & Company where he spent 29 years, serving last as a senior vice president and member of the board of directors. In 1979 he joined United Technologies Corporation where he became president and a member of the board of directors. From 1985 until his recent departure, he was chairman and chief executive officer of BMC Industries, Inc., a manufacturer of electronic and optical products based in Minneapolis.

"Bob Carlson is a seasoned industrial leader with lifelong experience and understanding of industry, particularly the agricultural and construction equipment business — the customers, dealers, products, and the challenges," said J. L. Ketelsen, Tenneco chairman and chief executive officer. "He's a strong, no-nonsense executive, and we look to him to continue to build Case as a worldwide competitor. We're glad to have him."

"I took this job because I am personally convinced that Case has the people and the products in place to be an industry leader," Carlson said. "I come here with my eyes wide open. I know the challenges this industry faces in the current business conditions. But I know this business and I know where Cae is today. I see the progress that has been made and the potential that exists here. We're going to make a difference, and I can't wait to get started."

Carlson replaces James K. Ashford who resigned from Case in April 1991. Operations at Case have been managed since March by Ketelsen and Kenneth L. Otto, a Tenneco senior vice president.

Carlson was born in Minneapolis, the son of an executive in the farm equipment industry. He began work for Deere in sales in 1952 after he was graduated from the University of Minnesota with a B.S. in business administration. He held a series of jobs with increasing responsibility, including operating company-owned retail stores, managing manufacturing facilities, directing worldwide staff services, and running all of the company's North American operations with responsibility for agricultural and consumer products. He was named to the board of directors in 1971.

He joined the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Company unit of United Technologies as president in 1979 and was named to the United Technologies board of directors. He became executive vice president of United Technologies in 1981 and president in 1983.

He was named president, chairman, and CEO of BMC Industries in 1985 and is credited with leading a successful financial turnaround there. He remains on the BMC board of directors.

Elworth Becomes Apple Man Of The Year

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Larry Elworth, program coordinator for the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board, was named 1991 Apple Man of the Year at the International Apple Institute's (IAI) annual convention held recently in Washington, D.C.

In presenting the award, the nominating committee called Elworth "one of the rising stars of our industry. He has devoted himself to the cause of promoting the interests of apple growers and he pursues that cause with amazing energy."

A former apple grower and orchard manager, Elworth has played a leading role in setting national industry policy and has developed effective working relationships with legislative, regulatory, and consumer groups.

He was recently named chairman of a Commodity Liaison Council for a federal research project that will approve pest control agents for minor uses. He also serves on IAI's Environmental Affairs Committee and helped design the industry's first survey to track the use of agricultural chemicals by apple growers.

As chairman of IAI's public relations committee, Elworth was also the driving force behind the development of the industry's first crisis management plan during the Alar controversy.

In addition to his work for the national apple industry, Elworth administers the innovative public relations and consumer education programs for Pennsylvania's Apple Marketing Program, including the development of a regional apple processing promotion that attracted more than 1,000 retailers in more than 30 states.

The Apple Man of the Year award is presented annually by the International Apple Institute.

Holstein Named York 4-H Supreme

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Dar-Dale Buckaneer Bambi was just a junior calf when Dixie Doll began showing her as a 4-H dairy project.

That early showring training paid off for both Bambi and Dixie last week at the York 4-H dairy show, when the now three-year-old cow was selected supreme champion of the annual county competition.

It was a second champion win of the day for the 13-year-old 4-H'er from Glen Rock, who has been exhibiting project animals for five years. Moments before the supreme selection, type judge Tom Smith of Lancaster had chosen the Fair-Breeze Breedyk Buccaneer daughter for the top Holstein breed honor.

Dixie is an eighth-grade student at the Emory Markle middle school of the South western district. Her supreme champion is a homebred from the Dale Doll family's Dar-Dale registered Holsteins.

Reserve senior and grand champion in the Holstein division was exhibited by Aaron Shaffer of York. His reserve winner was four-year-old Vilester Columbus Estie, sired by Leadfield Columbus.

Shannon Doll, Brodbecks, exhibited the Holstein junior champion, also taking best bred and owned with the senior yearling by Ripvally Valiant Ni-Russ-ET. Her cousin Daphne Doll, Glen Rock, claimed the reserve junior champion honors with her Modik Valiant Count-ET senior calf.

Ayrshire honors were shared by brothers Jason and Jesse Stambaugh, sons of Jeff and Dianna Stambaugh, Spring Grove. Jason's senior and reserve champion was Ray Knoll Julius Jamaica, a six-year-old, besting Jesse's reserve senior champion five-year-old. But reserve grand honors and the best bred and owned award went to Jesse's intermediate calf Triple J. Gemini Andy.

Only heifers, and no milking cows, were entered in the 4-H Brown Swiss competition. Junior and grand champion was Joyel Crusader Sweetie, a senior calf from UB Great Crusader, exhibited by Heather Crowl, Airville. The reserve junior and grand Brown Swiss honor was won by Joshua Hushon of Delta, exhibiting her intermediate calf, Foust Hill Jeff Panda.

Beas Bonus Tinkerbell, a five-year-old, took the Guernsey division senior and grand ribbons for exhibitor Kelly Morris, Fawn Grove. Reserve senior champion was LongLane Playboy Sunrise, the junior two-year-old entry of Annie Rauhauser, Dover. Kelly Morris' homebred winning intermediate yearling, Moracre Fayette Jinglebell, from her champion cow, was chosen junior champion and reserve grand.

Annie Rauhauser took senior and grand champion in the Jersey division with Lilac Springs John Joleen. The three-year-old was also named best bred and owned. Junior and reserve grand titles went to Valley-U Sooner Fay, the senior calf entry of Tanya Barr, Fawn Grove.

A heated showmanship contest, broken into four age categories, kept showmanship judge Mary Shenk Creek, Hagerstown, Maryland, busy long after type judging was complete. In the Cloverbud beginners group, Jacob Hushon of Delta was named top showman. Junior division champion was Chad Trimmer, East Berlin, with younger sister Amy Trimmer placing right behind in the reserve champion slot.

Ag Management Service Begins

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.)— Bradley J. Hilty, former regional extension farm management specialist in Maryland, has announced the establishment of PLS Agri-Management Associates, an independent consulting firm offering a wide array of management services to farmers and agribusinesses in Pennsylvania and Maryland.

The firm, located in Carlisle, will offer a variety of services to help farmers and small agricultural companies operate more profitable businesses.

Services include complete management audits, financial analysis, farm business plans, loan support documents, integrated financial statements, record keeping, accounting, and tax services.

The firm will also offer expert nutrition and management programs for dairy and livestock producers, as well as in home computer training and assistance. All services will be offered on an individual basis or in an integrated farm management program.

Hilty, who most recently served as a territory sales manager for the Nutrena Feed Division of Cargill, Inc., developed PLS Agri-Management Associates in conjunction with other specialists in the agricultural industry. Because of their extensive experience in many different disciplines of agriculture, Hilty believes the group can offer the services and practical solutions that farmers need to prosper in today's more competitive environment.

Bradley J. Hilty

For more information on the programs and services offered by the firm, contact Brad Hilty, PLS Agri-Management Associates, 103 Claridon Place, Carlisle, PA 17013, (717) 245-9716.

Canola Crop — Successful, But Challenging

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

THOMASVILLE (York Co.) — "I'll grow it again."

That's Ted Haberland's post-harvest assessment of his first venture into growing canola, a seed oil crop just beginning to stir planting interest in the East.

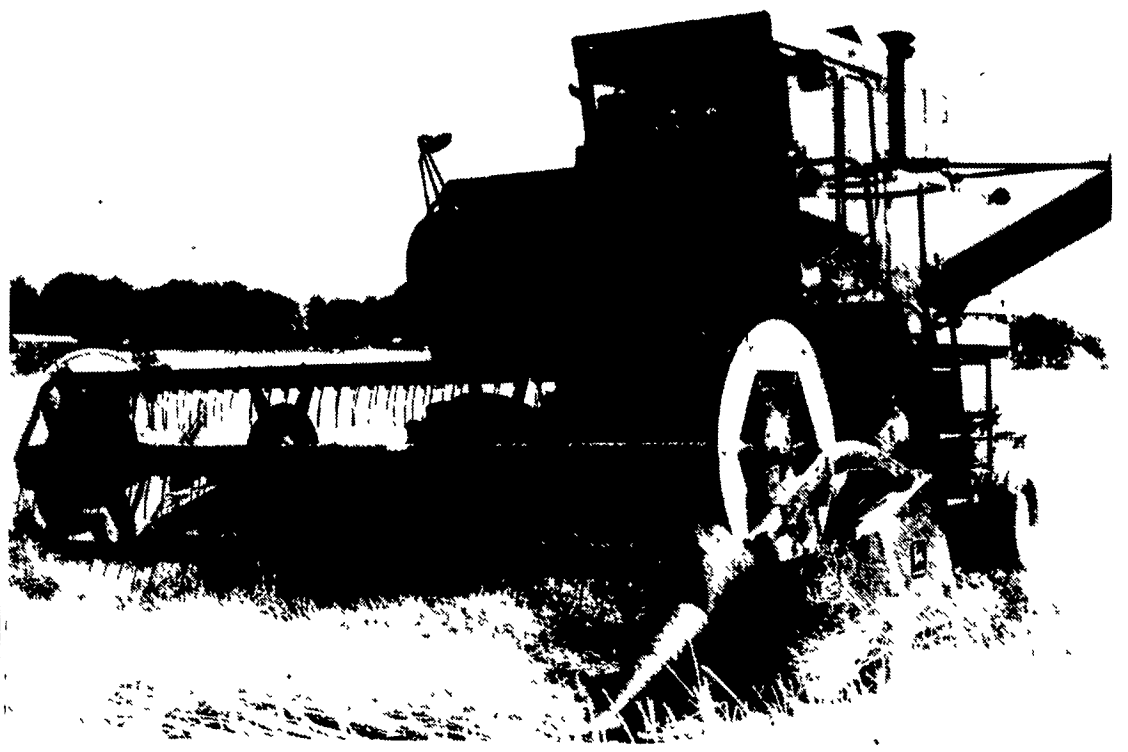
Canola, a brassica cousin of the turnip, yields a high-quality oil increasingly in demand by fat-and-cholesterol conscious consumers. Grown in Europe for decades, both for consumption and petroleum uses, canola has gained popularity in recent years as a field crop in Canada and the western U.S.

Haberland planted an experimental 25 acres last fall for June harvest as an alternative to barley or wheat. He began harvesting on June 17, and ran into an unexpected "gliche" caused by the year's unseasonable and extremely early hot and dry weather.

"We ended up having to dry the canola," explains Haberland. "Plants on the tops of our rolling fields dried down fast and the pods started to shatter, while those in lower-lying areas of the fields were still tough."

Ideal moisture level for canola seed is nine percent, says the Thomasville R1 dairy farmer, while his came off at 12 percent.

"So we had to find a dryer tight enough to handle the tiny canola seeds without a lot of losses," he adds. "We had to make a lot of decisions and find some answers real quickly."



Harvesting the oil fields: Ted Haberland maneuvers the combine through its first sweeps through the thick stand of canola.

The canola moisture dilemma was solved with the help of neighboring crop producer Albert Bentz. Using Bentz's batch dryer at his Thomasville R1 farm, the oil seed was dried down, using only limited heat. Heat temperatures on canola seed destined for food use are critical, since too much heat will cause rancidity in the oil.

Yield varied among the several fields, ranging from 30 to 60 bushels, but with a 41-bushel per acre average. Price at the mill was just under five dollars per bushel. Canola price, according to Haberland, is figured at about 110-percent of the daily quoted price for soybeans.

"Of course there was no straw with the canola; if you don't need straw that saves on having to bale or chop it," Haberland adds.

"Last fall the weather was great, but early summer this year just didn't give it a fair chance. We will grow it again."

NO. 1 DAIRYING DIESEL

KHD DEUTZ

Since 1968 F2L-912 diesels have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel. Don't settle for less.

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting. No electric heater plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

Continuous Duty Rating:
26.5 HP @ 1800 RPM

Fewer repair parts than comparable three-cylinder diesels - cheaper to overhaul.

It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

Wet brewers grain is more than a good feed. It's a good business ingredient.

Each day, up to 100,000 U.S. dairy cows feed on rations containing wet brewers grain. That's because their owners know it minimizes feed costs while it maximizes production.

Wet brewers grain is a high-protein feed ingredient. It's always fresh, because it's delivered directly to your dairy. It fits into most programs, is easy to handle, and easy to store.

Call us today. One of our professional feed consultants will help you work wet brewers grain into your ration, so you can make it a profitable ingredient for your business.

CONSTRUCTED FOR YEARS OF MAINTENANCE-FREE SERVICE.

Look over these outstanding features.

- Less weight. Eby aluminum bodies weigh up to 30% less than comparable steel and wood construction.
- Less maintenance. Aluminum construction won't rust or rot - never needs painting.
- Long-life durability. Heavy-duty structural components and hollow-tube frame combine with aluminum floor and sides to stand up to years of hard work.

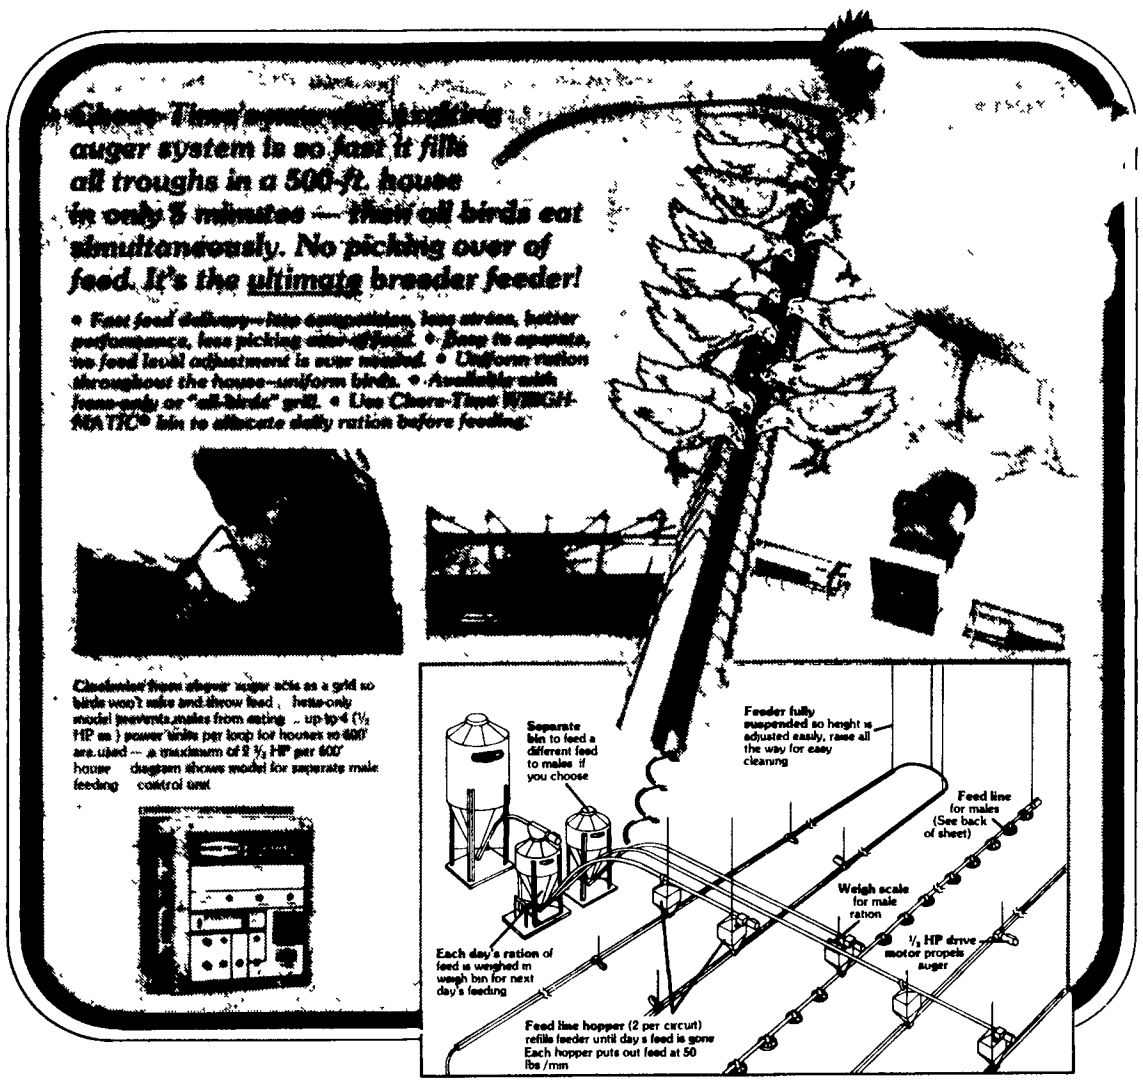
THE FEEDER THAT HAS TAKEN OVER THE CAGED LAYER INDUSTRY



Chore-Time's space-saving troughing auger system is so fast it fills all troughs in a 500-ft. house in only 5 minutes — that all birds eat simultaneously. No picking over of feed. It's the ultimate breeder feeder!
• Fast feed delivery—less competition, less stress, better performance, less picking and trough. • Easy to operate, no feed level adjustment is ever needed. • Uniform ration throughout the house—uniform birds. • Available with hens-only or "all-birds" grill. • Use Chore-Time WEIGH-MATIC® bin to allocate daily ration before feeding.
Separate bin to feed a different feed to males if you choose
Feeder fully suspended so height is adjusted easily, raise all the way for easy cleaning
Feed line (for males (See back of sheet)
Weigh scale for male ration
½ HP drive motor propels auger
Each day's ration of feed is weighed in weigh bin for next day's feeding

Frederick-Montgomery Maryland Holstein Show Held

Maryland Correspondent

FREDERICK, MD. — The Frederick-Montgomery Holstein District Show was held at the Frederick County Fairgrounds. The hot, dry, humid weather didn't keep exhibitors away. There were thirty 4-H, FFA exhibitors and thirty-six open class exhibitors.

Judge Harvey Clem, of Stuart Draft, Viriginia, said he was happy for the opportunity to "come home" to judge the show. He was a former resident of Frederick County.

Crystal Smith was awarded Grand Champion Fitting and Showing and Holly Burall Junior Fitting and Showing Champion.

217 Register For Somerset Holstein Show

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.)— Lasting just under six hours and going into the following morning, the recent Somerset County Holstein Show had 217 entries that were judged by Obie Snyder of Imler, Bedford County. He owns Singing Brook Farm.

Somerset County dairy princess, Vicki Stahl, officially presented trophies, plaques, ribbons and banners following the placing announcements. It had been a long evening for the princess who still had to drive home before grabbing some sleep and rising again for the morning milking at the Stahl Farm near Somerset.

Coming from Grantsville, Md., Ezra and Mary Yoder's 5-year-old cow, Ez-Mar Haven Wileeda Shelly, born January 4, 1986, was named the grand champion. Sired by Wileeda Citation R, Shelly's dam is Cassel-Manor Ultimate Shelly.

The reserve champion, coming from the Cove-Run Farm near Accident, Md., was Cove-Run Thunder Bebe, born Nov. 8, 1985. Cove-Run Farm belongs to Oren Bender. Bebe's sire was Maries Thunder-Twin. Her dam is Delbar Majesty Bebe.

The junior grand champion, owned by Suzy Stutzman, Friedens, was 3-year-old, Ebe-Tide Val Star Bonnie. From Berlin, Julie Will had the reserve champion, C Bovino Warden Flora, a senior 2-year-old.

Oren Bender, Accident, Md., was also named the premier breeder and premier exhibitor for the evening. William Mosholder was the junior premier breeder. Suzy Stutzman was the junior premier exhibitor.

Comments throughout the evening indicated that Judge Snyder liked the animals he was seeing. He remarked about one big cow in the 4-year-old class, "I don't see how she couldn't be named number one. Her udder is higher and tightly placed." She stood a conservative guessed weight of 62½ inches.

Another time, the judge liked an older cow and showed humor in his quip, "This cow on the end is at least 15 years old -- she's almost as old as I am."

Milkshakes were the top seller throughout the evening for the Somerset County Dairy promotion Committee, whose mobile unit was parked just outside the show arena. A spokeswoman said lots of other frozen goodies that were available were bought to take home later. Another concessionaire sold sandwiches, fries and other beverages.

Lebanon Jr Holstein Club Meets

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Junior Holstein club met June 6 at the home of the Wamplers.

Prior to the meeting the group enjoyed volleyball and swimming.

Duane Nolt presided, reviewing new club guidelines which had been approved at the previous meeting.

He announced that milk, fat and protein award applications are due Oct. 1. All entries must be submitted with a copy of the appropriate DHI sheet, otherwise the application will be rejected.

Nolt also gave an update on the national convention, during which 16 local members attended, representing Pennsylvania in the national dairy bowl contests.

The senior dairy bowl team placed fifth out of 18 teams, and the juniors competed against 12 other teams.

In other business, David Lentz was elected to serve on the national junior advisory committee.

The next meeting of the Lebanon Jr Holstein Club is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., August 22, at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds.

49 4-H Animals Qualify In Chester

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — The Chester County 4-H Dairy Roundup was held at the Kimberton Fairgrounds July 20, with four 4-H dairy clubs participating, and 82 animals being shown by 36 members.

This was an increase over last year, and eight 4-H'ers were first-year participants. Forty-nine animals will be going to the Southeast 4-H District District Show at Kutztown, on August 23.

Dr. James McCaffree, Holstein breeder from Delta, York County, judged type for both the Ayrshire and Holstein Shows.

Senior and grand champion Ayrshire honors went to Charles N. Young Jr., West Grove, with his 3-yr.-old cow, Timberlawn Rebel's Audrey Rose. His sister, Kelly Lynn Young, captured both reserve senior and reserve grand champion Ayrshire awards with a 4-yr.-old dry cow named Timberlawn Squire's D.R. Baby.

The Young family kept up their winning ways as Kelly Lynn Young showed a fine summer yearling, Pure-Ayr A.J.'s Babykakes, that was selected as junior champion. Charles N. Young Jr. had the reserve junior champion, Timberlawn Mozart Sandra Rose, a junior yearling.

Shari Supplee, Glenmoore, was close behind with the reserve senior and reserve grand champion, S-W-Lawn-View Banner Bambi.

Samuel Yoder, dairyman from Shoemakersville, Berks County, judged type for the Guernseys and the Jerseys.

Leading a large, excellent quality Jersey show was Tammy Yeager, Spring City, with the senior and grand champion, Jesters Lucy of SSF, a 4-year-old cow.

Sheep Association Urges Producers To Testify

ENGLEWOOD, Col. — The scales of justice are weighing lamb in an attempt to find a balance between retail and wholesale lamb prices, according to a news release from the American Sheep Industry Association.

"Wyoming senators Malcolm Wallop and Al Simpson spurred a campaign encouraging the United States Department of Justice to conduct an investigation concerning the high-dollar split between retail and wholesale lamb prices," according to the recent news release.

The Justice Department agreed and is now taking a close look at the domestic lamb industry, according to the association.

Earlier this year, Simpson and Wallop and 11 other western senators, signed a letter to the Justice Department requesting a comprehensive investigation of all levels of the lamb industry.

The lawmaker's letter said, "The true condition of the industry has reached a catastrophic level and it must be promptly investigated from top to bottom — from packer to retail — in order to ensure the survival of the industry."

The United States Justice Department responded by stating that an investigation would take place. In its letter to the senators, the Justice Department informed the group that it had met with several livestock and farming organizations and based upon concerns expressed at those meetings by several parties, including several domestic lamb grower organizations, the Antitrust division recently initiated an antitrust investigation in the lamb industry.

In January, the American Sheep Industry Association's Board of Directors voted not to call for an investigation in order to avoid industry disruption.

However, in April, the board voted 343-42 to support Congressional efforts already underway calling for the investigation.

ASI President Jim Magagna said that ASI did not request the investigation, but the board of directors has agreed to cooperate fully with the Justice Department.

Magagna also said, "No one is pointing a finger at any one player or any one segment of the industry. There are just a lot of unanswered questions."

Now that the Justice Department is involved with the investigation and working on the issue both Sen. Simpson and Sen. Magagna are voicing concern about the lack of producers stepping forward to offer information.

This reluctance to offer testimony is putting a damper on the investigation and the Justice Department has expressed frustration at the lack of testimony.

In calling for producer input, Simpson said, "Anyone with knowledge of any intimidation, whether by industry officials or any evidence of anti-competitive activity in the lamb industry, should be encouraged to step forward. We can not do this alone. We need all the help of all the producers that we can possibly get."

Simpson said there is concern that the Justice Department will conclude there is no problem with the lamb industry if they do not attain sufficient information and testimony from producers by next month.

"If the Justice Department does not hear from producers," he said, "they will conclude there is nothing to find."

Lamb Council Chair Steve Raftopoulos said he is disappointed in the lack of producer testimony. He said producers have been demanding something be done about the split between wholesale and retail prices and for years, but now that action is being taken, they are not saying anything.

"The Justice Department investigation offers an ideal opportunity for lamb producers to express their concerns with the industry. This is what producers have been calling for. It's time for them to stand up, speak out and be counted."

Those wishing to offer information for the investigation can either contact Bruce Yamanaga, the Justice Department attorney who is handling the case, (202) 307-5775 or Senator Simpson's office, (202) 224-3424.

4-H Animals

went to Owen Bewley, West Chester with his Sr. calf, Cindy Carom Meg of SSF, named champion and his senior yearling, Patrick Gemini Summer of SSF, capturing the reserve.

In the Guernsey breed, first year member Julie Sollenberger took all the championship honors. Her senior calf, Warwick Manor Fayette Audrey, was junior and grand champion and French Creek Fayette Daisy, an intermediate calf was selected as reserve junior and reserve grand champion.

The showing and fitting contest, always a closely contested event, was judged by Scott Cooper, Delta, a York County Holstein breeder, and John Harris, a retired Perry County extension agent. Champion first year showman honors went to Kevin Martin, Oxford, while the reserve champion first year showman was Brandon Umble of Atglen. Clint Stees, Atglen, captured the champion first year fitter award and Julie Sollenberger, Spring City, was named reserve champion first year fitter.

In the junior division, under 14 years old, Tammy Yeager, Spring City, was named junior champion showman/fitter and Kevin Nolan, Cochranville, took the reserve ribbon.

The senior division, as usual, was very competitive and Owen Bewley, West Chester, was selected as senior champion. Henry Yorgey, Spring City, was close behind, winning the reserve senior champion showman/fitter.

WORK WATCH

The Work Watch Is Back!

In the mid-1980's we sold hundreds of work watches to hard-working individuals like yourself who needed an accurate, dependable timepiece. They needed a watch that would withstand the dust, moisture, bumps, and temperatures encountered on the farm, in the orchard, and in the woods. Many who bought the work watch told us it was the best watch they had ever owned. Now, due to the past success and the present need, we are again offering the work watch through Lancaster Farming.

Our work watch has all the features needed to endure the punishment you will put it through. The WATER RESISTANT seal will protect your watch when you irrigate fields, fix broken water systems, get milk splashed on your arm while feeding calves, or walk the fence in the rain, to find out where your cattle are getting out. Being SHOCK RESISTANT, your work watch will continue to work when it is slapped by a cow's tail, a falling board, or the belt shield that your arm slams against when your wrench slips off the bolt While your watch is scraped by branches, rubbed against walls, and knocked against machinery, the low profile, SCRATCH RESISTANT, glass crystal will resist the scratches and cracks that render watches unreadable. Finally, the BATTERY POWERED QUARTZ movement of your work watch is accurate to within 2 minutes per year, and does not need to be wound, meaning that your watch will be on time, all the time, without any effort on your part.

In order to prove that this watch will be durable we gave one to a fruit grower and had him test it for us against moisture, dust, and shock. The watch resisted the moisture surrounding spraying trees, washing fruit, making apple cider, and picking fruit in the morning while the leaves were drenched with dew. The dust from dirt roads didn't affect his watch, nor did the constant rubbing and bumping it endured while he reached in and out of trees, and while he repaired his equipment. Even the shock of walking out of a walk-in cooler into the hot summer sun didn't stop his watch. After he tested his watch we knew we could offer it as a durable and reliable work watch.

But this work watch isn't only tough, it also has some super side benefits. The EXPANSION BAND is very comfortable, is made of stainless steel so that it will not rust when you sweat, and can be adjusted to fit your wrist (send your wrist measurement with your order and we will size it for you). The round dial features easy to read FULL NUMERALS, allowing you to tell the time at a glance, as well as a calender to help you keep track of the DAY AND DATE. And just in case you have need to time something, your work watch also has a second hand.

A final proof of the strength of this watch and of its suitability to your needs is the warranty. If your work watch stops running within FIVE YEARS of the date of purchase, the manufacturer will repair or replace your watch at no charge. This is one of the longest warranties in the watch industry. The manufacturer's confidence in this watch means that you can have confidence in its durability and can know that this is the only work watch you will need to buy for the next five years.

To receive your new work watch, act now. Read and complete the coupon below, and send it with your payment to Heisey's Jewelry Store, 5 N. Main St., Manheim, PA 17545. Your new watch will arrive shortly.

Angus Youth Parade 552 At National Junior Show

ST. JOSEPH, MO — Young Angus exhibitors from 31 states and Canada displayed 552 head of cattle during the 1991 National Junior Angus Show held July 16-20 at State Fair Park in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

A native of Crawfordsville, Indiana, Beth Patton paraded the grand champion among the 122 entries in the bred-and-owned heifer division. First named the late junior champion, her entry is Patton Beatrice Audrey 08, a March 1990 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie.

The reserve grand champion bred-and-owned female was led out by Zachary Weaver of Peoria, Illinois. Also named the early junior champion, Weaver's heifer is WAF Julia Belle 005 and is a January 1990 daughter of Hoff Hi Spade S C 491.

In bred-and-owned bull competition, Will Meng, Bowling Green, Kentucky, exhibited the grand winner that first topped the calf division. Mengs Predominant 131Z, a September 1990 son of Leachman Prompter, is the winner among the 30 bulls.

Reserve grand champion bred-and-owned bull honors were given to Jeanna Wall, Prairie Du Chien, Wisconsin. Her entry is Walls Prompter 034, the junior champion. The bull is an April 1990 son of Leachman Prompter.

Among the 311 entries in the show's largest category, "owned" heifers, Toby Bolsen, Lovington, Illinois, led out the grand champion. Nelson Elba Lassie 0357 is Bolsen's winning entry that is a January 1990 daughter of Nelson Iggi. The heifer first topped the early junior division.

The reserve grand champion "owned" female was paraded by Sarah Hill, Bidwell, Ohio. S A V Mac Jestress 1761 is Hill's winning heifer that is a February 1990 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie. She first won the reserve early junior championship.

In the steer category, Tim Collins, East Troy, Wisconsin, exhibited the grand champion named WAR Power 0360. The steer is an April 1990 son of WAR High Lyte 5241 2021 and is named WAR Power 0360. The grand winner weighed in at 1,090 pounds and had a weight per day of age of 2.64 pounds.

The reserve grand champion steer was Fernvale Hogan exhibited by Jason Mindemann, Sullivan, Wisconsin. The May 1990 steer is a son of Fairfield Dark Star P57 and weighed in at 1,200 pounds. He had a weight per day of age of 2.78 pounds.

In cow-calf pair competition, D A Fair Lea 4293 and her April 1991 bull calf won grand champion honors. The duo is owned by Myron Kennedy, Brookeville, Maryland. The cow is a February 1989 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie and the calf is sired by Dameron Challenge.

The reserve grand champion pair was exhibited by Stephanie Nelson, Salmon, Idaho. Nelson Jessica 9109 is the name of Nelson's champion cow that is a January 1989 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie. An April 1991 bull calf by Taylors High Gear is at her side.

S A V Mac Jestress 1761 was the name of this reserve early junior champion heifer that went on to win reserve grand champion "owned" heifer laurels at the 1991 National Junior Angus Show in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Sarah Hill, Bidwell, Ohio, paraded the reserve grand entry that is a February 1990 daughter of Grubbs Mac Kenzie.

Neenah Hill, Bidwell, Ohio, paraded this intermediate champion bred-and-owned heifer at the 1991 National Junior Angus Show in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. C F Ashley is the name of Hill's winner. Erskine Cash, Centre Hall, Pennsylvania, judged the 552 head of Angus cattle at this largest junior beef breed show.

Nelson was named the high-point girl at the show. For this honor, she received a silver pitcher from the American Angus Auxiliary.

The champion group of five head went to the Illinois Junior Angus Association. For that honor the Illinois juniors received $100. Indiana won $75 for the second place five head entry; Iowa won $50 for third; and Kentucky placed fourth to win $25.

R & J Ranch, Briggs, Texas, was named the show's Premier Breeder by breeding the three highest placing animals in the show.

The Indiana Junior Angus Association won the best state display for state groups with 16 head and over, and the Georgia Junior Angus Association won champion display for groups with 15 head and under.

Woods Model P90 pull-type lawnmower cuts a 90" swath... Mows up to 4-1/2 acres per hour.

Designed for large commercial mowing jobs the Woods Model P90 mows weeds and grass, wet or dry. It's the ideal mower for golf courses, parks, schools, athletic fields, industrial sites or any other large area finished mowing jobs.

Energy efficient styling, combined with field proven rugged dependability, guarantees top mowing performance day after day, year after year.

The Model P90's 7-1/2 ft. swath mows up to 4-1/2 acres per hour and cuts those big mowing jobs and "tight" schedules down to size.

Woods Model P90 offers the convenience of fast-on, fast-off mounting with its standard drawbar and clevis pin hook-up. In minutes your tractor is "free" for other jobs between mowings. The Model P90 is designed for tractors rated 25-50 hp and 540 rpm PTO.

Dauphin To Spray For Gypsy Moth In 1992

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — The Dauphin County Commissioners — Sally S. Klein, Russell L. Sheaffer and Carol A. Peters — have announced the county will participate with the State Department of Environmental Resources in the Gypsy Moth Suppression Program for 1992.

A gypsy moth population in the county has not been sufficient to warrant spraying since 1988 due to a series of natural biological conditions as well as the spray program, however, the species is present in the county and landowners are encouraged to report any sizeable increase in egg masses this year.

Joanna Shields, resource specialist with the Dauphin County Conservation District, coordinates the suppression program for the County, and has released the procedures landowners should follow to request "possible" spraying of their properties next spring. "It depends on where in the county the property is located," said Shields.

Landowners south of Peters Mountain should direct their requests to their township or borough office.

The Conservation District will take calls from residents north of Peters Mountain, including Rush Township, since these municipalities are without full-time office staff to handle the calls. The Dauphin County Conservation District can be reached at 921-8100 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Requests for spraying must be completed by August 30, this year, as field investigations must be conducted during September. For this reason, landowners requesting spraying should not remove or destroy egg masses before December.

"Submitting a request is not a guarantee for spraying," said Shields. DER has developed a set of guidelines which must be met before any area is sprayed. Only forested residential or special use areas can be sprayed. Undeveloped and uninhabited forest lands will not be sprayed by DER.

The potential spray area must be at least 25 acres in size, contain 250 or more healthy egg masses per acre, have a crown cover which is at least 50 percent and contain tree species which are susceptible to gypsy moth damage — all species of Oak, Alder, American basswood, Apple, Aspen, Birch, Boxelder, Hawthorne, Sweetgum, Tamarack and Willow.

What should landowners be looking for? During early summer, gypsy moth caterpillars (larva) are about 2 inches long with yellow markings on the head. They have numerous long hairs along the sides of their bodies and three lighter strips along the body length, but their most distinguishing characteristic is a double row of colored spots along the back — the first five pairs, blue and the remaining six pairs, a brick red color.

This is the stage during which they feed on leaves, defoliating trees.

After the feeding stage is over in late June or July, the caterpillars change to the pupal stage. Reddish brown cases may be found almost anywhere hanging by strands of silk. This is the time of year the moths begin emerging from the pupae.

Both male and female moths have feathery appearing antennae. The male is tan to dark brown in color with black wavy wing markings and a wingspread of 1½ inches. The female moth is larger with a wingspread of 2½ inches. She is nearly white in color with faint dark wavy bands on the forewings. The female does not fly.

She begins laying eggs soon after mating, usually within a day or two after emerging from the pupa. The eggs are deposited in oval shaped cases ranging in size from a dime, up to two inches in length.

The egg masses are velvety and buckskin in color and are firm to the touch. They may be distinguished from older egg masses which have already hatched and are cream colored and spongy to the touch.

Egg masses can be found almost anywhere; on tree trunks and the undersides of branches, under loose tree bark or rocks, on roof overhangs, under picnic tables and outdoor furniture, even on vehicles or rubbish.

If landowners have observed any of these stages in sufficient numbers to signal significant defoliation potential, they should call according to the above instructions and request evaluation for participation in the 1992 spraying program.

The insecticide to be applied during the May 1992 spraying is Bacillus thuringiensis (BT). It is a fermented bacteria, not a chemical insecticide which, when consumed by the caterpillars, causes their stomaches to swell and burst, resulting in death. BT is toxic only to leaf eaters of the insect order Lepidoptera (butterflies and moths).

BT has not been shown to be harmful to humans, pets, livestock or gardens. Landowners with questions about gypsy moth or the Gypsy Moth Suppression Program may call the Dauphin County Conservation District (717) 921-8100.

Cool Your Cows, Chickens

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Progressive Maryland dairy farmers and poultry producers are practicing some new management techniques that pay off in helping to maintain milk production in dairy cows and prevent death losses in chickens during hot weather.

In both situations, the techniques involve combinations of water and air movement recommended by the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland system.

Kenneth E. Wisner, dairy science agent in Frederick County, explained that cows tend to lose their appetites when they are subjected to temperatures exceeding 85 degrees F. Consequently, their milk production drops.

Installing misters over both sides of every feed bunk and in holding areas makes it possible to cool cows during hot weather. But periods of misting should be alternated with periods of fan-powered air movement for maximum cooling effect, Wisner said.

"Be careful not to get the cows' feed wet and soggy," Wisner said.

Hot weather management for chickens is slightly different, said Dr. Lewis E. Carr, agricultural engineering specialist at the Princess Anne facility of the Lower Eastern Shore Research and Education Center.

Where the system is practiced in Eastern Shore broiler houses, both misting and fan-powered air movement are provided continuously on hot days. This keeps the litter from becoming too wet.

One problem remaining to be solved is determining the most ideal temperature/humidity index for chickens.

VITAVAX
Quality Wheat Seed
Vitavax-200

Vitavax - 200 is a lot more than just disease protection.

If you grow wheat or other small grains, Vitavax-200 is a crop input you should seriously consider. That's because no other seed treatment will give your grain more disease protection. The powerful systemic activity of Vitavax-200 will effectively protect your grain against smuts, seedling blights, and seed decay.

But the Vitavax benefits don't stop there.

Vitavax is also a patented growth stimulant. Under adverse growing conditions like drought or cool, wet weather, Vitavax-200 will normally help your crop emerge faster than untreated seed, and develop larger crowns and more extensive root systems.

Get more of the yield your crop is capable of producing, talk to us about Vitavax-200 Systemic Seed Treatment today.

Five Selected To National Cooperative Seminar

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Five high school students were awarded scholarships by Atlantic Dairy Cooperative to attend the 1991 National Institute on Cooperative Education, which was held July 22-25 in Charlotte, N.C.

The youth scholars — all sons or daughters of Atlantic members — were selected to attend the NICE conference based on their participation in the 1991 Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives Summer Institute. The four-day program was held June 23-26 at Shippensburg University.

Named as Atlantic scholars were: Michael C. Hensel of Newburg; Kevin L. Meyer of Annville; Shannon P. Semmel of Schnecksville; Cheryl L. Sollenberger of Williamsburg; and Dean A. Wenger of Manheim.

Michael Hensel, 17, is the son of M. Wayne and Margaret Hensel. He is a senior at Shippensburg Senior High School, where he is an honor student. He is a member of the SAT and history clubs and is the recipient of the Presidential Academic Fitness Award and his FFA Chapter's Star Greenhand and Star Chapter Farmer awards. He was recently nominated to "Whos' Who Among High School Students." Michael is also a member of the 4-H, the Junior Holstein Association and the Cumberland County Junior Holstein Club.

Kevin Meyer, 17, is the son of James M. and Lois J. Meyer. A senior at Annville Cleona High School, Kevin is a member of the Little Dutchman FFA Chapter of which he has served as assistant chaplain and as a member of various committees. He is a member of the Ono United Methodist Church Youth Fellowship Group and the church's volleyball team.

Shannon Semmel, 15, is the daughter of Paul and Nancy Semmel. She is a sophomore at Parkland Senior High School, where she is a member of the field hockey and track and field teams and is a staff member of the "Rampage," the school newspaper. Shannon is also a member of the Schnecksville Grange, the Lehigh County 4-H Dairy Calf Club and the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association.

Cheryl Sollenberger, 18, is the daughter of David and Mary Sollenberger. A graduate of Williamsburg High School, Cheryl was a member of the FFA Careers in Health, Students Against Drunk Driving, student council and the prom committee. She was a member of the basketball team and was a manager of the volleyball team. She is also a member of the Heritage and Historical Society and the American Red Cross. She has shown livestock for eight years.

Dean Wenger, 17, is the son of Nelson and Alma Wenger. A senior at Manheim Central high School, he is a member of the National Honor Society and is president of his FFA Chapter. He is also a member of his church's quiz team and is secretary of the youth group. He attended the Lions Club leadership conference.

The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, based in Washington, D.C., annually sponsors the National Institute on Cooperative Education to explain the role of cooperatives in today's business world.

MAXXUM: The Tractor That Wasn't Just Built For Farmers, It Was Built By Farmers...

MAXXUM™

MAXXUM tractors feature door-to-door convenience.

A Greatly Appreciated Feature Is Our Two Door Cab!

Stop At Our Ag Progress Booth And See This Beautiful New Tractor At W. 3rd St.

Among mid range tractors, only Case International MAXXUM tractors offer cabs with two doors. That makes getting in and out a lot easier especially when you're doing stationary PTO work or working around obstructions.

Comfortable. Two door cabs are just one of many reasons to own a MAXXUM tractor. Others include choice of fully synchronized or powershift transmissions with 16 forward and 12 reverse speeds, standard forward/reverse shuttle shift an eight speed creeper option and three horsepower selections 77 86 and 94 HO (57 64 and 70 kW).

And all three models are backed by the best warranty* in the business, five years or 5 000 hours whichever occurs first. Come in to see the MAXXUM line of tractors today.

*Ask for a detailed explanation of this limited warranty. A $200 deductible applies to repair and/or replacement. See your dealer for complete details. ©Case Corporation 1991

Opens your soil down deep!

Loosen Up Hard Sunbaked Soil And Get Ready For Fall Seeding And Winter Rains With A Case IH Subsoiler From Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc.

Case International 14 Subsoil Chisel

Works behind high-horsepower tractors to open soil down to 20 inches for deep-down penetration of water and air. Parabolic curve shanks lift soil vertically for a wide area of soil fracture. Shank design and V-shape frame combine to deliver easier penetration, reduced draft and less fuel consumption.

- 5-shank model with 10' working width, automatic reset shanks

FREE YOURSELF FROM SPREADER CHAINS AND SAVE MONEY

The proven Hydra-Spread design can free you from the grief and maintenance of spreader apron chains for good!

This low maintenance spreader features solid poly boards both on the sides and the floor for slippery, no-stick performance. Hydraulic push power replaces the extensive mechanism needed in ordinary spreaders.'

Why pay more for yesterday's ideas and designs? The design of tomorrow is PRICED RIGHT and will be on the job for years. We deliver to your farm.

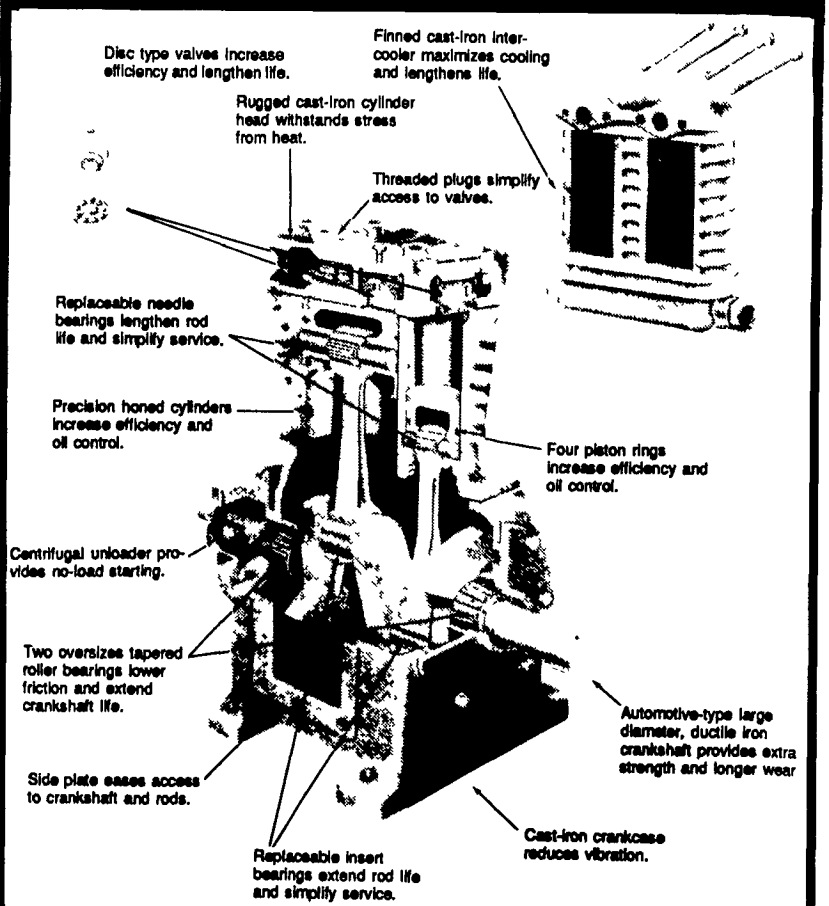
WHAT MAKES A SAYLOR-BEALL AIR COMPRESSOR?



Disc type valves increase efficiency and lengthen life.
Finned cast-iron inter-cooler maximizes cooling and lengthens life.
Rugged cast-iron cylinder head withstands stress from heat.
Threaded plugs simplify access to valves.
Replaceable needle bearings lengthen rod life and simplify service.
Precision honed cylinders increase efficiency and oil control.
Four piston rings increase efficiency and oil control.
Centrifugal unloader provides no-load starting.
Two oversizes tapered roller bearings lower friction and extend crankshaft life.
Automotive-type large diameter, ductile iron crankshaft provides extra strength and longer wear
Side plate eases access to crankshaft and rods.
Cast-iron crankcase reduces vibration.
Replaceable insert bearings extend rod life and simplify service.

ALL COMPRESSORS ARE AVAILABLE WITH EITHER SPLASH LUBRICATION OR PRESSURE LUBRICATION

POLY SILO LINERS
for Upright Silos
If Your Silo Needs New Life...
Try Our Poly Silo Liners

-THE ADVANTAGE OF A POLY LINER-
- Spoilage is reduced around doors.
- Feed is exposed to less oxygen - better fermentation.
- Allows storage of high moisture grains or dry grains in a conventional silo.
- Delays repair or replacement of corroded silos.
- Prevents corrosive acids from contacting silo wall - extends silo life.
- Quick installation.
- Effectively seals silos from air and weather.

Ruff-Tuff Poly Silo Liners Are Designed to Work Well In Silos Without Unloaders
The Liners Are Manufactured To Fit Most Standard Diameter Silos.

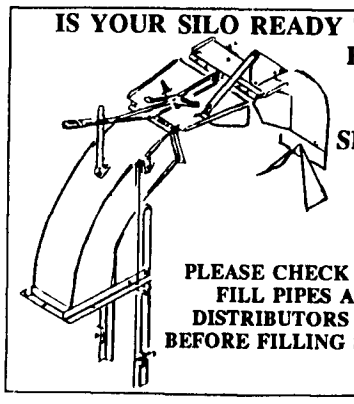
S & S SILO SERVICE

ATTENTION FARMERS
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete
STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH CORN SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

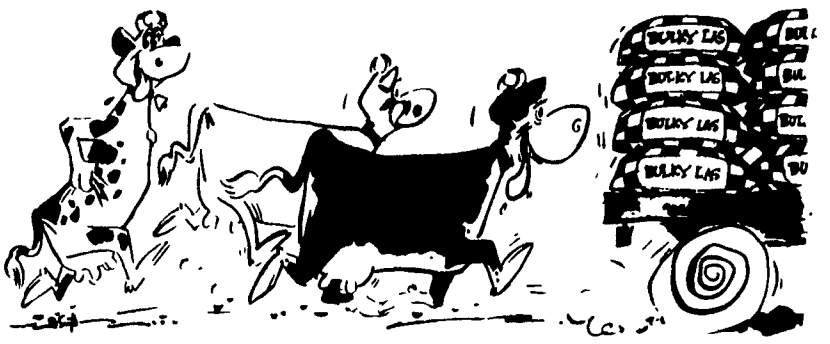
PROOF OF PERFORMANCE!



In June of 1989, Bedford Farm Bureau became a Purina dealer servicing Bedford and Blair counties, an area where previously there were almost no Purina products found on local dairies. With locations in Bedford, Everett, and New Enterprise and led by general manager Bill Popovich, farm consultants Lis Ferguson and Warren Kornes, as well as the Purina team of Rob Hinton and Bill Stewart, Bedford Farm Bureau has become the leader in supplying high quality performance dairy feeds in addition to professional nutrition consulting and service. What follows is a 2-year summary showing the performance of each individual herd that has been on a Purina ration for 4 months or more and is on official DHIA test. This list includes all final results, both positive and negative.

Dairy of Distinction Supplement to Lancaster Farming, Saturday, August 3, 1990

1991 Dairy Of Distinction Farms Featured

The owners of Glen Valley Dairy of Distinction Farm are Ken and Marylin Umble and sons Brandon, 10; Jordan, 7; and Scott, 3. The cow, Glen Valley Mark Patti shows her VG-88 type classification very nicely. At 3y-2m Patti's production record is 365d 25,483m 4.4% 1129f 3.4% 858p. Photo by Everett Newswanger, Managing Editor.

Glen Valley: Example Of Why Distinction Program Started

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

ATGLEN (Chester County)-You could say that with all the exposure to the public's eye, Glen Valley Farm and the family who farms it live in a fish bowl. But that doesn't sound right for a Dairy of Distinction story. So let's say Ken and Marylin Umble and their three sons, Brandon, 10; Jordan, 7; and Scott, 3; live in a dairy bowl.

On the West side of the 250 acres the Umbles farm, motorists can start at the top of a long hill on Route 41 and see the fields and behind the barn all the way down to the traffic light at Atglen. No place to hide junk here.

And to the North, 5,000 feet of busy Route 372 brings the public right to the edge of a row of ancient maple trees and a spacious lawn that frames the milk house, bank barn, beautiful farm house and the newer home where grandparents Harold and Lena Umble live.

To the East, a series of industrial developments supply the car and truck drivers, all potential milk drinkers, to fill the roads to the North and to the West. To prove the point that a lot of consumers pass their farm, Marylin said they sold a truck load of cantaloupes from their lawn in about an hour earlier this summer.

With all the opportunity for consumers to get a good impression of the dairy farm where their milk and other dairy products originate, Glen Valley Farm is a perfect example of why the Dairy of Distinction farm beautification program was started in Pennsylvania five years ago.

The Umbles are modest people who do not want to sound like they have it made. Ken tells of their family's experience 20 years ago when they had kept frozen Ivanhoe seaman long past the death of the famous sir at Atlantic Breeders. The major obstacle would have been to get the cows bred with this outdated seamen. But their cows conceived and dropped several valuable calve. For some unknown reason these calves died in the hutches.

But even with problems, the Umbles have been successful with their Registered Holsteins. The latest herd average on 60 cows has been their best ever. The record reads, 23,328m 3.7% 863F 3.2% 741P.

Ken thinks farming has progressed to the point where the margin of error is closer than ever. He said you need to watch the little things to make sure you manage to make everything pay.

"We have been selecting pedigrees to get the young cows to make the big records," Ken said. "This is not because of index numbers, but because the commercial dairymen know that the sooner you get the heifers into production and the more milk they give, the better will be the cash flow."

While Ken has had heifers tha milked up to 28,000 lbs. of milk, he may give a heifer another chance if she only milks 16,000. "That's a lower culling point than many other farmers," Ken said. "But I tend to give them another chance if they are from a good cow family and have good type. If they are ugly, they will go right away."

Program Names Fifth Year Winners

Sixty-seven farms were added to the list of Dairy of Distinction winners across Pennsylvania this year. This totals 420 beautiful dairy farms so disignated since the program began four years ago.

Each year, the Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction Program undertakes the ambitious task of selecting the most attractive of the state's 13,700 dairy farms. Teams of judges working in 10 districts survey several hundred farms entered in the competition. These judges rate each farm for neatness, maintenance and roadside appearance. In the Pennsylvania program, the sanitarian for the farm's milk handler or cooperative is included on the team of judges.

The program is run on a very low budget and involves person who act as volunteers in each district.

Funding has come from both the American Dairy Association/ Dairy Council and the Pennsylvania Milk Promotion Program at the state level. Numerous business organizations have helped at the district level. In addition, Lancaster Farming provides a color portrait enlargement of each farm from negatives supplied by each district.

Each Dairy of Distinction receives a farm sign and a certificate from the Pennsylvania state program in addition to the color portrait from Lancaster Farming. These awards are presented as an incentive to keep farms beautiful and to help consumers to have a favorable impression of the source of their dairy products. In addition, the awards provide incentive for dairymen to tidy up their homesteads to meet the Dairy of Distinction standards.

On Wednesday, August 14, at 2:30 p.m. in the special events building at Ag Progress Days at Rock Springs, all present and past Dairy of Distinction farm family winners have been invited to meet for a special time of fellowship to get to know each other and to exchange ideas with other winners from across the state. At the same time, portraits of this year's win-

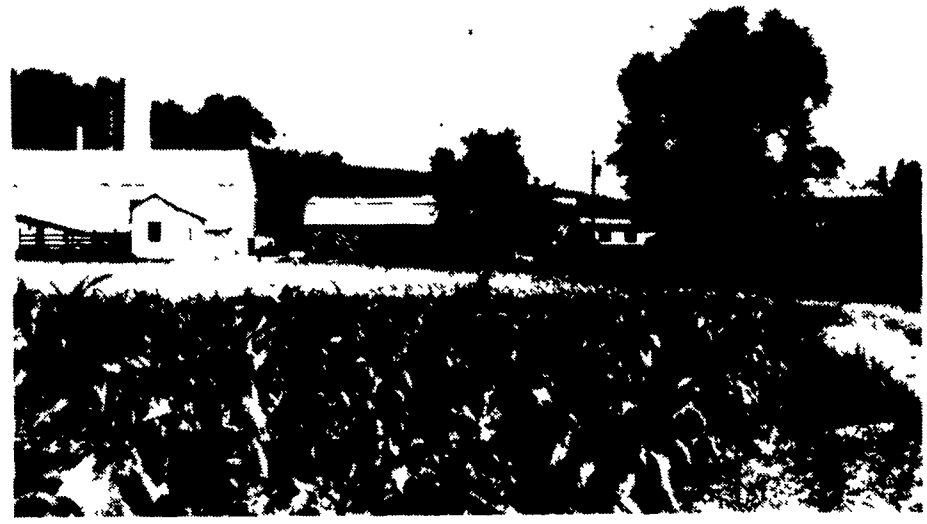
Adams County

At the Robert and Karen Cunningham farm, located near Gardners in Adams County, they farm 138 acres. They milk 40 Holsteins in a stantion barn with a pipeline milker. The herd average is 19,500. The farm has been in the family six years. The Cunninghams have three children, Keith, Kara, and Cheryl.

Beaver County



Robert and Evelyn Lauten farm 200 acres near Fombell in Beaver County. They milk 40 Holsteins and have 30 heifers and calves. The farm was purchased in 1934. They milk with pipeline in a tie stall barn.

Bedford County

Farming has gone "pushbutton," for Blair L. Bennett, from Sunrise Farm in Everett, Bedford Co. Together with wife Mary Jane and sons Steven Blair Bennett, 29, and Brian Lee Bennett, 26, Blair farms 400 tillable acres and raises 105 head of grade Holstein and 100 heifers and calves. Milking is 5:15 p.m. and 6 a.m. from a California-style milking parlor to a pipeline. Herd averages are 17,162 lbs milk, 629f, 547p. The Bennetts raise their own alfalfa (150 acres) and corn (250 acres) and about 75 acres of orchard grass. They have been using a TMR supplied by Young Minerals Co. for seven years. "About six or seven farms around here once milked," said Blair. "But there's only one now. Everything is pushbutton," he said, which reduces the hours spent feeding and doing other farm chores. He is culling the lower producing cows now on the farm.

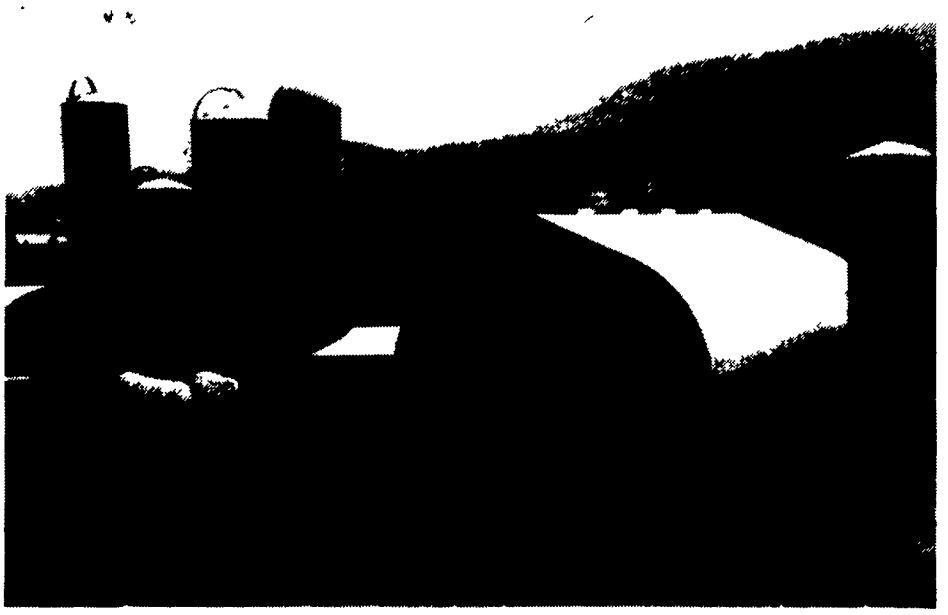
Bedford County

Dal-Bar is the prefix for a farm operated by Dale and Barbara Baker in New Enterprise, Bedford Co. The Bakers raise 60 head of registered and grade Holsteins and 60 replacement stock. Milking, at 4:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., is from a tiestall to a milking pipeline. Herd average, improved using a TMR provided by Ed Rissler, is approximately 19,000 pounds. The Bakers purchased the farm in 1976, and the farm has been in the family almost 50 years. They have a son, Mark, 13, "who helps with everything on the farm," said Barbara.



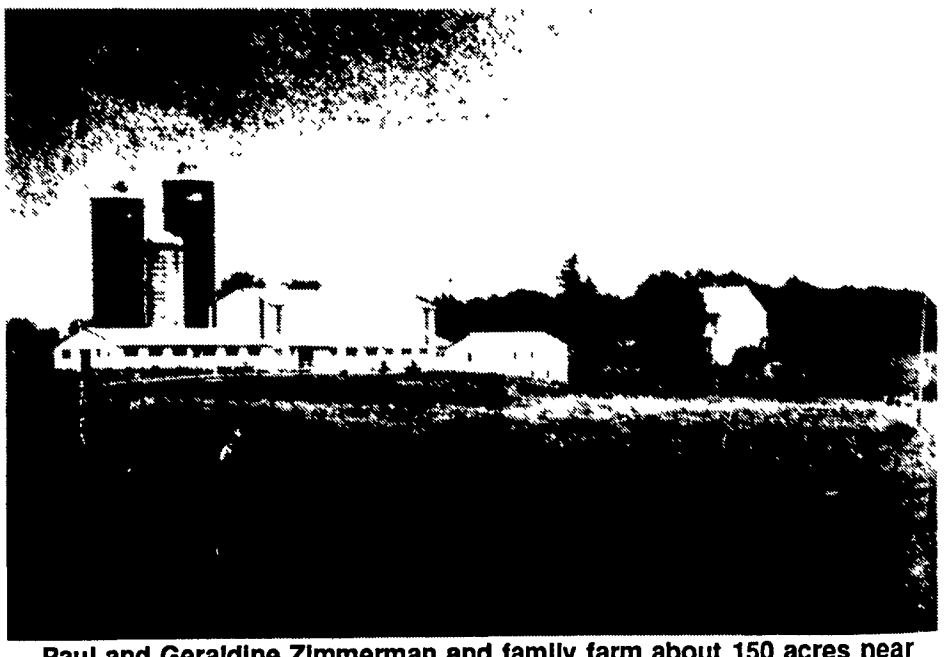
This 240-acre (200 tillable) Dairy of Distinction Farm, Hickory Hollow Farms, is operated by Herbert Miller and wife Edna, in addition to son Norman, 39 and his wife Linda. The farm maintains 85 head of registered and grade Holsteins in addition to 80 young stock. A milking parlor to pipeline is used at 4 a.m. and 4 p.m. Herd average is 17,500 pounds and 700f. Hickory Hollow raises corn and alfalfa and has been on a TMR for 15 years. The farm has been in the family for 46 years. Formerly, the Millers operated a custom silo business for 31 years.

Berks County

Martin and Missy Moyer farm 125 acres near Womelsdorf in Berks County. They have 145 Holsteins, and their 45 milk cows average over 20,600 lbs. of milk. The farm was purchased by the family in 1974. Martin and Missy have four children, Jeffrey, 9; Amy, 8; Kristen, 3; and Sarah, 19mo.

Charles and Linda Zimmerman farm 750 acres near Mohersville in Berks County. They milk 55 Holsteins in a tie stall operation with pipeline milker. Herd average milk production is about 18,000lbs. With young stock the herd numbers 180 head. The Zimmermans have three children, Charlie 12; Krissi 11; and Rachael, 8.

Ralph and Crystal Moyer have the dairy operatio at Mor-Dale Farms located near Myerstown in Berks County. They milk 110 Registered Holsteins and have 120 heifers and calves. The herd average is 19,998m 751f 641p. They milk in a Double 6, free stall set-up. The Moyers were originally from Schuylkill County and moved here 25 years ago. They have three children, Alicia, Jesicia and Kyle.



Paul and Geraldine Zimmerman and family farm about 150 acres near Bernville in Berks County. They milk 70 Holstein cows and have an additional 55 heifers and calves. The herd average is 20,200 lbs. of milk and they try to stay efficient. The Zimmerman's have five children, Lucille, 13; Roy, 11; Dwight, 8; Randal, 5; and Eric, 1.

Ken thinks index numbers do take away from cow families because there are some outstanding cows that will never have sons used in AI because they don't have the numbers. But He's not against index numbers.

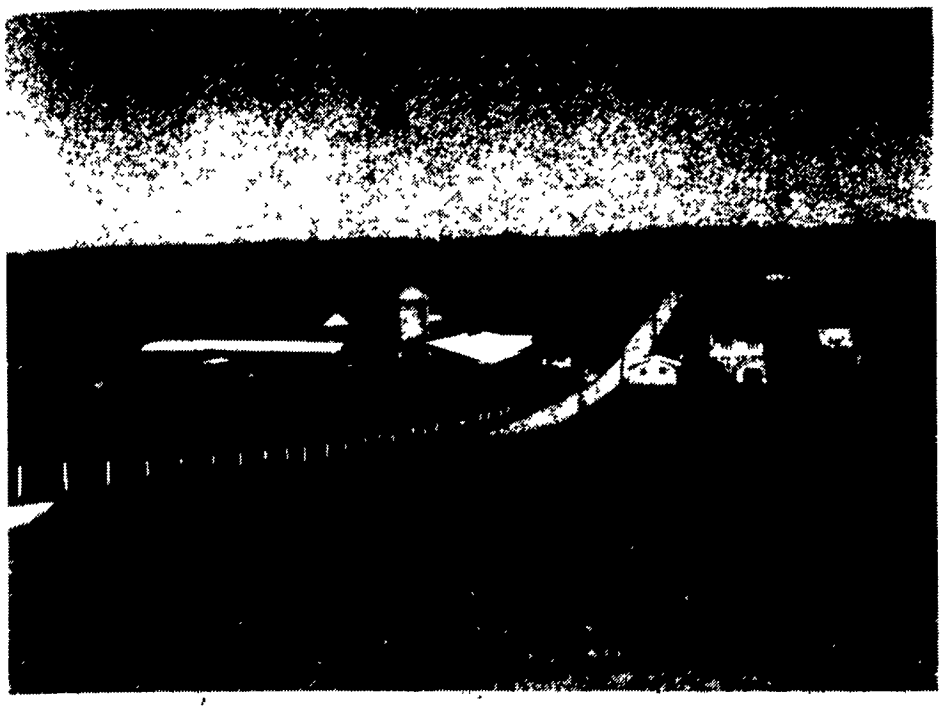
"Someone is always going to rate cattle according to some set of numbers,"Ken said. "So, with the way farming is, you might as well get on the band wagon."

He would like to see the index numbers place more emphasis on the cows. "If you have a daughter of a high index sire out of a poor cow family, she may be as valuable as a daughter of an average or sample bull in a good cow family, Ken said.

Rather than expansion, the Umbles think more in terms of diversification. They are part of a sire proving group and own several animals with other dairymen that they hope will produce profitable offspring.

"In ten years, I'll be 45 years old," Ken said. "I haven't thought much about what my goals are for the future. But I feel I'll still have the reigns on the farm. And we'll see if the boys are interested in farming. Hopefully the farm will be available to them if they are interested.

Blair County



Since going to a TMR four years ago, the Bush Valley Farm has seen the herd average milking pounds shoot from 18,000 to 21,000, said Debra Bush, who farms with her husband, Kenneth. The farm, which comprises about 170 acres, includes 52 head of registered and grade Holstein with 56 young stock. Milking takes place at 4:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. using a 90-pen freestall with pipeline. Herd average is 21,058. The farm raises corn, alfalfa, barley, and oats and has been in the family about 45 years. "Cleanliness is important to us," said Debra. "We're pretty meticulous."

Donald and and son Alan Gearhart combined their first names to come up with the dairy "Aldon Acres," in Martinsburg, Blair Co. Gearhart said they milk 70 registered Holstein at 6:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. using a tiestall to a milking pipeline. The farm includes about 70 replacement heifers and calves. Hered average is 16,900 lbs. They raise 200 acres of corn and alfalfa for the cattle. Together with wife Donna, Gearhart has help from son Alan, 39 and his wife Lisa, and children Melissa, 10; Laura, 7; and Beth, 4. "It's a little Lancaster County up here," said Donald. "The soils are a lot like Lancaster, with a good deal of limestone." The Gearharts also raise 300 head of hogs which they sell at a local buying station.

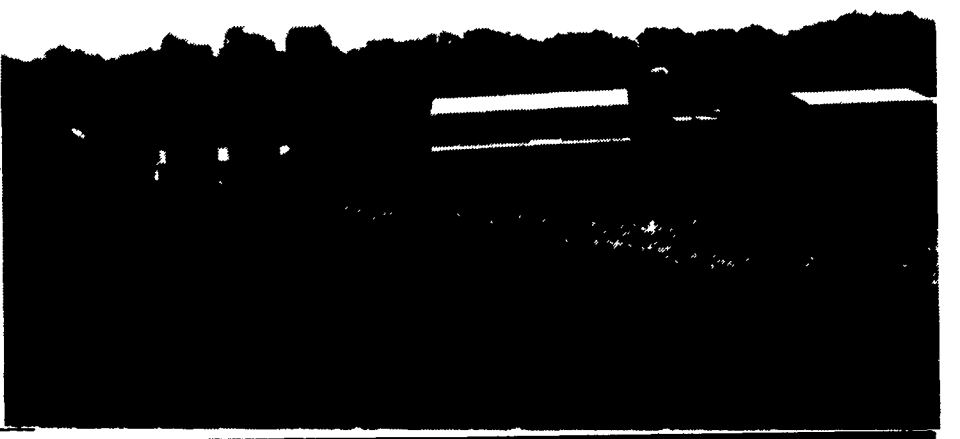
About 210 tillable acres comprise the farm owned by Sheldon F. and Doris L. Gearhart in Hollidaysburg, Blair Co. Shel-Dor Farm maintains 55 head of registered Holstein, in addition to 55 head of young stock. The farm uses a tie stall and dumping station at 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. The Dairy of Distinction farm "is nice when people drive by," said Sheldon. "We let the kids walk up to cows and ask questions about the farm. The visitors are cooperative." The diversified farm also raises vegetables, registered Suffolk sheep, chickens, and turkeys which "gives kids a great variety of animals to look at, other than cows," said Sheldon. Sheldon's son Thomas, 32, and daughter-in-law Sherry, 32, and their kids Thomas, Jr., Shelly, Jordan, and Sara help with the farm. Also, Sheldon's daughters Jane, 39 and Mary, 36 also help. "There're only four dairy farms in the Hollidaysburg school district, and it's a big district!" said Sheldon.

James Byler operates Country Haven Farm, Martinsburg, Blair Co. He raises about 150 acres of corn and alfalfa for a farm owned by Dale Hoover. Byler milks 54 cows and maintains 10 replacement heifers. Milking is 5 a.m. and 4 p.m. from a double-3 milking parlor. The first five months show a herd average of 20,548 pounds. The farm, in the family for 32 years, is operated by Byler and wife Debra with sons Benji, 12 and Aaron, 8. James Byler said he uses a "poor man's TMR," mixing the grain and corn silage and haylage, which a conveyor moves into the feeder. The milking parlor, which speeds up daily mixing, was installed in 1973, a 6-surge stall, 3 on a side. The cows can be loaded in and out individually — when done milking, they can get out, and another cow can take its place. The milking speed is vastly improved.



Roger and Pamela Stock operate this 150-acre Fair Valley Farm in Martinsburg, Blair Co. They have 10 registered Holstein and the remainder grade, milking 80 cows with 80 replacement heifers and calves. The Stocks use a free stall with milking pipeline at 5:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Herd average is about 17,000 pounds and they use a TMR provided by Martinsburg Milling. They rent the farm and have purchased the cows and equipment, with son Roger, 14 and daughter Tracey, 13. Pamela said they also raise about 200 feeder hogs which they sell on the open market.

Ron and Kathryn Kline have the second Dairy of Distinction award on their Y-Run Farms. The first year of the program in 1987, the home place was given the award and now the farm they purchased three years ago has received the award. The Klines have 225 Holsteins and the herd average is 22,000 lbs. of milk. They moved from Lancaster County 15 years ago. Sons Glenn and Gary are also in the operation, and Glenn and his wife Laurie have two children, Cortney, 4; and Chad, 16 mo.

Alba Vale Farms is owned by Frank and Joey Herman and sons Al and Mike. It is located near Canton in Bradford County. They farm 300 acres and have 110 registered Holsteins. The herd average is 20,100m 735f 635p. They try to grow all their own forages and use rotational grazing in summer. The farm is in the family since 1960.

Robert Thompson, Jr., in partnership with son Keith, farm about 500 acres in Bradford County. Their 130 registered Holsteins average 19,000m 725f. They house their cows in free stalls and milk in a Double 6 Herringbone milking parlor. They purchased the farm in 1955.

The Champdale Farm of Thomas and Barbara Champluvier and son Allan is located near Laceyville in Bradford County. Their herd of 110 Holsteins averages 20,000 lbs. of milk and are milked in comfort stalls with a pipeline milker. The Champluvier family goes back four generations when great grandfather came to this country from France and great grandmother came from Belgium.

Cambria County

All registered Holsteins and Jerseys comprise the dairy of distinction farm, Laurate Holstein and Jersey Keystone Meadows, by Wendell and David Myers in Summerhill, Cambria Co. The 225-acre farm includes 85 milking cows and 105 young stock. A TMR program, administered by Youngs Minerals, brought the milking pounds average from 17,500 to 20,900 — a 3,000-pound gain. Milking takes place at 4 a.m. and 3 p.m. from a freestall and milking parlor to a pipeline. Herd averages are 20,900 lbs., 760f, and 660p. Corn, alfalfa, mixed hay, and oats also go into the feeding program. The farm has been in the family more than 100 years.

We salute all dairy farmers statewide for their dedication in producing milk. We want to especially recognize Lebanon County dairy producers for having the top county DHIA average in the state for the last two years. We are pleased to have played a role in this production record.

- 5 of the top 6 (83%) and 13 of the top 23 (56%) Lebanon DHIA herds use Mark Hershey's program (source: March 1991 DHIA list).
- Dairy programs are built around basic feeding concepts, not expensive feed additives
- High production plus low input costs increases profits.
- Dairy programs feature Steam-Cooked Soybeans.
- One-location, controlled processing gives beans consistently high quality.

Mark Hershey steam-cooked soybeans are available statewide from many feed mills and are producing outstanding results for top herds in many counties Their addition to rations improves palatability of feeds while providing an economical source of oil in the diet, a necessity for high peak production and performance.

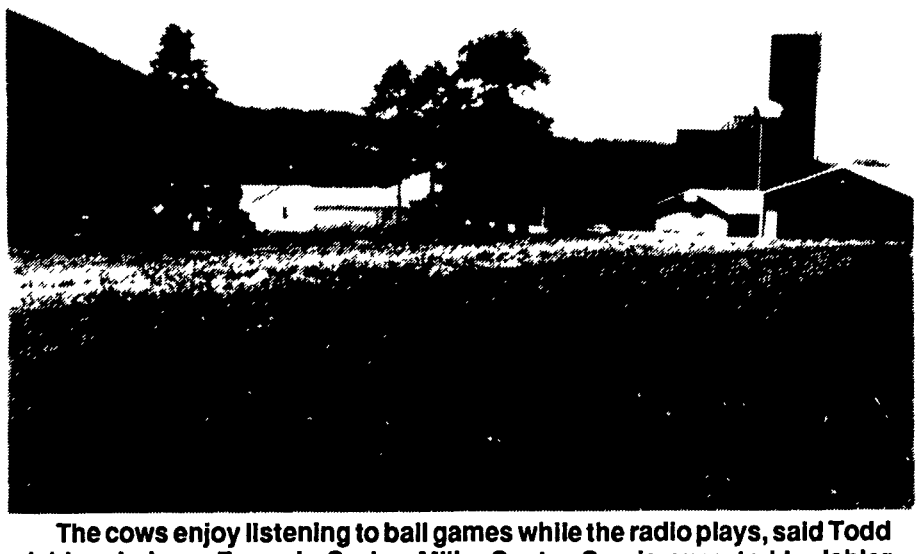
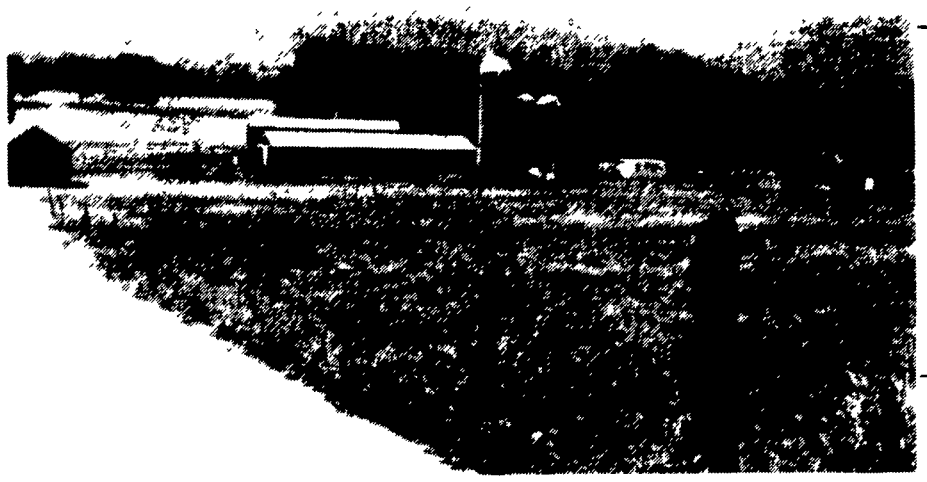
Centre County

With many dairy farms going out of business because of the milk prices, this farm stands alone. But not because of the milk prices, but because it truly is the only operating dairy farm in the borough, according to Lewis E. Corman, who operates Park Road Farms in Millheim, Centre Co. They milk a total of 49 cows with 38 replacement heifers and calves. Milking is from a tiestall to a pipeline at 5 a.m. and 5 p.m. Corman said he raises most of the crops needed, and purchases some shelled corn and a couple loads of hay every year. The farm, operated by Lewis and son Lewis E. Corman III, 18, has been in the family since 1906.



The cows enjoy listening to ball games while the radio plays, said Todd Ishler. Ja-Lene Farm, in Spring Mills, Centre Co., is operated by Ishler and wife Virginia. They milk 75 head of registered Holstein and maintain about 85 young stock. The milking, at 5:15 a.m. and 4:15 p.m., is from a tiestall to a milking pipeline for a total herd average of 22,000 pounds. The preferred feed is the high moisture corn and haylage. The farm has been in the family 23 years.



Franlo-Alken Farm in Bellefonte is operated by Frank Nolan with wife Sharlene. They milk about 46 head of Holstein from a tiestall with milking pipeline. The Nolans also maintain about 50 young stock. The herd average is 21,300 pounds of milk. The farm has been in the family for 40 years. Nolan farms about 250 tillable acres, and grows corn, oats, soybean, and alfalfa for the herd. The remainder of corn not used is sold in the open market.

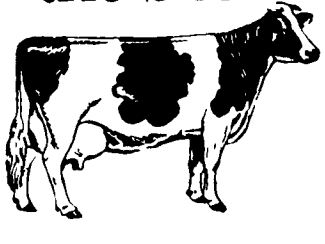
This 24' Ruffneck from M.H. Eby is an investment in quality.

Your cows deserve the best



A new aluminum trailer, like this one from E.M. Eby, Inc., looks bright and clean when it comes from the factory. The surprising thing is it stays bright and clean for years — with very little maintenance.

Aluminum offers another big advantage over conventional wood and steel trailer construction. It's lighter — as much as 35% lighter.

Proof of durability for Eby trailers is their resale value. At five years old, many sell for as much as 90% of their original price.

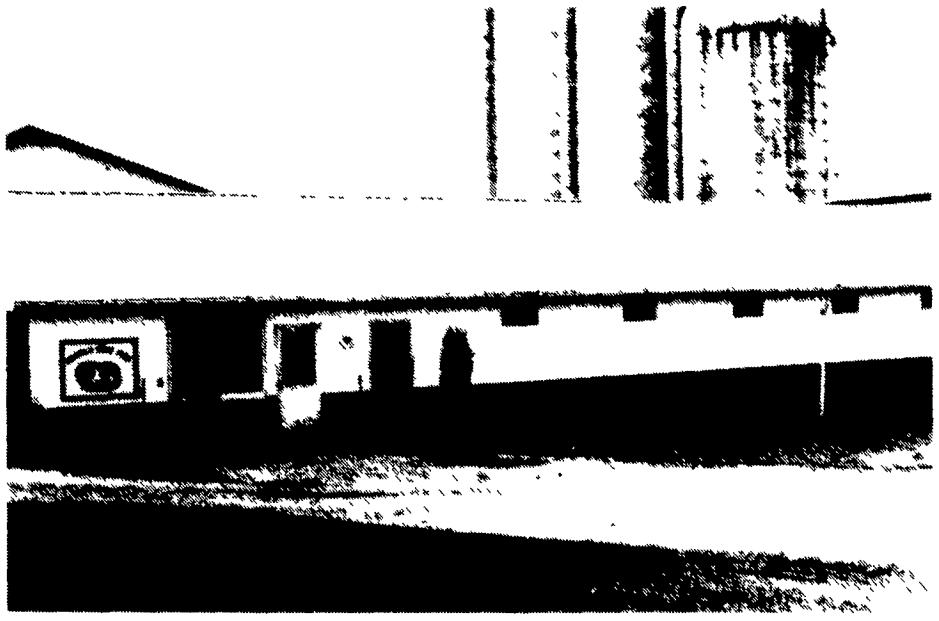
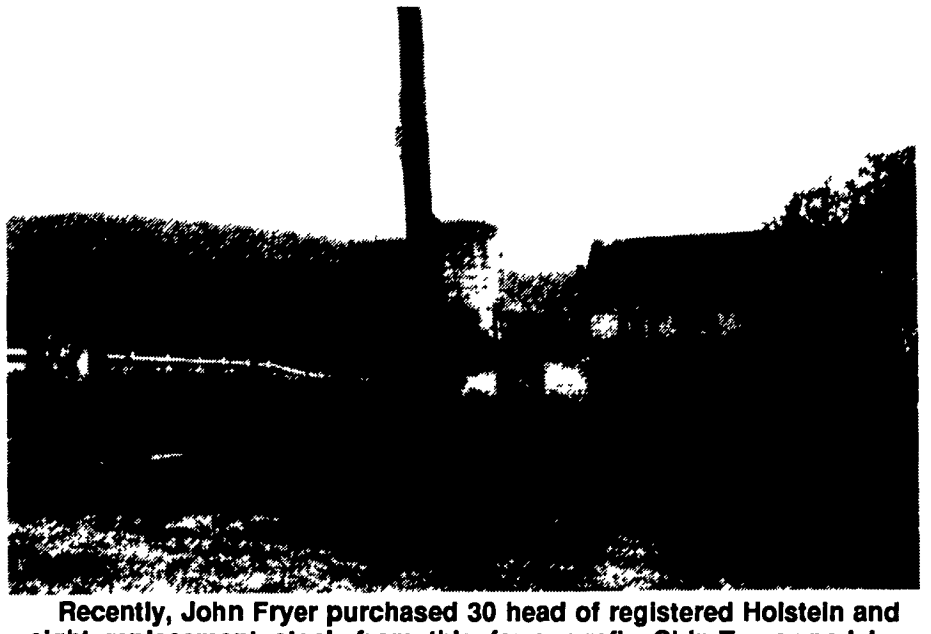
Clarion County



One of the few farms that manages successfully to grow enough alfalfa to produce adequate haylage for the cattle, Griebel's Dairy Farm in Lucinda, Clarion Co., has been in operation for more than 100 years. "We've been very successful with raising alfalfa. We direct-seed it and have had good luck doing it," said Joseph M. Griebel, Jr. Griebel, together with wife Clara and two sons — Rick, 27 and Allen, 24 — manage about 700 acres and raise 170 head of Holstein with 30 young stock. They milk at 3 a.m. and 3 p.m. every day from a double 8 herring bone milking parlor and average 18,000 pounds of milk. The Griebels feed nutrient pellets to topdress and the computer does much of the corn feeding.

Clinton County



Recently, John Fryer purchased 30 head of registered Holstein and eight replacement stock from this farm, prefix Chin-Tu, owned by Anthony and Caroline Graine in Mill Hall, Clinton Co. Fryer milks at 4 p.m. and 5:30 a.m. from a tie stall to a milking pipeline. Fryer purchases feed from the Graines. The farm has been in the family 18 years. The cows comprise a good herd, said Fryer. "The emphasis will be on making sure there are really good pedigrees on the cows," he said.

AMINOTEK. FOR RECORD BREAKING PERFORMANCE.

NEW FROM MASTER MIX®.
COMING TO A DEALER NEAR YOU.

AminoTek™ feeds are a blend of high-qaulity proteins which have complementary amino acid profiles. The AminoTek patented process is then applied to this blend, resulting in significantly increased levels of absorbable bypass protein and amino acids.

Central Soya research shows that cows fed AminoTek had a summit peak which was over 8 pounds higher than the peak of cows fed conventional protein feeds. Besides the obvious economic advantage which comes from increased milk production, other economic advantages may include improved milk composition and breeding performance.

See your Master Mix dealer for the AminoTek feed that's right for your herd.

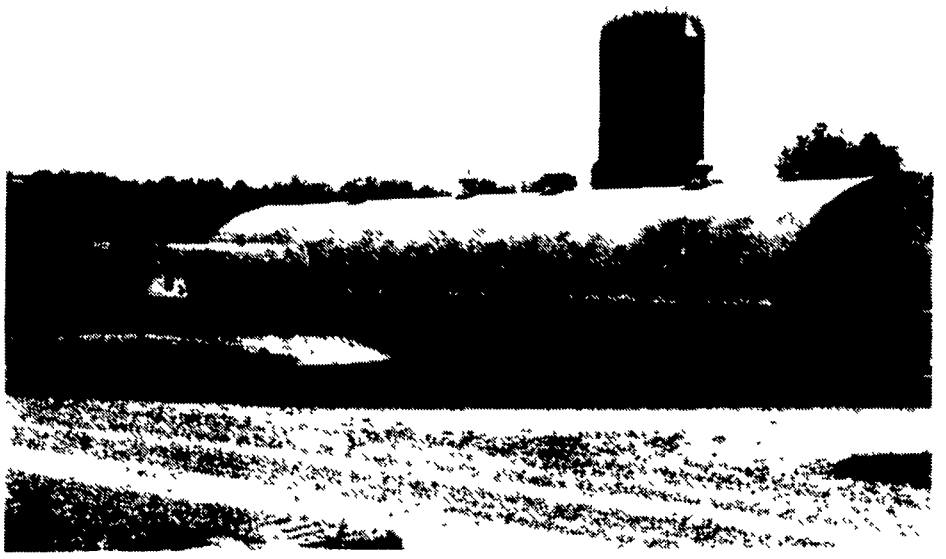
Bly Valley Farm is located near Titusville in Crawford County. Roger and Mary Bly and their two children, Alan and Beth, farm 250 acres. The herd was sold two years ago and it is now being rebuilt. They have 24 registered Holsteins that average 18,000 lbs. of milk. The farm has been in the family since 1937.



Brown's Hill owned and rented farms covers 745 acres. George Brown bought the home farm in 1951. Brown gives a lot of credit to Samuel Lucas, his employee for more than 20 years. "I probably would not be milking cows if it were not for Sam," Lucas Said. "It's been a special relationship."

Lucas' three sons also work on the farm. Brown's Hill has 120 head of Holsteins. They milk with a pipeline milker in inverted V stalls.

Curtis and Barb Greenawalt and son Todd farm 300 acres near Linesville in Crawford County. They milk 50 Holsteins and have 50 heifers and calves. The herd average is 21,000 lbs. of milk. They are the third generation of their family to live on the farm.

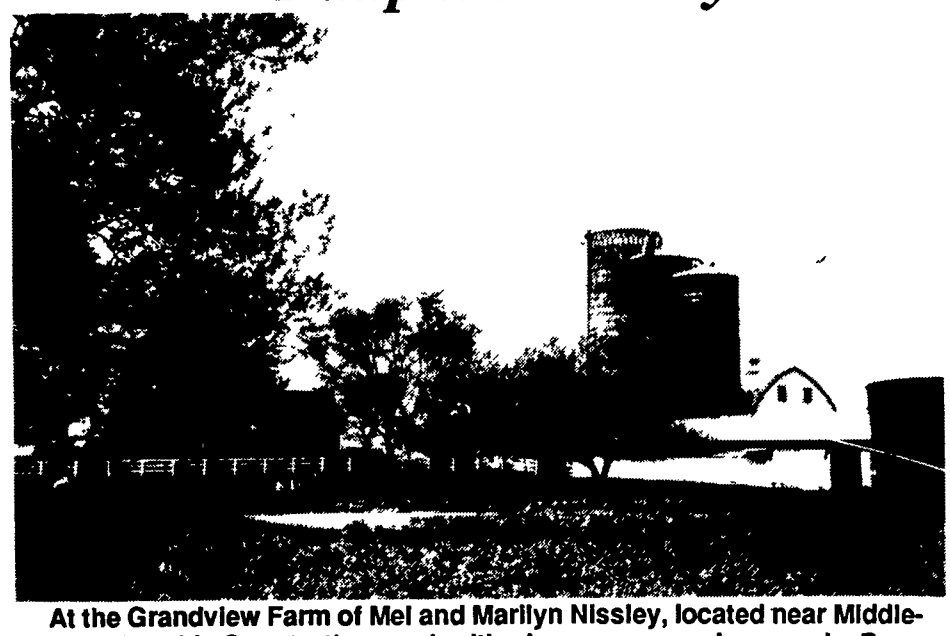
The family farming operation of Curtis and Ann Day is located near Shippensburg in Cumberland County. They have 120 acres and milk a herd of registered Holsteins with 58 milk cows and 38 replacement heifers. The herd average is 21,100m, 789f, 706p. The herd is classified with BAA 104.5 with four excellent and 22 very good cows in the barn. The Days, along with Curtis' parents Roger and Lucille and their children Matthew,13; David, 11 and Sarah, 8; moved from Maryland two years ago. The herd prefix is Tri-Day.

Dauphin County



At the Grandview Farm of Mel and Marilyn Nissley, located near Middletown in Dauphin County, they work with a lease program drawn up by Penn State. The Nissleys do the field work and Donald Groff is in charge of the dairy operation. They started this arrangement two years ago and it is working out well. They have 75 cows plus the young stock. The herd average is 17,000 lbs. of milk, and they farm 250 acres. The Nissleys have four children, Jeff, 12; Jason, 9; Renee, 7; and Jeremey, 3.

Dauphin County

Bruce and Margret Zell have owned the Will-Adele Farm located near Hummelstown in Dauphin County for 46 years. Their son Larry is now taking over the farm where they have 200 head of Holsteins. They milk 85 cows in a double six harringbone milking parlor. In addition, they raise their bull calves for beef and have a grain drying operation. The Zells farm 450 acres.

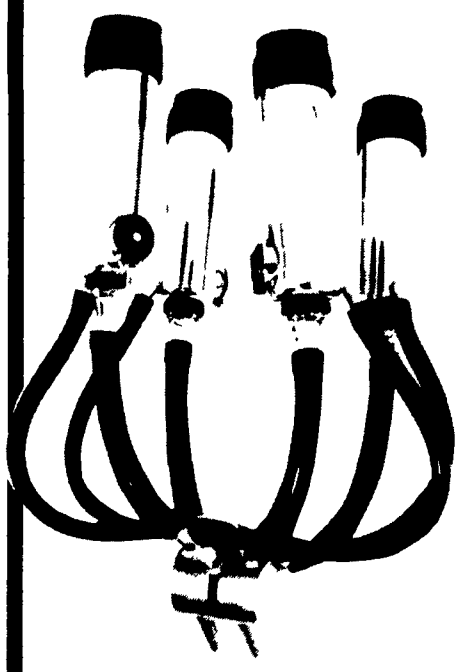
WESTFALIA

THE WESTFALIA BIO-MILKER
It's Something Else!



Would Fast Milking, Good Clean Milk Out, Minimal Liner Slip And Reduced Udder Stress Benefit Your Cow's Performance?

WHO IS THE PATENTED BIO-MILKER FOR?

Any Dairyman Concerned With Both Udder Health And Milking Efficiency.

The Bio-Milker features a synchronized automatic air-inlet valve just under the teat tip. Air enters only during the release phase. A perfectly timed air burst quickly moves the milk away from the teat. This reduces the risk of infection by limiting teat impacts. Also, vacuum is utilized to provide a biologically desired pressure release of teat tissue. Westfalia's Bio-Milker is the ultimate in milking quality.

Ron and Linda Bem farm 225 acres in Erie County near Union City. Both Ron and Linda work off the farm too, so they are very busy people. Their 70 head of Holsteins average about 18,000 lbs. of milk. The Bems started farming 10 years ago. They have three children Ryan, 14; Kristen, 6 and Megan, 3.

Lawrence Popovich farms the place that has been in the family for more than 50 years. He is located near Union City in Erie County. He has 60 head of Holsteins and farms 175 acres.

Ronald and Carolyn Yaple farm 90 acres near Waterford in Erie County. They milk 30 Holsteins and have 25 heifers and calves. They especially like the automatic take-off on their milking equipment and they are changing from stantions to tie stalls to provide more freedom for their cows. The Yaples have two children, Brian and Amy. Dad, Lawrence and nephew, Steve also help on the farm.

MEET THE CHALLENGE

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Governor's Office

PROCLAMATION

DAIRY OF DISTINCTION WEEK
August 11 - 17, 1991

Pennsylvania's dairy industry is the forerunner of our agricultural industry, annually employing nearly 80,000 people in dairy production, processing and marketing as well as other related fields. Our 13,000 dairy farms produced 9.9 billion pounds of milk last year, contributing 6.7 percent of the nation's supply.

Long hours and hard work are vital to Pennsylvania's continued ranking among the nation's five leading dairy states. A measure of a dairy farmer's pride is reflected in his farm and the quality of its products.

Each year the Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction Program recognizes the state's most attractive dairy farms. Each year, teams of judges survey farms entered in the competition and rate them for neatness, maintenance and roadside appearance.

This year, 87 dairy farms will join the Dairies of Distinction Honor Roll, bringing to 420 the number of farms honored since the program began in Pennsylvania five years ago.

Recognizing the outstanding dedication and commitment of our state's dairy farmers, I, Robert P. Casey, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby proclaim August 11 - 17, 1991, as DAIRY OF DISTINCTION WEEK in Pennsylvania. I urge all Pennsylvanians to salute the hard work of our dairy farmers as they produce an abundance of fresh wholesome milk, our state's official beverage. We appreciate the scenic beauty of our dairy farms and the quality of the products they provide.

GIVEN under my hand and the Seal of the Governor, at the City of Harrisburg, this twenty-sixth day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ninety-one, and of the Commonwealth the two hundred and sixteenth.

Robert P. Casey

President Baker Brings Greetings To Pennsylvania Winners

We have had another banner year for Dairy of Distinction. As the years go by I keep thinking "when will we come to the end of farms that will score 90 or better?" But districts respond back that they had 12 or 14 farms score 90, and they can only give out 10 signs. So, I again encourage farmers that did not win to apply again.

To all dairy farmers, I say, "clean and neat farms sell milk!"

Dairy of Distinction has been funded each year in Pennsylvania by American Dairy Association and Dairy Council Inc., and Pa. Milk Promotion Program. Many others have helped with support at the local level.

Again I thank all involved and hope you will continue as you have in the past. See you at Ag Progress Day. God Bless You All.

Dan Baker
President, Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction

Fayette County

The Allens are the seventh generation of their family to live on this Dairy of Distinction farm. The farm purchased in the 1800s is located near Smock in Fayette County. They have 150 Holsteins and milk in a free-stall, milking parlor set up. The family members include Richard and Sandy and children Courtney, 13; Taylor, 12 and Shelby, 9. The children have 4-H projects.

Faith Dairy Farm, located near Mt. Pleasant in Fayette County, is surrounded by homes and small shopping centers. But William and Joyce Faith have fit their farming operation nicely into their surroundings. They farm 675 acres and have about 160 Holsteins. The farm is in the family 101 years. William, William Jr. and Doug Summy run the operation. Joyce has opened a consignment resale store in a house trailer on the farm. In addition to William Jr., the Faiths have four other children, David, Shelly, Susan Summy and Ellen Marks.

Franklin County

With the help of three full-time employees, Bill and Nancy Barkman farm 450 acres near Chambersburg in Franklin County. They milk 150 Holsteins and have 120 head of young stock. The farm was purchased in the early 1940s. The Barkmans have four children, Wendy, 12; Scott, 7; Travis, 3; and Jason, 9mo.

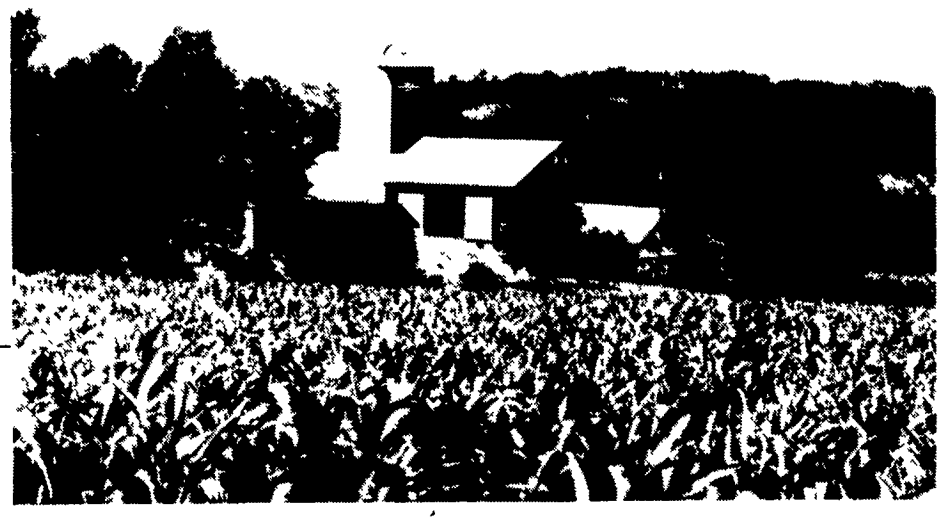
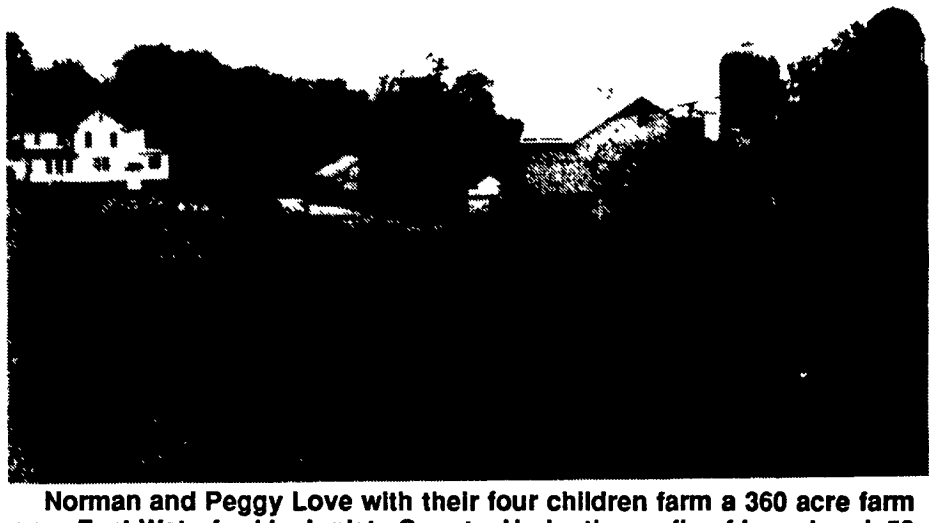
Four generations of the Rising family have lived on their farm that was purchased in 1865. Robert and son John farm 106 acres and have about 80 head of Holsteins. The herd average is 18,000 lbs. of milk. The keep their cows on a feed lot and milk in a stantion barn.



Juniata County



Norman and Peggy Love with their four children farm a 360 acre farm near East Waterford in Juniata County. Under the prefix of Love-Land, 50 registered Holsteins are milked with an 18,700m average. The Loves have another 40 head of young stock. The farm has been in the family for three generations. The children are credited with their help to keep the homestead looking good. Their names are Clifford, Daniel, Joseph, and Jennie.

Sam Shearer came to work for George and Anna Ruthy Stewart right out of high school and over the years, the Shearers and the Stewarts have become like family. Now Sam's son Randy is in the operation too. They farm 118 acres and feed the crops to the Holstein dairy herd of 46 cows and 46 heifers. The herd milk production average is 20,000 lbs. Known as the San-Run Farm, this Dairy of Distinction is located in Juniata County near Port Royal.

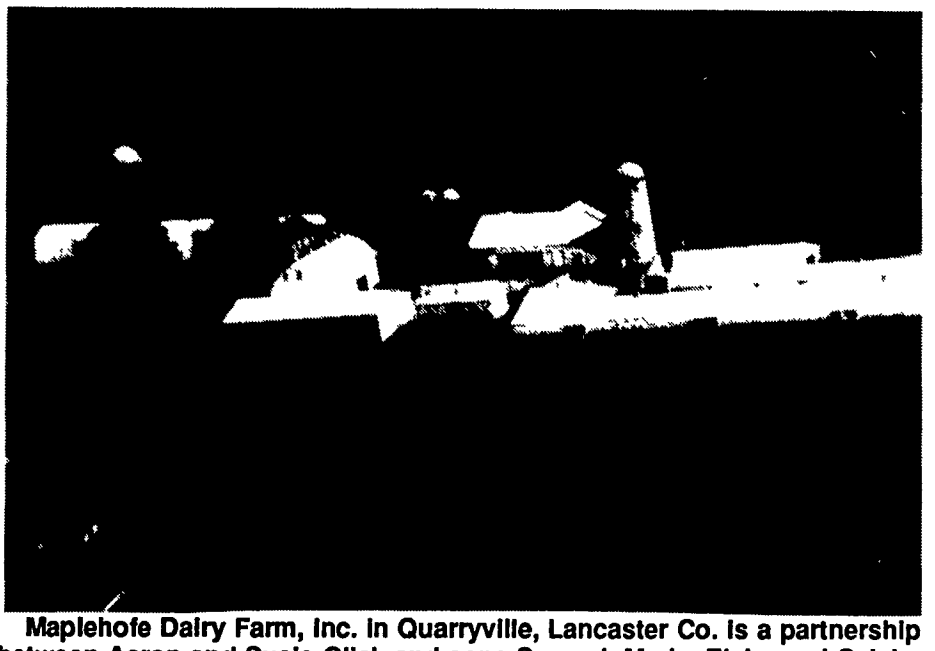
Dairy of Distinction

Lancaster County

"If it wasn't for my children, I wouldn't be farming," said Kenneth L. Balmer, who operates a 328-acre dairy farm in Elizabethtown, Lancaster Co. He believes the honor of Dairy of Distinction also belongs to his children, who were there when he needed them most after a heart surgery three years ago. The family includes wife Gladys and children Kevin, 21; Sheila, 18; Darryl, 16; and Brenda, 14. Balmer milks 100 graded Holstein with 100 replacement stock. The farm milks at 5 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. from a tiestall using a milking pipeline. Balmer grows his own feed, including alfalfa, corn, barley, and soybeans, and raises wheat (five acres) and green peas (25 acres) as cash crops. Using a TMR system administered by the Lancaster Veterinary Association in March 1990, the herd average went from 16,700 pounds to 20,553 pounds.



Maplehofe Dairy Farm, Inc. in Quarryville, Lancaster Co. is a partnership between Aaron and Susie Glick and sons Samuel, Merle, Elvin, and Calvin. Others who help with the farm include Samuel's son Doug and Samuel's daughters Denise and Dawn. The operation is composed of three farms, which total 470 acres, and they rent an additional farm. They milk about 100 registered and grade Holstein at 4:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. through a stanchion barn to pipeline. Herd average is 19,500 pounds, and the farm raises its own corn, alfalfa, and soybeans. They have a farm store at the end of the lane.

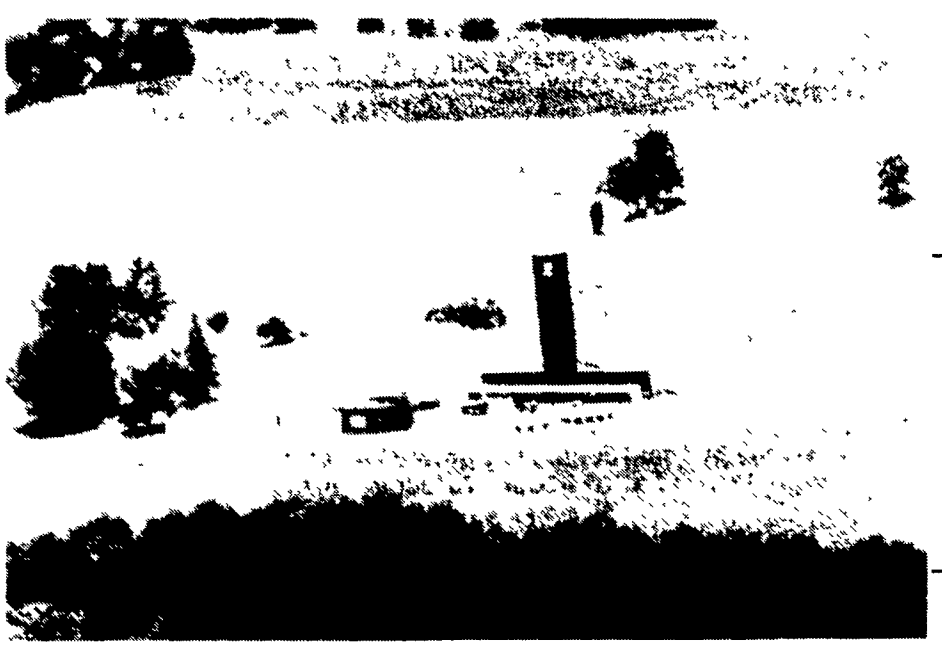
Donald Hershey and son Larry, 31, maintain this 250-acre Hershvale Farm in Manheim, Lancaster Co. The father/son team milk 80 head of registered Holstein and have an additional 70 head of replacement stock. Milking times are 5 a.m. and 5 p.m. from a stall barn to milking pipeline, which the Hersheys installed 10 years ago. Herd average is about 18,000 pounds, and they raise all their own crops, including corn, 60 acres of alfalfa, 10 acres of timothy hay, 40 acres of barley, and the rest in soybeans. They've been on a TMR for six years.

John Rohrer farms between a huge industrial park and many Amish neighbors — but it's all dairy for the Rohrer Homestead. Operator John Rohrer farms 175 acres of rented ground and raises grade Holstein (48 milking and 35 replacement heifers and calves). Rohrer milks at 5:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. from a tie stall to a milking pipeline, and raises his own corn, soybeans, wheat, and alfalfa. The farm has been in the family 200 years and seven generations, and is operated by Rohrer and sister Jean Diener together with Jean's husband, Andrew. Rohrer's wife Bonnie helps on the farm with their children Ryan, 15; Jason, 10; Monica, 13; and Jessica, 12.



Titus B. Stoner operates this 430-acre dairy farm of registered Holstein, Stonerdale Holsteins, in Landisville, Lancaster Co. The Stoners milk 85 cows at 4:15 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. using a tie stall and milking pipeline. The herd average is about 19,500 pounds. Titus, together with sons Donald, 39 and David, 28, raise their own crops, including corn, alfalfa, and soybeans, and use a TMR. The farm has been in the family for more than 200 years.

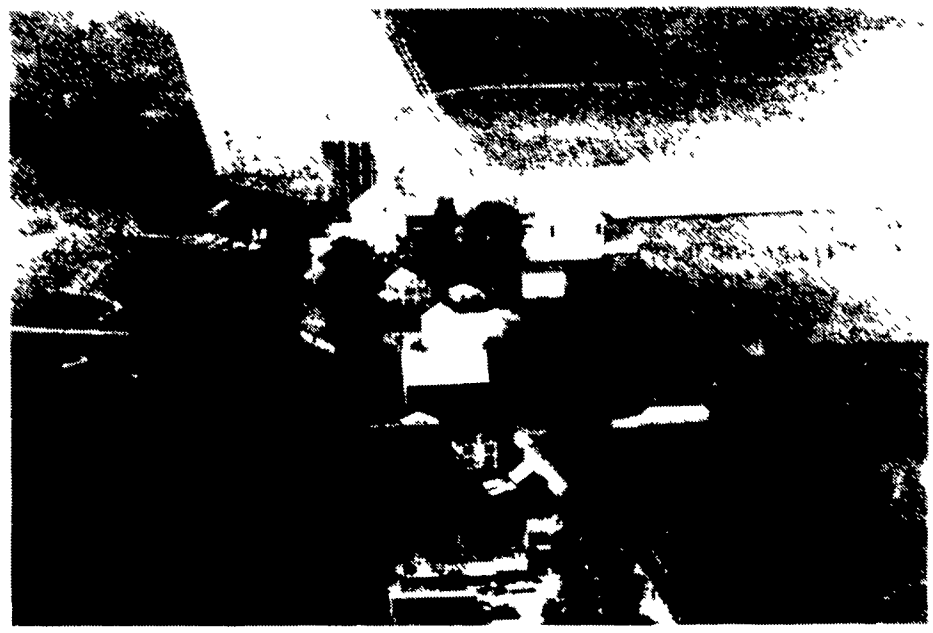
Robert and Bonnie Wentworth recently moved from Massachusetts, and work jointly with the neighbors in Quarryville, Lancaster Co., to farm the ground. "We have more time to spend on the cows every day and do a better job," said Robert, who maintains about 154 (110 tillable) acres. One thing the farm does differently — it raises all registered Ayrshires. Wentworth Farm milks 55 Ayrshires and 40 young stock. Milking times are 6:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. from a tiestall with milking pipeline. Herd average is 14,000 pounds. The tradition of raising Ayrshires goes way back to his grandfather, in Amherst, Mass., who began raising Ayrhisres in 1900. Robert farms with his wife Bonnie and is grateful for the help from neighbors Clair and Scott Mull, who operate a 100-head Holstein dairy farm of their own. "We're grateful to have their help, and this award is for them, too," said Robert.



Mostly grade Holstein (about 60 cows) in addition to 70 young stock, including bulls, comprise the John S. Zimmerman farm in East Earl, Lancaster Co. The herd is milked at 5 a.m. and 5 p.m. from a comfort stall to a milking pipeline. The latest herd averages are 21,922 lbs, 877f, 673p. John raises corn, alfalfa, and soybeans and uses a TMR program. The farm is operated by John with wife, Cheryl and children, including Chris, 19; Patrick, 16; Andrew, 12; and Nicole, 9, and has been in the family 125 years. "We run a family farm and don't hire outside help," said John. They grow 80 acres of corn, 45 of alfalfa, and 50 of beans for a total of about 175 acres tillable.

The Gehman family farm the Marwell Dairy Farm located near Coopersburg in Lehigh County. Robert and Adeline and Barry and Sharon and Robert Jr. farm 1000 acres and milk 68 Holsteins that average 17,860m 682f 582p. They milk in a 40 stantion barn with pipeline milker. In addition to the dairy operation, they raise hogs and have 200 acres of ornmental squash and punkins. The farm was purchased in 1959. Barry and Sharon have three children, Wendell, 8; Jennifer 6; and Brent, 2.

James and Dolores Keller and children, Bryce, 21; Blain 20; and Briana 18, run the dairy farm while working off the farm. About a year ago, the boys wanted to get into dairying, so they started milking cows. Now they milk 35 cows and farm 250 acres. The farm has been in the family for 29 years.

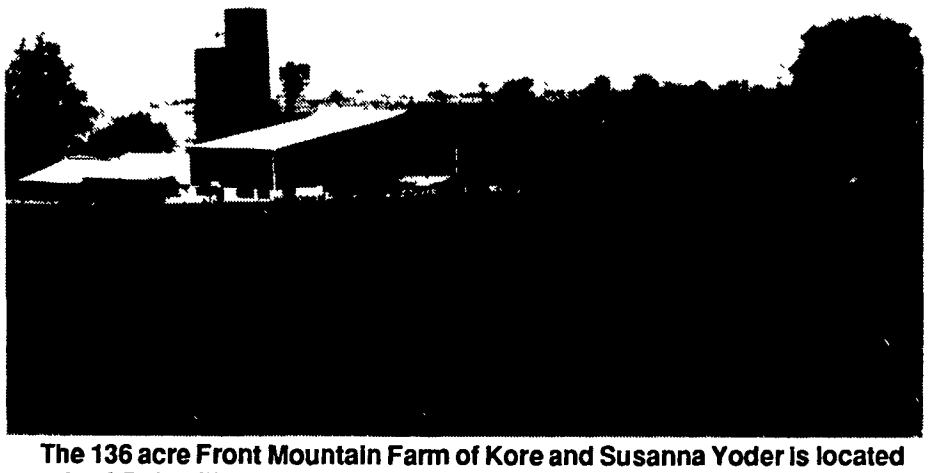
At Hillview Acres, Harold and Marlyn Hill have mostly Guernsey cows along with a few Holsteins. They have a total of 80 head. Herd average is 15,719m 658f 525p. The farm has been in the family for at least three generations. They raise corn, alfalfa, oats and soybeans. The farm is located in Mercer County near Sandy Lake.

Mifflin County



The 136 acre Front Mountain Farm of Kore and Susanna Yoder is located south of Belleville in Mifflin County. They have 140 registered and a few grade Holsteins. The 85 milking cows average 19,800. The family is the third generation to live on the farm.

Montour County

David Beachel, Sr., and his wife Linda and their four sons farm over 400 acres to raise grain and roughage for their nearly 200 head of registered and grade Holsteins. While not on official test, the herd of 90 milk cows averages 20,000m. The farm has been in the family for 26 years. The Beachel sons who work on the farm are David Jr., 24, with wife Joy and grandson Colten; Denis 16; Douglas, 14; and Dallas, 9.

Schuylkill County

The Kur-Da farm of Harry and Fern Kurtz is located east of Pine Grove in Schuylkill County. A family farm by any description, the Kurtzes have four children and sixteen grand- children. As each grandchild becomes old enough to be in 4-H, he or she receives a calf and all the responsibilities of care and showing that go with it. This year 12 grandchildren have animals to take to the county fair in the fall. At last count, they expect to have 69 animals in the dairy show while last year they only had 62 animals at the show.

The Kurtzes farm 250 acres and have a mixed herd that averages 19,800 lbs. of milk. While the herd is mostly Holstein, some of the grandchildren like cows of color; therefore the mixed herd.

Snyder County

The Risser family is involved in a partnership on the Romeado dairy farm located near Middleburg in Snyder County. The farming operation includes Roy and Dorothy and their sons and daughter-in-laws, Samuel and Nancy and Leslie and Ruth. Samuel and Nancy have three children, Jessica 9; Jed 6; and Janelle, 4. Leslie and Ruth have one child, Rachael, 8. They farm 300 acres and have 150 Holsteins. The family moved from Lancaster County in the 1960s and they formed the partnership in 1976.

Somerset County

Three hundred tillable acres comprise the Dairy of Distinction Farm Knepper Acres, operated by Royal and Faye Knepper in Markleton, Somerset Co. The Kneppers, together with two sons, Keith, 39 and Kerry, 32, milk 90 head of registered and grade Holsteins and maintain about 70 young stock. Milking times are 4 a.m. and 4 p.m. through a freestall and milking parlor to pipeline. "The farm is pretty well kept," said Royal Knepper. "My wife gardens and keeps everything looking nice." The Kneppers raise corn, alfalfa, mixed hay, and oats. A computer feeder is used to mix the TMR. The operation includes two separate farms, one which Royal and Faye purchased 35 years ago and also Royal's father's farm, in the family 65 years. Royal is the PFA insurance regional sales director for a 14-county area, and said that the family "tries to keep a nice, neat place. We believe that the product should be made with attractive surroundings."

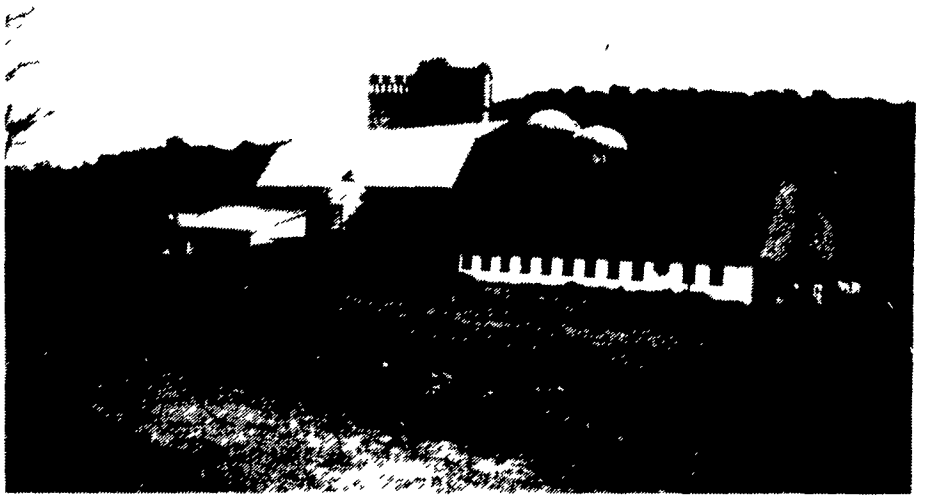
Susquehanna County

For twenty years, Roy and Louise Noble, Springville, in Susquehanna County have milked cows. But their operation is unique in that they purchase everything from feed to replacements. They milk 140 Holsteins and farm 90 acres.



The registered Holstein dairy farm of Peasedale is located east of New Milford in Susquehanna County. The Peases have a partnership with Dad Donald and Sons, Mark and Lloyd. They milk 80 cows and have a total of 160 dairy animals in their herd. The average milk production is 21,500 and they have six cows classified excellent and 30 very good. They are well known for their show cows and have exported animals and embryos through the Pennsylvania Holstein Association to China, Japan and France.

Willi and Lili Reuss with their son Kevin farm 232 acres in Susquehanna County near Harford. They have 59 Holsteins on the farm that has been in the family for 25 years. The Reusses credit their German background as the reason they like to keep things clean and neat around their farm.

Here's what farmers are saying about Fertrell's Rumi-cult 40, a bacterial aid fortified with electrolytes, vitamins, amino acids, and blood builders specially formulated for high producing cows under stress.

"Previous digestive problems are what prompted us to try Fertrell's Rumi-cult. The rumi-cult solved the problems! We then joined the Fertrell feeding program and have had no serious vet problems since This program has been more profitable than any other we've been on."

Max Reapsome
Loysville, PA

"We starting using Fertrell's Rumi-Cult 40 in June of 1987 and have been very happy with the results Their knowledge about nutrition has helped us immensely I appreciate the honest straightforward approach to helping us increase and maintain our butterfat We place a great deal of trust in the knowledge of their nutritionist Dave Mattocks

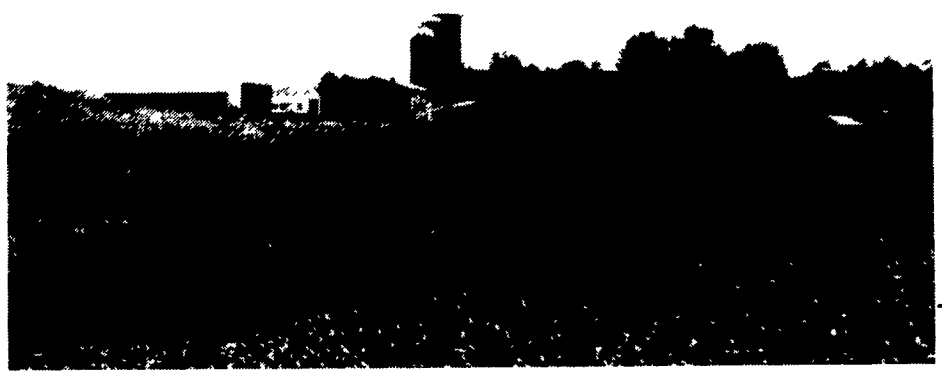
Union County

The Lime Ridge Farm of Kenneth and Anna Mae Shuck lies west of Mifflinburg in Union County. They have 150 acres, of which 140 are tillable. The farm was purchased in 1953. The registered and grade Holstein herd of 42 milk cows has an average of 18,000m. The Shucks have a pipeline milking system and have both tie stalls and free stalls to house the herd.

Warren County

James Leofsky and his wife, Leslie, together with seven kids keep this 300-acre dairy in Spring Creek, Warren Co. farm robust and profitable. They milk 48 head of registered Holsteins at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. out of a stanchion to a milking pipeline. The herd average, because of the heat and slow pasturing, has not been up to expectations, and the cows tend to stay inside during the hot weather, so they've been feeding them hay in the barn. They grow all their corn. The hay is tested by a nutritionist twice a month. The family, including James II, 27; Steven, 26; Gary, 23; Mark, 21; Julie, 17; Jennifer, 13; and Kristy, 10, all work on the farm, which has been in the family about 70 years. The family recently built a swimming pool, which was difficult to do, said Leslie, because of the hilly area. She says the family farm on the hill "is really beautiful, and people come from miles to see it." The Leofskys enjoy time with their four grandchildren.



Westmoreland County

Edward and Deborah Sapinsky farm where grandfather bought in 1903. The farm is located near Smithton in Westmoreland County.

They farm 300 acres and milk 80 Holsteins that average 18,000 lbs. of milk. The milk in a Double 5 milking parlor and feed haylage and corn silage. The also raise a little small grain to rotate the crops. The Sapinsky children are Laura, Lisa, and David.

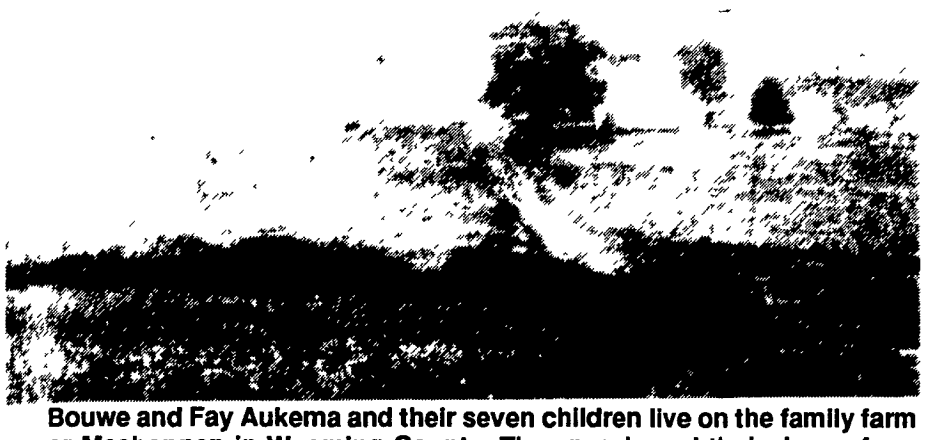
Wyoming County



Bouwe and Fay Aukema and their seven children live on the family farm near Meshoppen in Wyoming County. They purchased their dream farm four years ago. They farm 230 acres and milk 83 cows and have the normal additional young stock. The herd prefix is Bo-Duka's Dairy.

Roy Greenley bought his farm near Tunkhannock in Wyoming County when he was in high school in 1939. His grandfather thought he should be a farmer so that's how he got started. Now, Roy and his wife Ruth have 39 Ayrshires with production at 16,000m and 607f. The farm has 145 acres. Ruth takes care of the flowers and the lawn.

York County

Sinking Springs Farms in York County is operated by Martin Grey. The 70 registered Holsteins have a classification BAA of 104.5 that includes 3 Excellent and 28 Very Good. Production herd average is 22,820m 844f 708p. The family farm was purchased in 1938 and is now incorporated. They milk in a tie stall barn with pipeline milkers and have recently installed a 585,000 gal. manure storage system. They have done extensive conservation work on their farm land.

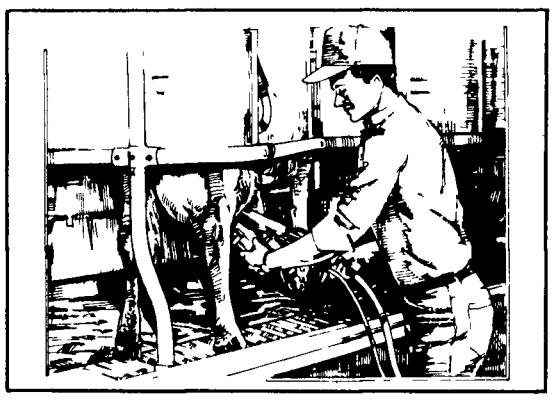
Congratulations To This Year's Dairy Of Distinction Winners



The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council is proud to be one of the founders of the Dairy of Distinction program in Pennsylvania. Clean, attractive farms are one of the basics in dairy promotion, helping project a positive image to consumers. We encourage all Dairy of Distinction recipients to continue doing their part on behalf of dairy promotion.
